PREFACE.

Much history of importance was made in 1905. On the very first day of the year Port Arthur fell after one of the most sanguinary sieges on record. Then followed the battle of Mukden, unparalleled for time consumed, length of lines, number of men engaged and casualties. To cap the climax the navy, and with it the sea power, of Russia was almost annihilated by Admiral Togo in the battle of the Sea of Japan. This virtually put an end to a war remarkable alike for the gigantic scale on which it was conducted and for the results achieved. The place of Russia as the predominating power in a large part of the far east was taken by Japan and new lines had to be drawn by the map-makers of the world. The fact that the president of the United States was instrumental in bringing about peace was also of great historical significance.

Another development of far-reaching importance was the progress made toward the substitution of a constitutional for an autocratic form of government in Russia. The struggle for liberty was continued throughout the whole year and was attended by scenes of bloodshed and destruction that shocked the civilized world.

Still another event of international importance was the dissolution of the union under one king of Norway and Sweden. Each nation is now independent of the other, having its own king, cabinet and representatives in foreign countries.

Concerning these and many other happenings of 1905 the facts will be found briefly recorded in the following pages. An effort has been made to confine the narrative to such data as may be most frequently needed for reference and it is with that end in view that the chronology has been made as complete and accurate as possible under the circumstances.

While foreign affairs have necessarily received much attention, those of the United States have not been neglected. Even more than the usual amount of space has been given to the statistical, political, educational and other affairs of the nation. The same may be said of matters more directly concerning the state of Illinois and the city of Chicago. The Chicago Daily News Almanac and Year-Book for 1906 is therefore offered with the hope that it will be found a useful and reliable book of reference for men and women in all parts of the country.

WEATHER FORECASTS AND SIGNALS.

The weather bureau of the United States department of agriculture publishes daily more than 100,000 weather bulletins, not counting the forecasts in the newspapers. Most of these bulletins are in the form of postal cards printed by postmasters from telegraphic reports and sent by them to outlying towns for display at suitable points. There is also an elaborate system of redistribution by means of telephones and railroads from established centers, so that there are comparatively few accessible places which do not now receive daily weather forecasts within a very short time after the observers have completed their work. The old system of conveying information about the weather by means of flag displays is also in general use.

EXPLANATION OF WEATHER FLAGS.

No. 1.
White flag.

Clear or fair weather.

No. 2.
Blue flag.

Rain or snow.

No. 3.
White and blue flag.

Local rain or snow.

No. 4.
Black triangular flag.

Temperature.

No. 5.
White flag with black square in center.

Cold wave.

When No. 4 is placed above No. 1, 2 or 3 it indicates warmer; when below, colder; when not displayed, the temperature is expected to remain about stationary. During the late spring and early fall the cold-wave flag is also used to indicate anticipated frosts.

EXPLANATION OF STORM-WARNING FLAGS.

Northwest winds. Southwest winds. Northeast winds. Southeast winds. "Hurricane" signal.

A red flag with a black center indicates that a storm of marked violence is expected. The pennants displayed with the flags indicate the direction of the wind: Red, easterly (from northeast to south); white, westerly (from southwest to north). The pennant above the flag indicates that the wind is expected to blow from the northerly quadrants; below, from southerly quadrants.

By night a red light indicates easterly winds and a white light above a red light westerly winds.

Two red flags, with black centers, displayed one above the other, indicate the expected approach of tropical hurricanes, and also of those extremely severe and dangerous storms which occasionally move across the lakes and northern Atlantic coast. Hurricane warnings are not displayed at night.

THERMOMETERS COMPARED.

There are three kinds of thermometers, with varying scales, in general use throughout the world—the Fahrenheit, Reaumur and Centigrade. The freezing and boiling points on their scales compare as follows:

Thermometer.	Freezing pt.	Boiling pt.
Fahrenheit	32 degrees	212 degrees
Reaumur	zero	80 degrees
Centigrade	zero	100 degrees

The degrees on one scale are reduced to their equivalents on another by these formulas:

Fahrenheit to Reaumur—Subtract 32, multiply by four-ninths.

Fahrenheit to Centigrade—Subtract 32, multiply by five-ninths.

Reaumur to Fahrenheit—Multiply by nine-fourths, add 32.

Reaumur to Centigrade—Multiply by five-fourths.

Centigrade to Fahrenheit—Multiply by nine-fifths, add 32.

Centigrade to Reaumur—Multiply by four-fifths.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARIES.

First—Cotton.
Second—Paper.
Third—Leather.
Fifth—Wooden.
Seventh—Woolen.

Tenth—Tin.
Twelfth—Silk and fine linen.
Fifteenth—Crystal.
Twentieth—China.
Twenty-fifth—Silver.

Thirtieth—Pearl.
Fortieth—Ruby.
Fiftieth—Golden.
Seventy-fifth—Diamond.

WEIGHTS OF DIAMONDS AND FINENESS OF GOLD.

The weight of diamonds and other precious stones is expressed in carats, grains and quarter-grains. The grains are pearl grains, one of which is equal to four-fifths of a troy grain. Four quarter-grains make one grain and four grains make one carat. A carat is therefore equal to four-fifths of four troy grains, or 3.2.

The fineness of gold is also expressed in carats. Pure gold is said to be twenty-four carats fine. If it contains eight parts of a baser metal or alloy it is only sixteen carats fine. The carats therefore indicate the proportion of pure gold to alloy. Most of the gold used by jewelers is about fourteen carats fine, having ten parts of alloy.

Cards must not be changed or mutilated in any way and no printing or writing other than the address is allowable on the address side. "Private mailing cards" (post cards) require 1 cent postage. These cards must conform in shape and quality and weight of paper used to the cards issued by the government. Each card must be an unfolded piece of cardboard not exceeding 3 9-16 by 5 9-16 inches, nor less than 2 15-16 by 4 7/8 inches, and must bear at the top of the address side the words "Post Card." Advertisements and illustrations may be printed on either side provided they do not interfere with the distinctness of the address or postmark.

Among the articles requiring first-class postage are blank forms filled out in writing; certificates, checks and receipts filled out in writing; copy (manuscript or type-written) unaccompanied by proof sheets; plans and drawings containing written words, letters or figures; price lists containing written figures changing individual items; old letters sent singly or in bulk; typewritten matter and manifold copies thereof, and stenographic notes.

Write or print your name and address, and the contents, if a package, upon the upper left-hand corner of all mail matter. This will insure the immediate return of all first-class matter to you for correction, if improperly addressed or insufficiently paid; and if it is not called for at destination it can be returned to you without going to the dead-letter office. If a letter, it will be returned free. Undelivered second, third and fourth class matter will not be forwarded or returned without a new prepayment of postage. When a return card appears on this matter either the sender or addressee is requested to send the postage. Register all valuable letters and packages.

THE HOMESTEAD LAW.

Any person who is the head of a family, or who is 21 years old and is a citizen of the United States, or has filed his declaration of intention to become such, and who is not the proprietor of more than 160 acres of land in any state or territory, is entitled to enter one-quarter section (160 acres) or less quantity of unappropriated public land under the homestead laws. The applicant must make affidavit that he is entitled to the privileges of the homestead act and that the entry is made for his exclusive use and for actual settlement and cultivation, and must pay the legal fee and that part of the commissions required, as follows: Fee for 160 acres, $10; commission, $4 to $12; fee for eighty acres, $5; commission, $2 to $6. Within six months from the date of entry the settler must take up his residence upon the land and cultivate the same for five years continuously. At the expiration of this period, or within two years thereafter, proof of residence and cultivation must be established by four witnesses. The proof of settlement, with the certificate of the register of the land office, is forwarded to the general land office at Washington, from which a patent is issued. Final proof cannot be made until the expiration of five years from date of entry, and must be made within seven years. The government recognizes no sale of a homestead claim. After the expiration of fourteen months from date of entry the law allows the homesteader to secure title to the tract, if so desired, by paying for it in cash and making proof of settlement, residence and cultivation for that period.

The law allows only one homestead privilege to any one person.

APPLICATIONS FOR PATENTS.

[Condensed from Rules of Practice

A patent may be obtained by any person who has invented or discovered any new and useful art, machine, manufacture or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof not previously patented or described in this or any other country, or more than two years prior to his application, unless the same is proved to have been abandoned. A patent may also be obtained for any new design for a manufacture, bust, statue, alto-relievo or bas-relief; for the printing of woolen, silk or other fabrics; for any new impression, ornament, pattern, print or picture to be placed on or woven into any article of manufacture; and for any new, useful and original shape or configuration of any article of manufacture, upon payment of fees and taking the other necessary steps.

Applications for patents must be in writing, in the English language and signed by the inventor if alive. The application must include the first fee of $15, a petition, specification and oath, and drawings, model or specimen when required. The petition must be addressed to the commissioner of patents and must give the name and full address of the applicant, must designate by title the invention sought to be patented, must contain a reference to the specification for a full disclosure of such invention and must be signed by the applicant.

The specification must contain the following in the order named: Name and residence of the applicant with title of invention; a general statement of the object and nature of the invention; a brief description of the several views of the drawings (if the invention admits of such illustration); a detailed description; claim or claims; signature of inventor and signatures of two witnesses. Claims for a machine and its product and claims for a machine and the process in the performance of which the machine is used must be presented in separate applications, but claims for a process and its product may be presented in the same application.

The applicant, if the inventor, must make oath or affirmation that he believes himself to be the first inventor or discoverer of that which he seeks to have patented. The oath or affirmation must also state of what country he is a citizen and where he resides. In every original application the applicant must swear or affirm that the invention has not been patented to himself or to others with his knowledge or consent in this or any foreign country for more than two years prior to his application, or on an application for a patent filed in any foreign country by himself or his legal representatives or assigns more than seven months prior to his application. If application has been made in any foreign country full and explicit details must be given. The oath or affirmation may be made before any one who is authorized by the laws of his country to administer oaths.

Drawings must be on white paper with India ink and the sheets must be exactly 10x15 inches in size with a margin of one inch. They must show all details clearly and without the use of superfluous lines.

Applications for reissues must state why the original patent is believed to be defective and tell precisely how the errors were made. These applications must be accompanied by the original patent and an offer to surrender the same; or, if the original be lost, by an affidavit to that effect and certified copy of the patent. Every applicant whose claims have been twice rejected for the same reasons may appeal from the primary examiners to the examiners in chief upon the payment of a fee of $10.

The duration of patents is for seventeen years except in the case of design patents, which may be for three and a half, seven or fourteen years as the inventor may elect.

Caveats or notices given to the patent office of claims to inventions to prevent the issue of patents to other persons upon the same invention, without notice to the caveators, may be filed upon the payment of a fee of $10. Caveats must contain the same information as applications for patents.

UNITED STATES CIVIL SERVICE.

Civil-service act approved Jan. 16, 1883.

Officers—Three commissioners are appointed by the president to assist him in classifying the government offices and positions, formulating rules and enforcing the law. Their office is in Washington, D. C. The chief examiner is appointed by the commissioners to secure accuracy, uniformity and justice in the proceedings of the examining boards. The secretary to the commission is appointed by the president.

General Rules—The fundamental rules governing appointments to government positions are found in the civil-service act itself. Based upon these are many other regulations formulated by the commission and promulgated by the president from time to time as new contingencies arise. The present rules were approved March 20, 1903, and went into effect April 15, 1903. In a general way they require that there must be free, open examinations of applicants for positions in the public service; that appointments shall be made from those graded highest in the examinations; that appointments to the service in Washington shall be apportioned among the states and territories according to population; that there shall be a period (six months) of probation before any absolute appointment is made; that no person in the public service is for that reason obliged to contribute to any political fund or is subject to dismissal for refusing to so contribute; that no person in the public service has any right to use his official authority or influence to coerce the political action of any person. Applicants for positions shall not be questioned as to their political or religious beliefs and no discrimination shall be exercised against or in favor of any applicant or employee on account of his religion or politics. The classified civil service shall include all officers and employees in the executive civil service of the United States except laborers and persons whose appointments are subject to confirmation by the senate.

Examinations—These are conducted by boards of examiners chosen from among persons in government employ and are held twice a year in all the states and territories at convenient places. In Illinois, for example, they are usually held at Cairo, Chicago and Peoria. The dates are announced through the newspapers or by other means. They can always be learned by applying to the commission or to the nearest postoffice or custom house. Those who desire to take examination are advised to write to the commission in Washington for the "Manual of Examinations," which is sent free to all applicants. It is revised semiannually to Jan. 1 and July 1. The January edition contains a schedule of the spring examinations and the July edition contains a schedule of the fall examinations. Full information is given as to the methods and rules governing examinations, manner of making application, qualifications required, regulations for rating examination papers, certification for and chances of appointment, and as far as possible it outlines the scope of the different subjects of general and technical examinations. These are practical in character and are designed to test the relative capacity and fitness to discharge the duties to be performed. It is necessary to obtain an average percentage of 70 to be eligible for appointment, except that applicants entitled to preference because of honorable discharge from the military or naval service for disability resulting from wounds or sickness incurred in the line of duty need obtain but 65 per cent. The period of eligibility is one year.

Qualifications of Applicants—No person will be examined who is not a citizen of the United States; who is not within the age limitations prescribed; who is physically disqualified for the service which he seeks; who has been guilty of criminal, infamous, dishonest or disgraceful conduct; who has been dismissed from the public service for delinquency and misconduct or has failed to receive absolute appointment after probation; who is addicted to the habitual use of intoxicating liquors to excess, or who has made a false statement in his application. The age limitations in the more important branches of the public service are: Postoffice, 18 to 45 years; rural letter carriers, 17 to 55; internal revenue, 21 years and over; railway mail, 18 to 35; lighthouse, 18 to 50; life saving, 18 to 45; general departmental, 20 and over. These age limitations are subject to change by the commission. They do not apply to applicants of the preferred class. Applicants for the position of railway mail clerk must be at least 5 feet 6 inches in height, exclusive of boots or shoes, and weigh not less than 135 pounds in ordinary clothing and have no physical defects. Applicants for certain other positions have to come up to similar physical requirements.

Method of Appointment—Whenever a vacancy exists the appointing officer makes requisition upon the civil-service commission for a certification of names to fill the vacancy, specifying the kind of position vacant, the sex desired and the salary. The commission thereupon takes from the proper register of eligibles the names of the three persons standing highest of the sex called for and certifies them to the appointing officer, who is required to make the selection. He may choose any one of the three names, returning the other two to the register to await further certification. The time of examination is not considered, as the highest in average percentage on the register must be certified first. If after a probationary period of six months the name of the appointee is continued on the roll of the department in which he serves the appointment is considered absolute.

Removals—No person can be removed from a competitive position except for such cause as will promote the efficiency of the public service and for reasons given in writing. No examination of witnesses nor any trial shall be required except in the discretion of the officer making the removal.

Salaries—Entrance to the departmental service is usually in the lowest grades, the higher grades being generally filled by promotion. The usual entrance grade is about $900, but the applicant may be appointed at $840, $760 or even $600.

FASTEST RAILROAD RUNS.

The fastest long-distance trains in the world are those making the run between Chicago and New York in eighteen hours. The Pennsylvania road maintains an average speed of 50.3 miles an hour for 905.4 miles and the New York Central 53.3 miles an hour for 959.4 miles. The trains between Philadelphia and Atlantic City are scheduled to run at average speeds of 66.6 to 68.1 miles an hour, but frequently go at a rate of eighty miles an hour. The same speed has been made on the Great Western and other English roads. One of the fastest long-distance runs on record was that made by a Lake Shore train between Chicago and Buffalo June 13, 1905. The distance of 526 miles was made in 453 minutes. Deducting time for stops, the average speed was 70.9 miles an hour.

DEATH OF SECRETARY JOHN HAY.

John Hay, secretary of state, died suddenly early Saturday morning, July 1, 1905, at his summer residence at Newbury, N. H. He had been ill for several months and had recently returned from a trip to Europe with his health apparently restored. His breakdown was caused by overwork in the state department, especially in connection with developments growing out of the Russo-Japanese war and the Venezuelan trouble. At Bad Neuheim in Germany he was treated by Prof. Groedel, an eminent specialist, and when he left there he was hopeful of complete recovery, even up to the day before he died. He was buried in Lakeview cemetery, Cleveland, O., July 5. Only his family, President Roosevelt and members of the McKinley cabinet were present.

CENTER OF POPULATION AND ITS MEDIAN POINT.

The center of population is the center of gravity of the population of the country, each individual being assumed to have the same weight. What is known as the median point is the point of intersection of the line dividing the population equally north and south with the line dividing it equally east and west. The center of population in 1900 was at a point six miles southeast of Columbus, Ind., or north latitude 39 degrees and 9.5 minutes and west longitude 85 degrees 48.9 minutes. The median point in 1900 was at Spartanburg, Ind., or latitude 40 degrees 4 minutes and 22 seconds and longitude 84 degrees 51 minutes and 29 seconds.

The center of area of the United States, excluding Alaska and Hawaii and other recent accessions, is in northern Kansas, in approximate latitude 39 degrees 55 minutes and approximate longitude 98 degrees 50 minutes. The center of population is therefore about three-fourths of a degree south and more than thirteen degrees east of the center of area.

GROSS AREA OF THE UNITED STATES.

Including Alaska, Hawaii, Porto Rico and the Philippine Islands, the gross area (land and water surface) of the United States is approximately 3,622,933 square miles. Excluding Alaska and the islands named, the gross area at each census from 1790 to 1900 compares as follows:

*Exclusive of Alaska and Hawaii.

Area of Porto Rico is approximately 3,600 and of the Philippine islands 114,000 square miles (land and water, 832,968).

NOTE—The areas as given above were computed under the direction of Henry Gannett, geographer of the United States geological survey, for the census office. In some cases the figures vary from those given by the general land office, but they are believed to be as nearly correct as possible. In the case of states bordering on the great lakes the water surface of the latter has been included in the computation of areas by the land office and excluded by Mr. Gannett. This will account in large measure for the apparent discrepancies.

IMMIGRATION LAW OF THE UNITED STATES.

Approved March 4, 1903.

The act codifies and amends the existing immigration laws. It raises the poll tax on aliens from $1 to $2, whether they arrive by sea or land, but exempts citizens of Canada, Cuba and Mexico. The tax is not levied on aliens in transit through the United States nor upon such as have been admitted into the country before and have already paid the tax. The money collected from this source is to go into the national treasury and constitute a permanent fund for defraying the expenses of regulating immigration.

The following classes are excluded from admission into the United States: Idiots.

insane persons, epileptics and persons who have been insane five years previous; paupers and persons likely to become public charges; persons afflicted with dangerous and contagious diseases; felons, polygamists, anarchists or persons who believe in or advocate the overthrow by force or violence of the government of the United States or of all governments or of all forms of law, or the assassination of public officials; prostitutes; those who have been, within one year from the date of application for admission, deported as being under agreement or contract to perform labor or service of some kind; all assisted immigrants unless it is affirmatively shown that they do not belong to any of the foregoing classes; but this section shall not be held to prevent persons living in the United States from sending for a relative or friend who is not of the excluded classes. Persons convicted of purely political offenses are not excluded.

It is provided that skilled labor may be imported if labor of like kind unemployed cannot be found in this country. The provisions of the law applicable to contract labor do not exclude professional actors, artists, lecturers, singers, ministers of any religious denomination, professors for colleges or seminaries, persons belonging to any recognized learned profession or persons employed strictly as personal or domestic servants. The time within which persons landed in violation of law, or who shall become public charges, may be deported is extended from one to two and three years.

In five states in 1892 the electoral vote was divided: California gave 8 electoral votes for Cleveland and 1 for Harrison and Ohio gave 1 for Cleveland and 22 for Harrison; in Michigan, by act of the legislature, each congressional district voted separately for an elector; in Oregon 1 of the 4 candidates for electors on the people's party ticket was also on the democratic ticket; in North Dakota 1 of the 2 people's party electors cast his vote for Cleveland, this causing the electoral vote of the state to be equally divided between Cleveland, Harrison and Weaver. In 1896 California gave 8 electoral votes to McKinley and 1 to Bryan; Kentucky gave 12 to McKinley and 1 to Bryan. In Maryland in 1904 seven of the presidential electors chosen were democrats and one republican.

PRESBYTERIAN GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

The general assembly of the presbyterian church was held at Winona Lake, Ind., May 19-27, 1905. The Rev. James D. Moffat was chosen moderator. On May 22 the assembly, without a dissenting vote, declared for union with the Cumberland presbyterian church on the doctrinal basis of confession of faith of the presbyterian church in the United States of America, as revised in 1903, and of its other doctrines and ecclesiastical standards, the scriptures of the old and new testaments to be acknowledged as the inspired word of God and the only infallible rule of practice. The Cumberland church took similar action at its general assembly. At the meeting of the southern presbyterian church in May the committee on federation with other branches of the church was continued for another year, but the general sentiment seemed to be against union.

RELIGIONS OF THE WORLD.

According to the revised (1898) edition of Mulhall's Dictionary of Statistics there are 476,100,000 Christians and 654,200,000 non-Christians in the world. The same authority places the number of Roman catholics in Europe, America and Australia at 223,090,000; protestants, 157,050,000, and Greeks, 88,660,000. It has been estimated that there are in the world 256,000,000 followers of Confucius, 190,000,000 Hindoos, 148,000,000 Buddhists, 118,000,000 polytheists, 43,000,000 Taoists, 14,000,000 Shintoists and 12,000,000 Jews. THE MONROE DOCTRINE.

The famous "Monroe doctrine" was enunciated by President Monroe in his message to congress Dec. 2, 1823. Referring to steps taken to arrange the respective rights of Russia, Great Britain and the United States on the northwest coast of this continent, the president went on to say:

"In the discussions to which this interest has given rise, and in the arrangements by which they may terminate, the occasion has been deemed proper for asserting, as a principle in which the rights and interests of the United States are involved, that the American continents, by the free and independent condition which they have assumed and maintain, are henceforth not to be considered as subjects for future colonization by any European power. * * * We owe it, therefore, to candor and to the amicable relations existing between the United States and those powers to declare that we should consider any attempt on their part to extend their system to any portion of this hemisphere as dangerous to our peace and safety. With the existing colonies or dependencies of any European power we have not interfered and shall not interfere. But with the governments who have declared their independence and maintain it, and whose independence we have, on great consideration and on just principles, acknowledged, we could not view any interposition for the purpose of oppressing them or controlling in any other manner their destiny by any European power in any other light than as the manifestation of an unfriendly disposition toward the United States."

ADMIRAL JOHN PAUL JONES BURIED IN AMERICA.

Chiefly through the efforts of Gen. Horace Porter, United States ambassador to France, the remains of Admiral John Paul Jones were found and identified in the old St. Louis cemetery in Paris, France, April 14, 1905. Preparations were at once made to remove the body to the United States and a naval convoy consisting of the Brooklyn, Chattanooga, Galveston and Tacoma, commanded by Admiral Sigbee, was sent to France. The transfer was made in Paris July 6 with simple ceremonies. Assistant Secretary of State Francis B. Loomis on behalf of the United States received the body, which, escorted by 500 American sailors and a number of French troops, was conveyed to the railroad station and thence to Cherbourg, where it was placed on board the Brooklyn. On its arrival in America July 24 it was placed in a vault on the grounds of the naval academy at Annapolis, Md. Admiral Jones died in Paris July 13, 1792. His body was embalmed, placed in a leaden coffin and buried in the St. Louis cemetery. The growth of the city caused this to fall into disuse and in course of time buildings were erected upon the graves. The records were lost and the exact location of the last resting place of the American naval hero became a matter of dispute.

With this statement shall be filed a drawing of the trade-mark, signed by the applicant or his attorney, and such number of specimens of the trade-mark as may be required by the

ARCTIC AND ANTARCTIC EXPLORATION.

Two events of interest in the history of polar exploration occurred in 1905. One was the departure of Commander Robert E. Peary on another expedition to the arctic regions and the other was the rescue of the members of the Ziegler-Fiala expedition, from which nothing had been heard since July, 1903. Peary, who sailed from New York July 16, had under his command a new steamer, the Roosevelt, especially constructed for work in ice-incumbered seas. Though he got a later start than he had planned, he hoped to get as far north as latitude 83, off the most northerly point of Grant Land, before he was frozen in. In February, 1906, if the conditions are favorable, he will start on a sledge journey toward the pole. Those who accompanied him included among others Dr. Louis James Wolf, surgeon; Ross E. Martin, surveyor; George Wardell, chief engineer; George Percy, steward, and his negro servant, Matt Henzer.

The steamer America, which conveyed the Ziegler-Fiala expedition to the vicinity of Franz Josef Land in 1903, was wrecked in Neplitz bay the following winter, but no lives were lost. All of the members of the party except one, who died a natural death, were rescued by the steamer Terra Nova, sent out by William Ziegler in the spring of 1905. They reached Honningsvaag, Norway, Aug. 10. The highest point reached was 82 degrees 13 minutes. Mr. Ziegler died May 24, 1905, but it is expected that his adopted son and heir will carry out his exploration plans.

The duke of Orleans entered the list of arctic explorers in 1905. He sailed in the Belgica, commanded by Lieut. de Gerlache, May 6 from Christiania, Norway. The purpose of the expedition is said to be mainly scientific. It is expected that Jan Meyen, East Greenland and Franz Josef Land will be visited.

The record of the principal polar expeditions since 1871 stands:

THE SIMPLON TUNNEL COMPLETED.

The boring of the Simplon tunnel, the fourth of the great Alpine tunnels and the second between Switzerland and Italy, was completed Friday, Feb. 24, 1905. It was begun in August, 1898, and was built by the two governments named. The total cost was about $13,500,000. The total length of this great tunnel from the point where it enters the solid rock on the one side to the point of issue on the other is exactly 12 miles and 458 yards, of which a little over 7 miles is in Italian territory. The St. Gothard tunnel is 9 miles and 564 yards long, the Mont Cenis a few yards short of 8 miles, and the Arlberg tunnel 6 miles and 404 yards. All these tunnels have double railway tracks and their measurements are: Height, 7 yards; width, 9 yards. Although the Simplon tunnel is so much longer than either the St. Gothard or the Mont Cenis, it was completed in six and a half years, while it took eight years to construct the St. Gothard and twelve years for the Mont Cenis. The difference in favor of the Simplon was due almost entirely to the improved rotating drills now used in tunnel construction.

Signed Aug. 12, 1905.

Preamble.—The governments of Great Britain and Japan, being desirous of replacing the agreement concluded between them Jan. 30, 1902, by fresh stipulations, have agreed upon the following articles, which have for their object:

(A) Consolidation and the maintenance of general peace in the regions of eastern Asia and India.

(B) The preservation of the common interests of all powers in China by insuring the independence and integrity of the Chinese empire and the principle of equal opportunities for the commerce and industry of all nations in China.

(C) The maintenance of the territorial rights of the high contracting parties in the regions of eastern Asia and of India and the defense of their special interests in the said regions.

Article 1. It is agreed that whenever in the opinion either of Great Britain or Japan any of the rights and interests referred to in the preamble to this agreement are in jeopardy the two governments will communicate with one another fully and frankly and will consider in common the measures which should be taken to safeguard those menaced rights or interests.

Art. 2. Should either of the high contracting parties be involved in war in defense of its territorial rights or special interests the other party will at once come to the assistance of its ally and both parties will conduct a war in common and make peace in mutual agreement with any power or powers involved in such war.

Art. 3. Japan possessing paramount political, military and economic interests in Korea, Great Britain recognizes Japan's right to take such measures for the guidance, control and protection of Korea as she may deem proper and necessary to safeguard and advance those interests, providing the measures so taken are not contrary to the principle of equal opportunities for the commerce and industry of all nations.

Art. 4. Great Britain having a special interest in all that concerns the security of the Indian frontier, Japan recognizes her right to take such measures in the proximity of that frontier as she may find necessary for safeguarding her Indian possessions.

Art. 5. The high contracting parties agree that neither will without consulting the other enter into a separate arrangement with another power to the prejudice of the objects described in the preamble.

Art. 6. As regards the present war between Japan and Russia, Great Britain will continue to maintain strict neutrality unless some other power or powers join in hostilities against Japan, in which case Great Britain will come to the assistance of Japan, will conduct war in common and will make peace in mutual agreement with Japan.

Art. 7. The conditions under which armed assistance shall be afforded by either power to the other in the circumstances mentioned in the present agreement and the means by which such assistance shall be made available will be arranged by the naval and military authorities of the contracting parties, who will from time to time consult with each other freely on all questions of mutual interest.

Art. 8. The present agreement shall be subject to the provisions of Art. 6 and come into effect immediately after the date of signature and remain in force ten years from that date in case neither of the parties shall have been notified twelve months before the expiration of said ten years of an intention of terminating it. It shall remain binding until the expiration of one year from the day on which either of the parties shall have denounced it, but if, when the date for the expiration arrives, either ally is actually engaged in war, the alliance shall be ipso facto and continue until peace shall have been concluded.

NORWEGIAN-SWEDISH UNION DISSOLVED.

The union existing between Norway and Sweden since 1814 was formally dissolved by action of the storting or parliament of Norway June 7, 1905. For many years the relations of the two nations had been strained to a greater or less degree by differences of opinion as to their relative powers under the convention of Aug. 14, 1814, and the rigsakt of Aug. 6, 1815. Many Swedes asserted that Norway was ceded by Denmark to Sweden by the treaty of Kiel, Jan. 14, 1814, and that constitutionally Norway belonged to Sweden. On the other hand, the Norwegians held that there was nothing in the fundamental law of either nation in the nature of a treaty or union and that each was an independent country except that both had the same king and that certain powers were exercised jointly in accordance with the stipulations of the rigsakt of 1815. Norway, they said, did not enter the union as a conquered people, but by the consent of duly elected representatives of a free people, this being made clear by the paragraphs of the constitution, as amended by the act of union, which declare: "The kingdom of Norway shall be a free, independent, indivisible and inalienable kingdom, united with Sweden under one king. Its form of government shall be a limited and hereditary monarchy."

The appointment and control of consuls to foreign countries became a source of trouble as long ago as 1834 and, while differences of opinion arose as to a number of other matters, it remained to the last the chief subject of dispute. It was accentuated in 1885 when the Swedish prime minister obtained control of the foreign affairs of both nations in spite of the contention of the Norwegians that the king alone had a right to act in such matters. From time to time efforts were made to arrive at an agreement and joint committees were appointed to consider the question of Norway's demand for a separate consular system. One of these committees in July, 1902, recommended that there should be separate consular services for both countries and that the relations of the consuls to the foreign ministers should be arranged by laws not to be repealed without the consent of the Norwegian and Swedish executives. This recommendation met with favor, but in 1904 the Swedish premier raised a number of points which the Norwegians could not accept. He insisted that the foreign minister should have a veto on the appointment of consuls and that his authority over them should be supreme. Negotiations were broken off and all parties in Norway united in the formation of a ministry, at the head of which was Christian Michelsen, pledged to carry into effect the demand for a new consular law.

In May, 1905, a committee appointed for that purpose laid before the Norwegian storting a bill for a separate consular system. It was passed almost unanimously and was submitted to King Oscar for his approval or rejection. May 28 he returned the bill with his veto. In this he held that the contemplated action must receive the sanction of the mixed council of representatives of both countries. The Norwegian council of state at once resigned, but the king refused to accept the resignations on the ground that it was impossible in view of the state of public opinion in Norway to form a new government. On June 7 the storting of Norway met in Christiania and passed the following resolution:

"Whereas, all the members of the council of state have laid down their offices, and

"Whereas, his majesty the king has declared himself unable to establish a new government for the country, and

"Whereas, the constitutional regal power thus becomes inoperative, the storting authorizes the members of the council of state who retired to-day to exercise until further notice as the Norwegian government the power appertaining to the king, in accordance with Norway's constitution and existing laws, with those changes which are necessitated by the fact that the union with Sweden under one king is dissolved, in consequence of the king having ceased to act as a Norwegian king."

The members of the council of state referred to in the resolution were Peter C. H. K. Michelsen, J. G. Lovland, S. A. B. Arctander, E. H. Bull, H. Bothner, C. Knudsen, A. G. Knudsen, K. Lehmkuhl, C. W. E. B. Olsson and A. H. Vinje.

Simultaneously with the act of dissolution an address was adopted which it was proposed to present to the king. In this was recited the history of the unsatisfactory relations existing between the two nations. It declared that the union entered upon in 1814 had from the first hour been differently interpreted both with regard to its spirit and its letter, and that while the Swedes had made efforts to extend the union, the Norwegians had tried to confine it to the limit laid down by the act of union. It continued: "The union was justified so long as it could contribute to the welfare and happiness of both peoples while maintaining their independence as a sovereign state. But above the union there stand for us Norwegians our Norwegian fatherland, and for the Swedes their Swedish fatherland, while more valuable than the political union are the feelings of solidarity and voluntary cohesion of both peoples. The union has become a danger to this feeling of solidarity of the Norwegian and Swedish peoples which should secure the happiness of both nations and constitute their strength abroad.

"If the union is now severed the Norwegian people have no loftier wish than to live in good harmony with all and not least with the people of Sweden and the dynasty under the direction of which our country, despite many and bitter disputes affecting the union, has attained such important intellectual and material development.

"As evidence of the fact that the work and struggle of the Norwegian people for the full independence of the fatherland has not been founded on any ill-feeling toward the royal house or the Swedish people and has not left behind any bitterness toward either of these, the storting respectfully solicits your majesty's co-operation to the end that a prince of your majesty's house may be permitted, while relinquishing his right of succession to the throne of Sweden, to accept election as king of Norway."

King Oscar resented the action of Norway, refused to accept the address and declined to consider the proposition to place one of his sons on the throne of Norway.

He called a special session of the riksdag of Sweden to consider the situation. The members met June 21 and received from the government a bill asking for authorization to negotiate with the Norwegian storting for the settlement of the questions involved in the separation of the two kingdoms. The bill was referred to a committee supposed to be hostile to separation and it looked for a time as though war might be the outcome of Norway's action. The committee reported July 25 that, while war would be a justifiable measure in restoring the union, yet the maintenance of such a union by force would be a source of weakness instead of strength. Sweden should not, therefore, employ force, but should insist upon Norway asking for permission to dissolve the union. It recommended that the question of separation should be referred to the people of Norway and that in case the vote was in favor of dissolving the union Sweden should insist on certain terms, the most important being the establishment of a neutral zone between the two countries, the razing of certain fortifications on or near the proposed zone, freedom of transit and the release of Sweden from all responsibility for Norway to foreign states. On the same day this report was made the Swedish cabinet resigned. The report was approved by both houses of the Swedish parliament.

Norway's parliament consented to the referendum proposed by Sweden and the balloting took place Aug. 13. The sentiment of the people was shown to be overwhelmingly in favor of separation, 368,200 voting yes and only 184 no. The next step was the appointment of commissioners by both countries to negotiate the conditions of the dissolution of the union. Those for Sweden were: Christian Lundeborg, the premier; Count A. F. Vachtmeister, minister of foreign affairs; M. Staaf, member of the cabinet without portfolio, and M. Hammarskjöld, minister of education and ecclesiastical affairs. For Norway: Premier Michelsen, Foreign Minister Lovland, C. C. Berner, president of the storting, and M. Vogt, former minister of the interior.

The commissioners met at Karlstad, Sweden, Aug. 31, and after protracted negotiations reached an agreement Sept. 23. This provided for compulsory arbitration before The Hague tribunal of all disputes not involving matters of vital interest; the creation of a neutral zone between the two countries; the demolition of all fortifications within this zone except the old portions of the works at Fredriksten, Gydenloev and Overbjerget; freedom of transit across the border and regulations for inter-traffic and the use of common waterways. It was agreed that no extension of the Kongsvinger group of fortifications should be permitted nor should any new forts be erected within ten kilometers of the old fortress of Kongsvinger.

The treaty was ratified by the storting of Norway Oct. 10 and by the riksdag of Sweden Oct. 13.

King Oscar having positively declined to allow one of his sons to occupy the throne of Norway, Prince Charles of Denmark was asked to become a candidate. He consented and was elected king by popular vote Nov. 12 and 13. Those who opposed him were in favor of establishing a republic. On ascending the throne he took the title of Haakon VII.

CANAL OFFICIALS.

The commissioners appointed in 1904 were Rear-Admiral John G. Walker, chairman; Maj.-Gen. George W. Davis, William H. Burr, Benjamin M. Harrod, Carl Ewald Grunsky, Frank I. Hecker and William Barclay Parsons. This commission was found to be unwieldy and unsatisfactory and at the request of President Roosevelt the members handed in their resignations March 29, 1905. April 3 a new commission was named as follows:
 Theodore P. Shonts, chairman.
 Charles E. Magoon, governor.
 John F. Wallace, chief engineer (resigned June 29).
 John F. Stevens, chief engineer.
 Rear-Admiral M. T. Endicott, U. S. N.
 Brig.-Gen. Peter C. Hains, U. S. A., retired.
 Col. Oswald H. Ernst, corps of engineers, U. S. A.
 Benjamin N. Harrod.
 Consulting Engineers (not members of commission)—William H. Burr, William Barclay Parsons.
 Headquarters of Commission—In Panama.
 Salaries—Each member of the commission receives $7,500 a year, with traveling expenses. The chairman is given $22,500 additional, the chief engineer $17,500 additional and the governor of the canal zone $10,000. The head of each department is allowed the use of a furnished house on the isthmus.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENTS.

By order of the president three executive departments were created by Theodore P. Shonts, Charles E. Magoon and John F. Wallace. The head of the first department is chairman of the commission and has direct and immediate charge of:

1. The fiscal affairs of the commission.
2. The purchase and delivery of all material and supplies.
3. The accounts, bookkeeping and audits.
4. The commercial operations in the United States of the Panama railroad and steamship lines.

5. He has charge of the general concerns of the commission subject to the supervision and direction of the secretary of war and performs such other duties as are placed upon him from time to time by the secretary of war.

The head of the second department is the governor of the zone, with the duties and powers indicated in the executive order of May 9, 1904, which includes in general:

1. The administration and enforcement of law in the zone.
2. All matters of sanitation within the canal zone, and also in the cities of Panama and Colon and the harbors, etc., so far as authorized by the treaty, the executive orders and decrees of Dec. 3, 1904, between the United States and the republic of Panama relating thereto.
3. The custody of all supplies needed for sanitary purposes and such construction necessary for sanitary purposes as may be assigned to this department by the commission.
4. Such other duties as he may be charged with from time to time by the secretary of war.
5. He shall reside on the isthmus and devote his entire time to the service, except when granted leave of absence by the secretary of war.

The head of the third department is the chief engineer. He has full charge on the isthmus:

1. Of all the actual work on construction carried on by the commission on the isthmus.
2. The custody of all the supplies and plant of the commission upon the isthmus.
3. The practical operation of the railroad on the isthmus, with the special view to its utilization in canal construction work.
4. He shall reside on the isthmus and devote his entire time to the service except when granted leave of absence by the secretary of war.

While Stevens was appointed chief engineer, he was not made a member of the commission, and the responsibility which had been divided between Wallace and Shonts was all placed upon the latter. The engineering work will be under the immediate supervision of Mr. Stevens but under the general direction of Chairman Shonts.

Lorin C. Collins of Chicago was appointed supreme court judge for the Panama canal zone June 17, 1905.

In September a number of eminent engineers of America and Europe met in Washington, D. C., to make investigations and recommendations as to the type of canal to be built, as it had not been decided whether it should be a sea-level or a lock canal. They visited the isthmus in October for the purpose of looking over the ground in person.

PLAN AND COST OF CANAL.

The canal is to extend from Colon on the Atlantic side to the city of Panama on the Pacific side, a distance of forty-six miles. It is to be deep and wide enough to accommodate the largest ocean vessels. The plans of the French company purchased by the United States are subject to change. According to these the bottom of the summit level of the canal will have an altitude of 68.08 feet above mean sea level. This level, which is in the Culebra mountain, is to be 318.35 feet long and 118.11 feet wide at the bottom. The next level, from Obispo to Bohio, with a bottom width of 164 feet, is 13.37 miles long. At Bohio a group of double locks empties into the Atlantic level, which has a width of 98.4 to 111.5 feet on the bottom and a length of 14.84 miles.

On the Pacific side the summit level terminates at Paraiso with one double lock. The adjacent level from Paraiso to Pedro Miguel is 7,963 feet long and terminates with one double lock. The Pacific level extends 4.69 miles to La Boca, beyond which a channel 3.36 miles long is excavated to deep water. All the locks are to be double, the working length for both being 738.22 feet. The width of one of the twin locks is to be 82.02 feet and the width of the other is 59.05 feet, with an intermediate gate.

The slopes of the canal, especially in the deep central trench, are to be protected by stone revetments. Of the forty-six miles of the canal 26.75 are straight and fifteen have radii equal to or not exceeding 9,850 feet. The curvatures are gentle, the smallest radius being 8,200 feet.

The Chagres river is to be controlled by two great dams which will capture and control the floods, supplying the summit level with water during the dry season, feeding the canal and furnishing hydraulic power for operating the locks and lighting the entire length of the waterway by night. One of the dams will be at Bohio on the canal and the other at Alhajuela, on the upper Chagres, nine and one-third miles from the canal. The Bohio dam will form a lake covering an area of 21.5 square miles with a normal level of 55.75 feet above mean tide. The other dam will form a reservoir covering ten square miles. It will be about 164 feet above the canal.

It will take a vessel about twelve hours to traverse the canal from end to end.

The total cost of constructing the Panama canal on the lock system, not including the payments for work done and for the concession, has been estimated at about $145,000,000. A sea-level canal will cost much more. The annual cost of maintenance will be $2,000,000.

THE IROQUOIS THEATER FIRE.

The Iroquois theater, Chicago, was the scene of a terrible calamity on the afternoon of Wednesday, Dec. 30, 1903. A matinee performance of the extravaganza "Mr. Bluebeard" was in progress and the theater was crowded, chiefly with women and children. In the latter part of the second act some of the scenery caught fire from an unprotected light. The flames spread with great rapidity and were forced out into the audience room by a strong draft from the back part of the building. An attempt was made to lower the asbestos curtain, but it failed to descend. A frightful panic ensued and in their efforts to escape hundreds were trampled upon and crushed to death, while others were suffocated by the smoke and heat. Several of the exits were barred by locked doors or the loss of life would have been less. Altogether 575 persons lost their lives, most of them in the balcony and gallery. Many received injuries that crippled them for life.

NATIONAL PLATFORMS OF 1904.

Following are summaries of the principal features of the national party platforms adopted in 1904. The full texts will be found in The Daily News Almanac and Year-Book for 1905, beginning on page 126.

REPUBLICAN.—The platform advocates the principle of protection and reciprocity, the maintenance of the gold standard, the encouragement of the merchant marine, the upbuilding of the navy, the exclusion of Chinese labor, honest enforcement of the civil-service law, liberal administration of the pension laws, arbitration, the protection of American citizens abroad, the reduction of representation in congress and the electoral college of states in which the elective franchise is unconstitutionally limited, and the control of combinations of capital and labor. The declaration in regard to protection is: "We insist upon the maintenance of the principles of protection and therefore rates of duty should be readjusted only when conditions have so changed that the public interest demands their alteration. But this work cannot be safely committed to any other hands than those of the republican party."

DEMOCRATIC.—The enactment of laws giving labor and capital impartially their just rights, trial by jury for indirect contempt, liberal appropriations for the improvement of waterways, reductions in the expenditures of the government, honesty in the public service and the preservation of the "open door" for commerce in the orient are favored. The platform declares against imperialism and the retention of the Philippines, denounces protection as a robbery of the many for the enrichment of the few, and favors the revision and general reduction of the tariff by the friends of the masses and for the common weal and not by the friends of its abuses. Trusts and combinations are denounced as a menace to beneficial competition and rebates and discriminations by transportation companies are declared to be the most potent agency in promoting and strengthening unlawful conspiracies against trade. Demands of the platform include: The election of United States senators by a direct vote of the people; the admission to statehood of Oklahoma, Indian Territory, Arizona and New Mexico; the extermination of polygamy; the defeat of the ship-subsidy bill; the maintenance of the Monroe doctrine; the reduction of the army and army expenditures; the enforcement of the civil-service laws, and the defeat of the attempt to revive race prejudices.

SOCIALIST.—The platform pledges the party to work and vote for shortened days of labor and increased wages; for the insurance of workers against sickness, accident and lack of employment; for pensions for aged and exhausted workers; for public ownership of the means of transportation, communication and exchange; for the graduated taxation of incomes, inheritances and of franchise and land values; for equal suffrage of men and women; for the prevention of the use of military against labor in the settlement of strikes; for the free administration of justice; for the initiative, referendum and proportional representation and for the recall of officers by their constituents. These things, it is declared, are but a preparation of the workers to seize the whole powers of government in order that they may thereby lay hold of the whole system of industry and thus come into their rightful inheritance.

PROHIBITIONIST.—The platform pledges the party, whenever given the power by the suffrage of the people, to the enactment and enforcement of laws prohibiting and abolishing the manufacture, importation, transportation and sale of alcoholic beverages and favors a rigid application of the principles of justice to all combinations of capital and labor, international arbitration, reform of divorce laws, the final extirpation of polygamy and the overthrow of the system of illegal sanction of the social evil.

POPULIST.—It is demanded that all money shall be issued by the government in such quantities as shall maintain a stability in prices, every dollar to be a full legal tender; that postal banks be established; that the right of labor to organize shall not be interfered with; that laws be passed to abolish child labor and suppress convict labor and sweatshops and that the government shall own the railroads and telegraph and telephone systems. The eight-hour day is favored and legal provision under which the people may exercise the initiative, referendum and proportional representation, and direct vote for all public officers with right of recall are urged.

SOCIALIST-LABOR.—The platform urges that a summary end be put to the existing class conflict by placing the land and all the means of production, transportation and distribution into the hands of the people as a collective body and substituting the co-operative commonwealth for the present classless production, industrial war and social disorder.

NATIONAL RECIPROCITY CONVENTION.

Held in the Illinois theater, Chicago, Aug. 16 and 17, 1905; S. B. Packard of Marshalltown, Iowa, chairman. Resolutions adopted:

The national reciprocity convention, representing more than 200 agricultural, commercial and industrial associations of the United States, by delegates assembled at Chicago Aug. 16 and 17, 1905, hereby makes the following declaration of principles:

Whereas, the agriculture, manufactures and other industries of this country have expanded to such an extent that they can no longer depend upon the home market for the consumption of their entire product; and

Whereas, the present commercial attitude of the United States, largely owing to our failure to carry into effect the reciprocal trade provisions of section 4 of the Dingley law, is antagonizing foreign nations, whose good will we desire and on whom we have hitherto depended as purchasers of our surplus product; therefore be it

Resolved: 1. That this convention, recognizing the principle of protection as the established policy of our country, advocates immediate reciprocal concessions by means of a dual maximum and minimum tariff as the only practical method of relieving at this time the strained situation with which we are confronted.

2. That eventually the question of the schedules and items to be considered in reciprocal concessions be suggested by a permanent tariff commission, to be created by congress and appointed by the president, which shall consist of economic, industrial and commercial experts.

3. That it is the sense of this convention that our present tariff affords abundant opportunity for such concessions without injury to industry, trade or the wages of labor.

4. That we urge action upon congress at the earliest time possible.

VENEZUELAN ASPHALT DISPUTE.

In 1883 the Venezuelan government granted to Horatio R. Hamilton, an American, a concession to mine asphalt in the state of Bermudez. Two years later, with the approval of Venezuela, Hamilton transferred this concession to the New York and Bermudez company, a New York corporation. In 1888 the company secured a mining title for ninety-nine years to Bermudez lake, a deposit of asphalt, and a fee-simple to twelve square miles of land around the lake. In 1897, when the shipments of asphalt by the company became heavy and profitable, various suits were brought against the concessioners by the Venezuelan government, and in July, 1905, a depository, or receiver, for the property was appointed by the Federal and Cassation court. The reason assigned for the appointment of the receiver was the failure of the company to make a canal out of a certain stream on the ground that it was impracticable.

It is claimed by the New York company that the receiver, instead of acting in its behalf, has used the company's capital and plant to mine asphalt and deliver it to a rival concern. It is denied that the company has been connected with any revolutionary movement in Venezuela. The United States government has protested against the action of Venezuela in the matter, but has taken no other steps except to refer the dispute to congress.

In connection with the asphalt controversy Herbert Bowen, United States minister to Venezuela, made charges to the state department in Washington that his predecessor in office, Francis B. Loomis, had engaged in transactions unbecoming in an official representative of the United States. These charges were investigated by Secretary of War Taft and in a report made public by President Roosevelt June 20, 1905, were declared to be unfounded. Mr. Bowen was thereupon discharged from the diplomatic service.

NOTE—Consanguinity and infidelity are causes for divorce in all the states.

MARRIAGE LAWS.

Marriage may be contracted without the consent of parents by males who are 21 years of age or more. This is the rule in about all the states having laws on the subject. In Arizona the age is 18. Arkansas, California, Colorado, Delaware, District of Columbia, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Indiana, Kentucky, Maryland, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, Nevada, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Oregon, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Virginia and West Virginia. Michigan specifically declares such marriages valid.

NOTED TRIALS IN 1905.

CHADWICK.—Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick of Cleveland, O., was charged with conspiracy to defraud the United States by securing the certification of checks on a national bank where there were no funds to her credit. Her trial began in the United States District court in Cleveland March 6 and ended in a verdict of guilty March 11. She was sentenced to ten years' imprisonment. Mrs. Chadwick was accused of obtaining large sums of money from various banks on the strength of a note purporting to have been signed by Andrew Carnegie, and many sensational stories concerning her financial dealings were printed in November and December, 1904, and January, 1905. E. D. Beckwith of the Citizens' National bank of Oberlin, O., loaned her $102,000 of his own money and $240,000 belonging to the bank on the strength apparently of the forged note, and both he and the bank went down to ruin. Several other small banks in Ohio were involved and had to close their doors.

HANSON.—Inga Hanson was charged with perjury in a damage suit against the Chicago City Railway company for $50,000. She claimed to have been injured in March, 1898. In the first trial of the damage suit the jury stood eleven to one in her favor; in the second trial, begun Nov. 3, 1903, the proceedings came to a close when detectives testified that she was a fraud and that she was not blind, deaf, dumb and paralyzed as she claimed. The trial for perjury began Dec. 28, 1904, and ended in a verdict of guilty Feb. 10, 1905.

HOCH.—Johann Hoch was accused of causing the death of his wife, Marie Walcker-Hoch, by means of arsenical poisoning. Her death occurred in Chicago Jan. 12, 1905. Hoch had been married several times and it was alleged that some of his wives died under suspicious circumstances. His trial began April 19 and ended May 19 in a verdict of guilty, the jury recommending the death penalty.

MITCHELL.—John H. Mitchell, United States senator from Oregon, was indicted Dec. 31, 1904, in connection with the land frauds in his own state and California. He was tried on the charge of accepting a pecuniary consideration for practicing before the federal departments in Washington while occupying his public position. He was found guilty by a jury in Portland, Ore., July 3, 1905, and July 25 was sentenced to pay a fine of $1,000 and six months' penal servitude.

PATTERSON.—Nan Patterson, an actress, was accused of killing Frank T. or "Cesar" Young, a racetrack gambler, in a cab in New York city June 4, 1904. She was placed on trial Nov. 16, but the illness of a juror brought the case to a close Nov. 26. Her second trial began Dec. 5 and ended Dec. 23 in a disagreement by the jury. She was placed on trial for the third time April 17, 1905, and the case went to the jury May 3. Another disagreement was the result and she was finally released May 12.

PERRY.—Isaac N. Perry, former president of the National Bank of North America in Chicago, was accused of having set fire to the car and locomotive shops at Hegewisch, Ill., Oct. 9, 1904. The motive alleged was that he wanted to get the insurance on the plant amounting to about $200,000 in order to recoup himself for a doubtful loan of $185,000 to the car company. The trial began in Judge McEwen's court April 10, 1905, and ended May 5 in a verdict of not guilty.

TAGGART.—Capt. Elmore F. Taggart sued his wife, Grace Culver Taggart, for divorce in July, 1904, while she filed a counter-petition at Wooster, O. The case came to trial in the latter place Aug. 1, 1905. The proceedings in court lasted seven weeks and a decision was given Oct. 13 in favor of the husband.

DISASTER ON THE GUNBOAT BENNINGTON.

While the United States gunboat Bennington was lying at anchor in the harbor of San Diego, Cal., July 21, 1905, one of the boilers exploded. Fifty-eight of the crew were killed and forty-six injured. Most of the men on board were assembled between decks, above the boilers, when the explosion took place. Many were hurled overboard and narrowly escaped drowning. The wounded were rescued with difficulty from the ship, which was filled with escaping steam and which was beached to prevent her from sinking. The only officer killed was Ensign N. K. Perry of South Carolina. Commander Lucien Young was ashore when the accident occurred. The boiler which exploded had been suspected of weakness but had been passed by the inspectors.

ATTEMPT TO ASSASSINATE ALFONSO AND LOUBET.

While President Loubet of France and King Alfonso of Spain were driving home from the opera in Paris just after midnight June 1, 1905, and had reached a point in the Rue de Rohan just opposite the Louvre, a bomb was thrown at their carriage by an anarchist. Both the men aimed at escaped uninjured, but the fragments of the missile seriously wounded ten of the bystanders and killed a number of cavalry horses. A laboratory attendant named Arsene Arnoold was arrested for the crime.

ISLAND OF PORTO RICO.

Porto Rico, according to the decision of the United States Supreme court in the insular cases May 27, 1901, is a territory appurtenant and belonging to the United States, but not a part of the United States within the revenue clause of the constitution. The island was ceded to the United States by Spain Dec. 10, 1898, and was under military rule until the Foraker law went into effect May 1, 1900. (For the provisions of that law see The Daily News Almanac for 1901.) In accordance with the third section of that act, the legislative assembly of Porto Rico having put into operation a system of local taxation to meet the necessities of government, President McKinley on the 25th of July, 1902, the anniversary of the landing of American troops on the island in 1898—proclaimed free trade between the United States and Porto Rico.

GOVERNMENT—Civil government, under the provisions of the Foraker act, was established May 1, 1900. The upper house consists of eleven members, six of whom are "cabinet" officers appointed by the president; the lower house is made up of thirty-five delegates elected by the people every two years. The governor, who is appointed by the president, has practically the same duties as the governor of any other territory of the United States. The present offi-

AREA AND POPULATION—The area of Porto Rico is about 3,600 square miles, and the population, as shown by the military census of 1899, is 953,243. Of these 941,751 are natives. The whites number 589,426 and the colored 363,817. The colored are subdivided into 304,352 mestizos, 59,390 negroes and 75 Chinese. By departments the population is: Aguadilla, 99,645; Arecibo, 162,308; Bayamon, 147,681; Guayama, 111,986; Humacao, 100,866; Mayaguez, 127,566; Ponce, 203,191. The cities having more than 5,000 inhabitants are: San Juan, 32,048; Ponce, 27,952; Mayaguez, 15,187; Arecibo, 8,008; Aguadilla, 6,425; Yauco, 6,108; Caguas, 5,450; Guayama, 5,334.

COMMERCE—For the year ended June 30, 1905, the total domestic exports from Porto Rico to foreign countries were $2,721,683, and to the United States $15,527,265. Foreign imports amounted to $2,562,189, and imports from the United States amounted to $13,387,457. Of the exports Spain took $534,044; Cuba, $1,023,210; France, $382,828; Germany, $47,774; Austria-Hungary, $102,073.

RECORD OF RACES TO DATE.

1851—Aug. 22. In this, the year of the great exhibition in London, the Royal Yacht club of England offered a cup to the winner of a yacht race around the Isle of Wight. The course was 60 miles in length and was won by the schooner-yacht America, designed by George Steers for John C. Stevens of the New York Yacht club. The America was 94 feet over all, 88 feet on the water line, 22½ feet beam and 1½ feet draft. There was no time allowance and the competing yachts ranged in size from a three-masted 392-ton schooner, the Brilliant, to the 47-ton cutter, the Aurora, which came in second in the race. The time of the America was 10 hours and 34 minutes; that of the Aurora was 24 minutes slower. The cup after that became known as the America's cup and has now been successfully defended for fifty-four years.

ROCKEFELLER GIFT FOR HIGHER EDUCATION.

In a letter dated June 30, 1905, and signed by his representative, F. T. Gates, John D. Rockefeller announced a gift of $10,000,000 for the purposes of higher education. The letter was addressed to Wallace Buttrick and Starr J. Murphy, secretaries and executive officers of the general education board, New York, and was as follows:

"Dear Sirs: I am authorized by John D. Rockefeller to say that he will contribute to the general education board the sum of ten million dollars ($10,000,000), to be paid on Oct. 1 next, in cash or at his option in income-producing securities, at their market value, the principal to be held in perpetuity as a foundation for education, the income, above expenses and administration, to be distributed to or used for the benefit of such institutions of learning at such times, in such amounts, for such purposes and under such conditions, or employed in such other ways as the board may deem best adapted to promote a comprehensive system of higher education in the United States. F. T. GATES."

With the letter the following statement was given out:

"John D. Rockefeller, Jr., with other men of this city, was instrumental in forming the general education board in February, 1902. A broad and admirable charter was secured from congress and signed by President Roosevelt on Jan. 12, 1903. A gift of $1,000,000 from John D. Rockefeller was immediately passed over to the board, especially designated for educational work in the south. Other funds have been added by other philanthropists since that time and the board has confined its work mainly to educational work in the southern states.

"The present gift differs from Mr. Rockefeller's first gift to the board in the following particulars: The principal sum of the gift of $1,000,000, made on the organization of the board, could be distributed. The present gift of $10,000,000 is held as an endowment, the income only being available for distribution. The first gift was designed to be used exclusively in the southern states. The present gift is for use not only in the southern states but throughout the United States, without distinction of section. The first gift could be used for common schools and secondary education. The second gift is confined to higher education and is designed specially for colleges as distinguished from the great universities, although there is no prohibition in the letter of gift against making contributions to universities.

"Both gifts are available for denominational schools as well as for those which are nonsectarian. While the funds may be employed for denominational schools, they will be employed without sectarian distinctions. No special denomination will be particularly favored, but the funds will be open to approved schools of all denominations, although they cannot be employed for giving specifically theological instruction.

"In distributing the funds the board will aim especially to favor those institutions which are well located and which have a local constituency sufficiently strong and able to insure permanence and power. No attempt will be made to resuscitate moribund schools or to assist institutions which are so located that they cannot promise to be permanently useful. Within these limits there are no restrictions as to the use of the income. It may be used for endowment, for buildings, for current expenses, for debts, for apparatus or for any other purpose which may be found most serviceable."

The members of the general education board are: Robert C. Ogden (chairman), George Foster Peabody (treasurer), Wallace Buttrick (secretary and executive officer for the states south of the Potomac and Ohio rivers and Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas), Starr J. Murphy (secretary and executive officer for the states of the north and west), Frederick T. Gates, Daniel C. Gilman, Morris K. Jesup, Walter H. Page, Albert Shaw, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Hugh H. Hanna, William R. Harper (president University of Chicago) and E. Benjamin Andrews (president of University of Nebraska).

*Includes scattering votes in a few cases.

In Maryland the electoral vote was split, the democrats getting seven and the republicans one, but the republican elector chosen had 51 more votes than the highest elector on the democratic ticket.

In Pennsylvania the independent vote of 2,568 is included in the Parker vote.

The electoral vote of each state in the elections of 1836, 1900 and 1904 will be found on page 281.

Other data relating to previous presidential elections will be found on pages 280 and 281.

The total vote cast in 1904 was less than that of 1900 by 442,482. It also fell below that of 1896, which was 14,073,285. The decrease was especially marked in the southern and south-western states.

In all cases the vote for the elector on each ticket receiving the highest number of votes has been used.

END OF THE RUSSO-JAPANESE WAR.

War began Feb. 8, 1904.
Peace treaty signed Sept. 5, 1905.
Cost of war in lives, 175,000.
Cost of war in money, $1,500,000,000.

The war between Japan and Russia which began in February, 1904, was terminated Sept. 5, 1905, when a treaty of peace was signed by plenipotentiaries of the two nations at Portsmouth, N. H. Practically the struggle was ended when Admiral Togo almost annihilated the Russian fleet under Admiral Rojestvensky in the battle of the Sea of Japan, May 27-28, 1905. This crushing defeat following the fall of Port Arthur and the rout of the czar's land forces at Mukden earlier in the year so heavily handicapped the Russians that they could not hope for victory except through wearing out the physical and financial strength of their opponents. The situation was made still worse by a threatened revolution at home, by serious labor troubles in the industrial centers of the country and by the mutiny of sailors in the Black sea fleet. Under the circumstances the government at St. Petersburg concluded that it was the part of wisdom to give up the struggle and to turn its attention to internal reforms, the rebuilding of its navy and the reorganization of its military forces.

TOTAL CASUALTIES.

Complete statistics of this, the greatest war of modern times, are not yet available. The total number of men engaged from first to last was probably in excess of 2,000,000. The Russians had about 60,000 soldiers in the east before the war began. According to an official statement made by the war office in St. Petersburg there had been forwarded to the front between the time hostilities began and March 12, 1905, 13,087 officers, 761,467 men, 146,408 horses, 1,521 guns and 316,321 tons of munitions and supplies. Adding those sent to the front later and the naval forces Russia must have had nearly 1,000,000 men engaged. Japan has made public no figures, but the best authorities agree that her soldiers and sailors were probably equal in number to those of Russia. In the matter of casualties various estimates have been made. Those of the Russians have been placed as high as 375,000 killed and wounded and those of the Japanese are said to have been 250,000. These figures are probably not excessive. Japanese fatalities in the war are officially reported to have been:

Killed in action.....	46,180
Died of wounds.....	10,970
Died from sickness.....	15,300

Total 72,450

Bearing in mind the usual proportion between the killed and wounded and the fact that the mortality among the Russian forces, both on sea and land, was considerably greater than that of the Japanese except at Port Arthur the estimates of total casualties appear reasonable.

COST OF THE WAR.

In round figures the cost of the war was at least $1,500,000,000. Of this vast sum Russia spent $1,000,000,000 and Japan $500,000,000. The disproportion in cost is accounted for by the fact the czar had to carry on the war several thousand miles away from home and by the further fact that he lost Port Arthur, Dalny, part of the Manchurian railway, half of the island of Sakhalin and warships costing more than $100,000,000. To carry on the struggle Russia borrowed $870,000,000 and Japan $650,000,000. When the armies had been withdrawn from the field Japan had a public debt of approximately $1,250,000,000, or about $25 per capita. Before the war the per capita tax rate in that country was $2 and after the war $6. Similar figures for Russia are lacking.

POLITICAL RESULTS.

Before the war Russia was the predominant power on the Pacific coast of Asia; now the supremacy of Japan is conceded. Korea is nominally independent, but is actually a Japanese possession by virtue of occupation and the terms of the Portsmouth treaty. The southern and most valuable half of Sakhalin is Japanese territory. Port Arthur, the Gibraltar of the east and the key to Manchuria, is not to the whole of China, is now a Japanese fortress and Dalny a Japanese port. That Japan will have a predominant influence in Chinese affairs and will control a large share of Chinese trade is conceded. Russia, on the other hand, has lost what Japan has gained, and, besides, has lost her prestige in the whole of the east. These, in brief, are the political and geographical changes brought about by Japan's victory in the war.

REVIEW OF THE WAR.

War between Russia and Japan had been looked upon as inevitable several years before it actually began. The latter country had been quietly preparing for it ever since 1895, when Russia, with the aid of France and Germany, prevented the acquisition from the conquered Chinese of the Liaotung peninsula and Port Arthur and thus made fruitless a costly and bloody war. The tension became greater when Russia obtained possession of Port Arthur by lease and secured control of the Chinese Eastern railway. In April, 1902, Russia agreed to withdraw from certain points in Manchuria on specified dates, to consent to the re-establishment of Chinese authority in the province and to restore the railways to the Chinese. These promises were not kept, and in the fall of 1903 and the early part of 1904 a sharp diplomatic correspondence was carried on between Baron Komura, Japanese minister for foreign affairs; Baron Rosen, Russian minister to Japan, and Count Lamsdorf, Russian minister for foreign affairs. Komura maintained that the unrestrained permanent occupation of Manchuria by Russia would create a condition of things prejudicial to the security and interest of Japan, would be destructive of the principle of equal opportunity and would impair the territorial integrity of China. But, what was of still more serious moment to the Japanese government, Russia stationed on the flank of Korea would be a constant menace to the separate existence of that power, and in any event it would make Russia the dominant power in Korea. Komura further declared that Korea was an important outpost in Japan's line of defense, and Japan consequently considered the independence of Korea absolutely essential to her own repose and safety. Japan possessed paramount political as well as commercial and industrial interests and influence in Korea, which, having regard to her own security, she could not consent to surrender to or share with any other power. These points were submitted to Russia in the shape of formal proposals Oct. 5, 1903, and counter-proposals were submitted by Russia on the 12th of December following. The points made by Japan with respect to Korea were for the most part accepted, but all reference to the situation in Manchuria was omitted. Russia also demanded that no part of the Korean territory be used by Japan for strategic purposes and that a neutral zone be established on the Korean-Manchurian frontier. These demands and the limitation of the proposed convention to Korea did not meet with the approval of Japan and irritated by delays in the negotiations and the refusal of Russia to make a satisfactory reply to the proposals Baron Komura, on the 5th of February, 1904, instructed Baron Kurino, Japanese minister to St. Petersburg, to notify Count Lamsdorf that Japan had no other alternative than to terminate the negotiations and to take such independent action as might be deemed best.

OPENING OF HOSTILITIES.

Diplomatic relations having been severed Japan did not wait for a formal declaration of war, but at once sent warships and troops, kept in readiness for that purpose at Sasebo, to Chemulpo in Korea and to Port Arthur. On the night of Feb. 3 a torpedo attack was made upon the Russian battleships and cruisers lying outside the harbor of Port Arthur, the Retvisan, Czarevitch and Pallada being seriously damaged. On the following night a second attack was made and the Poltava, Diana, Novik and Askold were damaged more or less seriously. Troops were landed by Japanese transports at Chemulpo Feb. 8, and the next day Admiral Uriu attacked the Russian cruiser Variag and gunboat Korietz, which had been stationed at that harbor. Both vessels were sunk. Feb. 10 war was formally declared by both nations.

Operations against Port Arthur were carried on with vigor by Admiral Togo while the first Japanese army under Gen. Kuroki was marching overland from Chemulpo and Chinampo to Wiju on the Yalu river. The Russians busied themselves with planting mines in the approaches to the harbor of Port Arthur, and in doing so had the torpedo transport Yenisei blown up by accident. Their cruiser Boyarin was torpedoed Feb. 14. The Japanese made several attempts to block the entrance to the port by sinking old transports and merchant vessels, but were only partially successful. They also planted submarine mines in the course usually taken by the Russian vessels in emerging from the harbor, and April 13 the battleship Petropavlovsk struck one of them and was blown up with a loss of 525 officers and men, including Admiral Makaroff and the artist Verestchagin. Shortly afterward the Russian torpedo boat Stereguschki and the destroyer Skorri were sunk, the former in battle and the latter by a mine. In April the Russian squadron of cruisers in Vladivostok made a raid, sinking a small Japanese steamer and a transport with a large number of soldiers on board.

BATTLES OF THE YALU AND NANSHAN.

Gen. Kuroki's army met with little resistance until it crossed the Yalu river near Antung. There it was opposed by a Russian force of about 21,000 men under Gens. Sassulitch and Kashtalinsky. Kuroki had 45,000 men and easily won a victory that cost his opponents twenty-eight guns and 4,800 men. This was the first of an unbroken series of triumphs for Japanese arms and it effectually dispelled the idea prevalent in some quarters that Russia would quickly overwhelm her foe and dictate terms of peace in Tokyo.

While Kuroki was pursuing the Russian troops in his front in the direction of Liaoyang and taking possession of Fenghuangcheng and Kiuliencheng, three other Japanese armies were sent out with Gens. Oku, Nogi and Nodzu in command. These were landed on the Liaotung peninsula at Pitsewo, Takushan and Kinchow bay. The bloody battle of Nanshan hill was fought and won by Gen. Oku May 21-26 and the Russian troops at Port Arthur were cut off from communication with Gen. Kuropatkin's army at Liaoyang. At this point the Japanese armies divided, a strong force under Gen. Nogi being sent south to invest Port Arthur, while the other divisions were marched on converging lines in a northerly direction toward Newchwang and Liaoyang. Dally was occupied May 30 and from that time on was made the chief base of supplies for all the Japanese columns in the field.

VAFANGOW AND LIAOYANG.

Ordered to undertake the relief of Port Arthur at all hazards, Gen. Kuropatkin sent Gen. Stakelberg, with 35,000 men and ninety guns, toward the south. At Vafangow or Telissu this force was met by Gen. Oku and his army fresh from Nanshan hill. A battle was fought June 11 and 12 and Stakelberg was defeated with heavy loss of men and guns. The Japanese casualties were comparatively slight. After this affair Gen. Kuropatkin concentrated his forces at Liaoyang and awaited an attack from the combined armies of Kuroki, Oku and Nodzu, now under the chief command of Marshal Oyama. Newchwang had been captured almost without resistance and Motien pass had been occupied after a sharp fight. Haicheng was taken Aug. 2. The Russian front at Liaoyang was about twenty-five miles long, extending from Anshanshan on the Harbin-Port Arthur railway to Anping, a point east of Liaoyang. Kuropatkin had about 170,000 men and 400 guns; Oyama had 200,000 men and 500 guns. Kuroki commanded on the right, Nodzu the center and Oku the left. The battle began Aug. 26 and lasted until Sept. 4. Its fate was decided when Kuroki crossed the Taitse river and threatened to cut off Kuropatkin's retreat north along the railway. The Russians gave way after losing more than 22,000 men and two generals. Though the Japanese assaulted and captured fortified places, they lost fewer men than their opponents by several thousands. Kuropatkin burned his stores and made good his retreat in the direction of Mukden.

SHA RIVER.

When he had reached the Sha river, south of Mukden, Kuropatkin halted, reorganized and strengthened his forces, and on Oct. 2 ordered an attack on the Japanese, who had followed close on his heels. The battle was fought chiefly on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, Oct. 9, 10 and 11, though fighting of a less severe character continued until the 19th. Again the Russians met defeat, escaping a complete rout only by good generalship. Both sides suffered heavily, the Russians losing nearly 70,000 men and the Japanese 16,000. Cold weather soon set in and the armies halted near the Sha to recuperate and go into winter quarters.

NAVAL OPERATIONS IN 1904.

In June the Russian warships in Port Arthur, having been repaired to some extent, made an attempt to escape. They were met by Togo's ships and compelled to return to the harbor. Aug. 10 they made another sortie and a battle was fought in which Admiral Witthoft was killed. Most of the vessels returned to port, but the Czarevitch managed to reach Tsingtau, a German port in China, in a badly damaged condition. The cruisers Askold and Diana reached Shanghai, where they were disarmed, while the Novik got as far as the island of Sakhalin, where it was driven ashore by the Japanese cruisers Chitose and Tsubishima and destroyed. Aug. 14 a Japanese squadron under Admiral Kamimura met the Vladivostok fleet near the Tsu islands in the Strait of Korea, sunk the Rurik and compelled the Gromobol and Rosia to return in a badly damaged condition.

In July the Russian steamers Petersburg and Smolensk of the volunteer fleet made a raid on British and other merchantmen in the Red sea, but vigorous protests to the Russian government compelled their retirement. In October the Baltic fleet, under Admiral Rojestvensky, on its way to the Persian ocean, mistook a fleet of English fishing boats in the North sea for Japanese torpedo boats and fired on them, sinking one vessel and killing two men. Much resentment was felt in England, but the matter was referred to a board of arbitrators, who returned a verdict against the Russians and compelled them to pay the sum of $325,000 in restitution.

Though the Japanese lost no large ships in battle in 1904, they met with several disasters. The battleships Hatsuse and Yashima and the cruiser Takasago were sunk by striking mines and the cruiser Yoshino was sent to the bottom in a collision. The destroyers Akatsuki and Hayatori and the gunboats Kaimon, Oshima and Atago, as well as several smaller craft, were also lost.

SIEGE OF PORT ARTHUR.

Port Arthur was invested in the latter part of June, but the siege proper began about Sept. 1, 1904. Gen. Stoessel was in command of the fortress, which was held by about 45,000 men. Gen. Nogi commanded the Japanese, who probably numbered at least 100,000. Fighting of the fiercest description occurred from time to time when the Japanese attacked some outwork which they deemed it necessary to capture and thousands of lives were sacrificed. The bloodiest battles took place in August and November. The Japanese made little real progress until they captured 203-Meter hill, from the top of which they had an excellent view of the town and harbor of Port Arthur. Planting a large number of eleven-inch howitzers back of the hills, they telephoned the exact range to the gunners and the huge shells were thrown with such deadly accuracy that in a short time all the Russian warships remaining in the port were sunk and much of the town laid in ruins. Then the North Keekwan, Ehrungshan and Sungshushan forts of the main Russian line of defense were bombarded, mined, stormed and captured, and Gen. Stoessel, considering that further resistance would be useless, sent a note to Gen. Nogi offering to surrender. This was on Jan. 1, 1905, and the following day the articles of capitulation were signed. The prisoners included 878 officers and 32,000 men, of whom 25,000 were in good health and the remainder in hospital or disabled. Among the spoils of war captured by Gen. Nogi were 528 cannon and an immense amount of ammunition for guns of large caliber and for small arms. The rank and file and most of the officers were sent to Japan and Gen. Stoessel returned on parole to Russia to face a court-martial, though he had been proclaimed the hero of the war. In the opinion of most military observers on the ground he might have continued the defense some weeks longer, but in the end he would have been compelled to surrender without any recompense for the additional sacrifice of men.

MUKDEN.

When Port Arthur had fallen most of Gen. Nogi's victorious army and its heavy field guns were hurried to the north to reinforce Oyama's forces near the Sha river. The veterans were sent to the extreme left of the Japanese line and helped materially to win the great battle which began Feb. 24 and continued until March 12. Previous to this time an attempt of Gen. Gripenberg to turn the Japanese left at Heikoutai had failed with heavy loss. The battle of Mukden proved to be one of the greatest, if not the greatest, contests in history in respect to the number of men engaged, time consumed, territory covered and losses sustained. Marshal Oyama had in the vicinity of 450,000 men and Kuropatkin about 410,000, making the total number engaged 860,000. These figures are based upon estimates, no official reports having yet been issued by either side.

The line of battle was 110 miles long, but the fiercest fighting occurred in the immediate vicinity of Mukden, an ancient Chinese town on the railroad from Harbin to Port Arthur. Gen. Nogi made a forced march around the Russian left flank and attacked fiercely from the direction of Sinmintin, while Kuroki and Kawamura assailed the left and threatened the communications with the north. Gen. Kuropatkin after losing nearly 110,000 men in killed, wounded, prisoners and missing gave the order to retreat. The Japanese pursued him to Tieling and beyond, and then, both sides being exhausted, the struggle came to an end. The Japanese were credited with losing 75,000 men in the battle, but Tokyo reported only 57,000, which is perhaps nearer the truth. The Russian general staff, a month after the battle, reported that 1,985 officers and 87,677 men were killed or wounded and between 7,000 and 8,000 captured, including two generals. The killed numbered 15,000 and the missing between 10,000 and 12,000. Thirty-three guns were captured by the Japanese. As a result of the battle Kuropatkin was recalled to Russia in disgrace, but he was finally allowed to remain in a subordinate capacity. Gen. Linevitch was made commander-in-chief. No serious fighting on land took place after Mukden. The island of Sakhalin was invaded and the Russians there compelled to surrender, but neither side suffered serious loss.

BATTLE OF THE SEA OF JAPAN.

While the battle-torn armies in Manchuria were recuperating and preparing for further struggles, matters on the sea were shaping themselves for a dramatic climax. Russia, having lost control of the eastern waters, determined to regain it by sending a powerful fleet from the Baltic to Vladivostok. The first ships sailed from Libau Oct. 16, 1904, and others followed not long after. Admiral Rojestvensky was in charge of the first division and of the whole fleet when the units had finally assembled. Voelkersam, Enquist and Nebogatoff were the assisting admirals. Rojestvensky arrived at Madagascar Jan. 2, 1905, and was joined there by the division under Voelkersam. They sailed together March 16 and passed Singapore April 7. They stopped for a long time in Kamranh bay on the coast of French Indo China, causing Japan to make vigorous protests against what was claimed to be a violation of neutrality laws.

Finally, when all the component parts of his fleet had assembled, Rojestvensky sailed toward the north and passing between Luzon and Formosa entered the Sea of Japan. He had with him eight battleships, three coast-defense ships, three armored cruisers, six protected cruisers, a number of torpedo-boat destroyers, a repair ship and two hospital ships. Admiral Togo, who was waiting for him at Masampho on the coast of Korea, had four first-class battleships, eight armored cruisers, eleven protected cruisers, one coast-defense vessel, four scout cruisers and a large number of destroyers and torpedo boats.

The Russian fleet was sighted early on the morning of May 27 as it was about to enter the Korean straits between Goto and Quelpart islands, and Togo was immediately informed by wireless telegraphy. He moved his fleet across the channel, north of Tsu island, and then turned south to meet the Russian fleet, which was advancing in cruising formation. When within long range Togo opened fire. It was now afternoon and the weather was somewhat foggy. The Japanese fire was heavy and accurate, and in a short time the Russian ships were thrown into confusion. By clever maneuvering Togo succeeded in almost completely surrounding Rojestvensky's fleet, though the main attack was from the west. The Russian flagship, the Kniaz Suvaroff, was one of the first to sink. Admiral Rojestvensky was badly wounded and was taken on board a destroyer only to be captured a short time afterward. The battle was continued until nightfall by the larger ships and by the Japanese torpedo boats after dark.

On the following morning the vessels of the Russian fleet which had not been sunk the day before or had not escaped in the dark were all captured or destroyed. Admiral Nebogatoff surrendered with the battleships Nicolai I. and Orel and the coast defenders Senlavin and Apraxine. Admiral Voelkersam was killed. Admiral Enquist succeeded in escaping to Manila with the swift cruisers Jemichug, Oleg and Aurora. The great Russian fleet had been practically annihilated and the Japanese again had complete command of the sea in Asiatic waters so far as their enemy was concerned. In the battle the Russians lost about 3,500 in killed and drowned and 7,000 in prisoners. The Japanese had 113 officers and men killed and 424 officers and men wounded. The heaviest loss was on the flagship Mikasa, where sixty-three men were killed or wounded.

PEACE.

After the battle of the Sea of Japan it was generally agreed that the time had come when the belligerent nations could with propriety be urged to end the war. It was also generally agreed that no one was in a better position to take the initial steps with this end in view than the president of the United States. Accordingly on the 1st of June, 1905, Mr. Roosevelt had an informal conference at the white house in Washington with the Japanese minister, Mr. Takahira, and on the following day with the Russian ambassador, Count Cassini. About the same time the American representatives in St. Petersburg and Tokyo ascertained that the governments there were favorable to peace negotiations. An identical note was therefore sent by President Roosevelt, June 7, to the czar and mikado reading as follows:

"The president feels that the time has come when, in the interest of all mankind, he must endeavor to see if it is not possible to bring to an end the terrible and lamentable conflict now being waged. With both Russia and Japan the United States has inherited ties of friendship and good will. It hopes for the prosperity and welfare of each, and it feels that the progress of the world is set back by the war between those two great nations.

"The president accordingly urges the Russian and Japanese governments, not only for their own sakes but in the interest of the whole civilized world, to open direct negotiations for peace with each other. The president suggests that those negotiations be conducted directly and exclusively between the belligerents; in other words, that there may be a meeting of Russian and Japanese plenipotentiaries or delegates without any intermediary, in order to see if it is not possible for those representatives of the two powers to agree to terms of peace. The president earnestly asks that the Russian government do now agree to such a meeting, and is asking the Japanese government likewise to agree.

"While the president does not feel that any intermediary should be called in in respect to the peace negotiations themselves, he is entirely willing to do what he properly can, if the two powers concerned feel that his services will be of aid, in arranging the preliminaries as to the time and place of meeting. But even if these preliminaries can be arranged directly between the two powers, or in any other way, the president will be glad, as his sole purpose is to bring about a meeting which the whole civilized world will pray may result in peace."

CONFERENCE AT PORTSMOUTH, N. H.

Both Japan and Russia accepted the proposal within three days, the announcement being officially made June 10 that a peace conference would be held. June 15 it was agreed that the meeting should take place in the United States. Washington was first suggested, but Portsmouth, N. H., was finally chosen as being more suitable for climatic reasons. Japan selected Baron Komura, minister of foreign affairs, and Kogoro Takahira, minister to the United States, as peace delegates. Russia after some delay appointed Sergius Witte, president of the committee of ministers, and Baron Rosen, the newly appointed ambassador to the United States. The plenipotentiaries were intrusted with full power to negotiate and conclude a treaty of peace, subject to ratification by the home governments. They arrived about the same time and Aug. 5 they were introduced to each other on board the Mayflower, at Oyster Bay, L. I., by President Roosevelt, who on that occasion offered the following toast:

"Gentlemen: I propose a toast to which there will be no answer, and which I ask you to drink in silence, standing. I drink to the welfare and prosperity of the sovereigns and the peoples of the two great nations whose representatives have met one another on this ship. It is my earnest hope and prayer, in the interest not only of these two great powers but of all civilized mankind, that a just and lasting peace may speedily be concluded between them."

The formal opening of the peace conference began Aug. 9, when the terms of Japan were presented. The sessions were held in a room in the naval stores building, and those who took part included the plenipotentiaries already named and A. Sato, Mr. Otachia and Mr. Adatchi for Japan, and M. Nabokoff, M. Berg and M. Pokotiloff for Russia. H. W. Dennison, an American, acted as adviser to the Japanese, and M. Maartens, an authority on international law, acted in a similar capacity on behalf of the Russians, but neither was present at the meetings.

In the beginning Japan submitted the following proposals as the basis of peace: 1, the recognition of the preponderance of Japanese influence in Korea; 2, the simultaneous evacuation of Manchuria by the Russian and Japanese military forces; 3, the transfer to Japan of the Russian leasehold in Liaoting peninsula, Port Arthur and Dalny; 4, the return to China of the civil administration of Manchuria; 5, the cession of Sakhalin Island to Japan; 6, the transfer to Japan of all docks, magazines and other military property in Port Arthur and Dalny; 7, the transfer to Japan of the railroad between Port Arthur and Dalny and Harbin, part of which is now held by the Japanese armies; 8, retention by Russia of the main line of railroad between Harbin and Vladivostok; 9, Russia to reimburse Japan for the cost of the war; 10, Russia to transfer to Japan all her warships now interned in neutral ports; 11, the limitation of Russian naval power in the Pacific; 12, Japan to have fishing rights on the Siberian coast.

The Russian envoys assented to all the above stipulations except the 5th, 8th, 9th, 10th and 11th, and the negotiations came to a deadlock. On Aug. 29, however, Japan yielded on all the objectionable points except the 5th, and that was compromised by an agreement to divide the island of Sakhalin, Russia taking the northern half and Japan the southern.

THE PEACE TREATY.

The following is the full text of the treaty:

"The emperor of Japan on one part and the emperor of all the Russias on the other part, animated by a desire to restore the blessings of peace to their countries, have resolved to conclude a treaty of peace and have for this purpose named their plenipotentiaries; that is to say, for his majesty the emperor of Japan, Baron Komura Jutaro, Jusami, grand cordon of the Imperial Order of the Rising Sun, his minister for foreign affairs, and his excellency Takahira, Komoro, Imperial Order of the Sacred Treasure, his minister to the United States, and his majesty the emperor of all the Russias, his excellency Serge Witte, his secretary of state and president of the committee of ministers of the empire of Russia, and his excellency Baron Roman Rosen, master of the imperial court of Russia, his majesty's ambassador to the United States, who, after having exchanged their full powers, which were found to be in good and due form, have concluded the following articles:

"Article 1. There shall henceforth be peace and amity between their majesties the emperor of Japan and the emperor of all the Russias and between their respective states and subjects.

"Art. 2. The imperial Russian government, acknowledging that Japan possesses in Korea paramount political, military and economical interests, engages neither to obstruct nor interfere with measures for guidance, protection and control which the imperial government of Japan may find necessary to take in Korea. It is understood that Russian subjects in Korea shall be treated in exactly the same manner as the subjects and citizens of other foreign powers; that is to say, they shall be placed on the same footing as the subjects and citizens of the most favored nation. It is also agreed that in order to avoid causes of misunderstanding the two high contracting parties will abstain on the Russian-Korean frontier from taking any military measure which may menace the security of Russian or Korean territory.

"Art. 3. Japan and Russia mutually engage:

"First. To evacuate completely and simultaneously Manchuria except the territory affected by the lease of the Liaoting peninsula in conformity with the provisions of the additional article 1 annexed to this treaty; and,

"Second. To restore entirely and completely to the exclusive administration of China all the portions of Manchuria now in occupation or under the control of the Japanese or Russian troops with the exception of the territory above mentioned.

"The imperial government of Russia declares that it has not in Manchuria any territorial advantages or preferential or exclusive concessions in the impairment of Chinese sovereignty or inconsistent with the principle of equal opportunity.

"Art. 4. Japan and Russia reciprocally engage not to obstruct any general measures common to all countries which China may take for the development of the commerce or industry of Manchuria.

"Art. 5. The imperial Russian government transfers and assigns to the imperial government of Japan with the consent of the government of China the lease of Port Arthur, Talien and the adjacent territory and territorial waters, and all rights, privileges and concessions connected with or forming part of such lease, and they also transfer and assign to the imperial government of Japan all public works and properties in the territory affected by the above-mentioned lease.

"The two contracting parties mutually engage to obtain the consent of the Chinese government mentioned in the foregoing stipulation.

"The imperial government of Japan on its part undertakes that the proprietary rights of Russian subjects in the territory above referred to shall be perfectly respected.

"Art. 6. The imperial Russian government engages to transfer and assign to the imperial government of Japan without compensation and with the consent of the Chinese government the railway between Changchunfu and Kuanchangtsu and Port Arthur and all the branches, together with all the rights, privileges and properties appertaining thereto in that region, as well as all the coal mines in said region belonging to or worked for the benefit of the railway. The two high contracting parties mutually engage to obtain the consent of the government of China mentioned in the foregoing stipulation.

"Art. 7. Japan and Russia engage to exploit their respective railways in Manchuria exclusively for commercial and industrial purposes and nowise for strategic purposes. It is understood that this restriction does not apply to the railway in the territory affected by the lease of the Liautung peninsula.

"Art. 8. The imperial governments of Japan and Russia, with the view to promote and facilitate intercourse and traffic, will, as soon as possible, conclude a separate convention for the regulation of their connecting railway services in Manchuria.

"Art. 9. The imperial Russian government cedes to the imperial government of Japan in perpetuity and full sovereignty the southern portion of the island of Sakhalin and all the islands adjacent thereto and the public works and properties thereon. The 50th degree of north latitude is adopted as the northern boundary of the ceded territory. The exact alignment of such territory shall be determined in accordance with the provisions of the additional article 11 annexed to this treaty.

"Japan and Russia mutually agree not to construct in their respective possessions on the island of Sakhalin or the adjacent islands any fortifications or other similar military works. They also respectively engage not to take any military measures which may impede the free navigation of the Strait of La Perouse and the Strait of Tartary.

"Art. 10. It is reserved to Russian subjects, inhabitants of the territory ceded to Japan, to sell their real property and retire to their country, but if they prefer to remain in the ceded territory they will be maintained and protected in the full exercise of their industries and rights of property on condition of submitting to the Japanese laws and jurisdiction. Japan shall have full liberty to withdraw the right of residence in or to deport from such territory any inhabitants who labor under political or administrative disability. She engages, however, that the proprietary rights of such inhabitants shall be fully respected.

"Art. 11. Russia engages to arrange with Japan for granting to Japanese subjects the rights of fishery along the coasts of the Russian possessions in the Japan, Okhotsk and Bering seas.

"It is agreed that the foregoing engagement shall not affect rights already belonging to Russian or foreign subjects in those regions.

"Art. 12. The treaty of commerce and navigation between Japan and Russia having been annulled by the war, the imperial governments of Japan and Russia engage to adopt as a basis for their commercial relations pending the conclusion of a new treaty of commerce and navigation the basis of the treaty which was in force previous to the present war, the system of reciprocal treatment on the footing of the most favored nation, in which are included import and export duties, customs formalities, transit and tonnage dues and the admission and treatment of agents, subjects and vessels of one country in the territories of the other.

"Art. 13. As soon as possible after the present treaty comes in force all prisoners of war shall be reciprocally restored. The imperial governments of Japan and Russia shall each appoint a special commissioner to take charge of the prisoners. All prisoners in the hands of one government shall be delivered to and be received by the commissioner of the other government or by his duly authorized representative in such convenient numbers and at such convenient ports of the delivering state as such delivering state shall notify in advance to the commissioner of the receiving state.

"The governments of Japan and Russia shall present each other, as soon as possible after the delivery of the prisoners is completed, with a statement of the direct expenditures respectively incurred by them for the care and maintenance of the prisoners from the date of capture or surrender and up to the time of death or delivery. Russia engages to repay to Japan as soon as possible after the exchange of statement as above provided the difference between the actual amount so expended by Japan and the actual amount similarly disbursed by Russia.

"Art. 14. The present treaty shall be ratified by their majesties the emperor of Japan and the emperor of all the Russias. Such ratification shall be with as little delay as possible and in any case not later than fifty days from the date of the signature of the treaty, to be announced to the imperial governments of Japan and Russia respectively through the French minister at Tokyo and the ambassador of the United States at St. Petersburg, and from the date of the latter of such announcements this treaty shall in all its parts come into full force. The formal exchange of ratifications shall take place at Washington as soon as possible.

"Art. 15. The present treaty shall be signed in duplicate in both the English and French languages. The texts are in absolute conformity, but in case of a discrepancy in the interpretation the French text shall prevail.

"In conformity with the provisions of articles 3 and 9 of the treaty of peace between Japan and Russia of this date the undersigned plenipotentiaries have concluded the following additional articles:

"Subarticle to article 3. The imperial governments of Japan and Russia mutually engage to commence with the withdrawal of their military forces from the territory of Manchuria simultaneously and immediately after the treaty of peace comes into operation and within a period of eighteen months after that date the armies of the two countries shall be completely withdrawn from Manchuria except from the leased territory of the Liautung peninsula. The forces of the two countries occupying the front positions shall first be withdrawn.

"The high contracting parties reserve to themselves the right to maintain guards to protect their respective railway lines in Manchuria. The number of such guards within that maximum number the commanders of the Japanese and Russian armies shall by common accord fix the number of such guards to be employed as small as possible while having in view the actual requirements.

"The commanders of the Japanese and Russian forces in Manchuria shall agree upon the details of the evacuation in conformity with the above principles and shall take by common accord the measures necessary to carry out the evacuation as soon as possible and in any case no later than the period of eighteen months.

"Subarticle to article 9. As soon as possible after the present treaty comes into force a commission of delimitation, composed of an equal number of members to be appointed respectively by the two high contracting parties, shall on the spot mark the exact boundary between the Japanese and Russian possessions on the island of Sakhalin. The commission shall be bound so far as topographical considerations permit to follow the fiftieth parallel of north latitude as the boundary line, and in case any deflections from that line at any points are found to be necessary compensation will be made by correlative deflections at other points. It shall also be the duty of the said commission to prepare a list and a description of the adjacent islands included in the cession, and finally the commission shall prepare and sign maps showing the boundaries of the ceded territory. The work of the commission shall be subject to the approval of the high contracting parties.

"The foregoing additional articles are to be considered ratified with the ratification of the treaty of peace to which they are annexed.

"Portsmouth, the fifth day of the ninth month of the thirty-eighth year of the Meiji, corresponding to the 23d of August, 1905 (Sept. 5, 1905).

"In witness whereof the respective plenipotentiaries have signed and affixed seals to the present treaty of peace.

"Done at Portsmouth, N. H., this fifth day of the ninth month of the thirty-eighth year of the Meiji, corresponding to the 23d day of August, 1905."

The treaty was ratified by the imperial diet of Japan Oct. 4 and was signed by the emperors of Japan and Russia Oct. 14. Demonstrations against the ratification of the treaty occurred in Tokyo and other cities of Japan in September, but they had no effect on the government. The failure to secure an indemnity was the cause of great dissatisfaction.

REVOLUTION IN RUSSIA.

While the Russian government was fighting a disastrous war with Japan in the far east forces were actively at work in the empire tending toward a complete political and industrial revolution. Every defeat in the field was followed by increased agitation at home for a change in the order of things. So complete was the exposure of the inefficiency and corruption of the majority of those in power that the great body of the people lost much of their faith in the czar, the grand dukes and the other representatives of autocracy. Reformers of all shades of opinion saw the opportunity and took advantage of it. The working classes were urged to demand better wages and better conditions of living, with the result that strikes became frequent, though hitherto almost unknown. Those who were advocating the establishment of a constitutional government became bold and freely expressed their opinions in meetings which a few months before could not possibly have been held. Nihilists and anarchists sought to inaugurate a reign of terror and were partly successful. Then racial and religious riots in the Caucasus and elsewhere became so serious as to give the impression that the empire was on the point of crumbling into pieces.

While the movement for popular liberty and the overthrow of the autocracy was in a measure the result of design, it was not concerted. It cannot be said to have begun at any particular time or place. No one man or set of men appeared to be at the head of it. Many men were concerned in it, but their motives were as various as the localities in which they worked were numerous and widely separated. They did not act in harmony with each other, but their acts all tended in the same general direction—toward the emancipation of the masses from autocratic rule. This will appear from the sequence of events in the following story of Russia's internal troubles in 1904 and 1905:

VON PLEHVE ASSASSINATED.

July 28, 1904—Von Plehve, minister of the interior, assassinated.

Sept. 29—Prince Sviatopolk-Mirsky, liberal statesman, appointed to succeed Von Plehve as minister of the interior; regarded as a defeat for the reactionaries.

Nov. 13—Rioting in Warsaw; ten persons killed and about thirty wounded by the troops.

Nov. 19—Representatives of the zemstvos (district or provincial assemblies) met in St. Petersburg and adopted a memorial to the czar asking for a more liberal administration and a representative government. The chief resolution in the memorial was as follows: "In order to secure the proper development of the life of the state and the people it is imperatively necessary that there be a regular participation of national representatives, sitting as an especially elected body to make laws, regulate the revenues and expenditures and determine the legality of the acts of the administration."

Dec. 26—Ukase issued by the czar in reply to the memorial of the zemstvos; demand for a representative government denied and the continuance of the autocracy announced, but certain reforms, including uniform laws for the peasantry, liberty of the press and religion, revision of laws affecting foreigners, legal redress for persons suffering from arbitrary acts, and better general laws promised; ukase unsatisfactory both to the reactionaries and liberals; czar's policy said to have been founded in part on report made to him by M. Witte.

Dec. 27—Meeting of Moscow zemstvo adjourned indefinitely on the ground that the attitude of the government made it impossible to conduct public business.

Dec. 28—Great strike of workmen in the Baku oil fields begun.

Dec. 29—Town council of St. Petersburg passed resolution to petition for a congress of representatives of all municipal councils in Russia.

Jan. 18, 1905—Great strike of workmen in the Putiloff iron works and the Neva ship-building works at St. Petersburg; 50,000 men reported out; Father Gapon, a leader of the strikers, announced that on the following Sunday they would assemble before the winter palace and present a petition to the czar asking among other things for the election of a constituent assembly by secret ballot, equality of all classes in the elections, eight hours' work per day, arbitration, a minimum wage of 50 cents a day for unskilled male and 35 cents for unskilled female labor, improved sanitary conditions and immunity from punishment of strikers.

Jan. 19—Solid shot fired at the czar from a saluting battery while he was attending the ceremony of blessing the waters of the Neva.

MASSACRE IN ST. PETERSBURG.

Jan. 22—Attempt made by the strikers to present their petition to the czar in St. Petersburg attended by frightful scenes of disorder and bloodshed; hundreds of men, women and children killed or wounded by troops; Father Gapon made his escape, though reported wounded and captured; the city placed under martial law.

It is for this reason that, while preserving the fundamental law regarding the autocratic power, we have deemed it well to form a lower house of the assembly and to approve the regulations for the elections to this douma [assembly], extending the validity of these laws to the whole empire with such exceptions only as may be considered necessary. As regards the participation in the labors of the douma of delegates from the grand duchy of Finland on questions concerning the empire in general we will take special measures. At the same time we have ordered the minister of the interior to submit immediately for our approbation regulations for the elections to the douma, so that deputies from fifty governments and from the military province of Don may be able to assemble not later than the middle of January, 1906. "The happiness of the Russian sovereign is indissolubly bound up with the happiness of our people and the sorrow of our people is the sorrow of the sovereign.

"From the present disorders may arise great national disruption. They menace the integrity and unity of our empire.

"The supreme duty imposed upon us by our sovereign office requires us to efface ourself and to use all the force and reason at our command to hasten in securing the unity and co-ordination of the power of the central government and to assure the success of measures for pacification in all circles of public life, which are essential to the well-being of our people.

"We, therefore, direct our government to carry out our inflexible will in the following manner:

"First—To extend to the population the immutable foundations of civic liberty, based on the real inviolability of person, freedom of conscience, speech, union and association.

"Second—Without suspending the already ordered elections to the state douma, to invite to participation in the douma, so far as the limited time before the convocation of the douma will permit, those classes of the population now completely deprived of electoral rights, leaving the ultimate development of the principle of the electoral right in general to the newly established legislative order of things.

"Third—To establish as an unchangeable rule that no law shall be enforced without the approval of the state douma and that it shall be possible for the elected of the people to exercise real participation in the supervision of the legality of the acts of the authorities appointed by us.

"We appeal to all faithful sons of Russia to remember their duty toward the fatherland, to aid in terminating these unprecedented troubles and to apply their forces, in co-operation with us, to the restoration of calm and peace upon our natal soil.

EARTHQUAKE IN CALABRIA, ITALY.

Scores of towns and villages in Calabria, Italy, were damaged or destroyed by a severe earthquake at 2:55 o'clock on the morning of Sept. 8, 1905. Four thousand six hundred buildings were wrecked, including four castles and ninety churches. Four thousand persons were killed and 70-000 made homeless. Among the larger places where great loss of life took place were Pizzo, Monteleone, Martirano, Piscopio and San Gregorio. The whole of the Calabrian peninsula was affected and al-simultaneously with the earthquake the volcanoes of Vesuvius and Stromboli showed marked activity.

Most of the victims were trespassers on the railroad tracks or were struck on grade crossings. The total killed for the year was 10,046 and the total injured 84,155. Of railway employes 1 in every 337 was killed and

1 in every 19 injured. Of trainmen 1 in 120 was killed and 1 in 9 injured.

In 1904 1 passenger was killed for every 1,622,267 carried and 1 injured for every 78,523 carried. With respect to the number of miles traveled the figures for 1904 show that 49,712,502 passenger miles were accomplished for each passenger killed and 2,466,236 miles for each passenger injured.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

To the 59th congress, first session.

To the Senate and House of Representatives: The people of this country continue to enjoy great prosperity. Undoubtedly there will be ebb and flow in such prosperity, and this ebb and flow will be felt more or less by all members of the community, both by the deserving and the undeserving. Against the wrath of the Lord the wisdom of man cannot avail; in times of flood or drought human ingenuity can but partially repair the disaster. A general failure of crops would hurt all of us.

Again, if the folly of man mars the general well-being, then those who are innocent of the folly will have to pay part of the penalty incurred by those who are guilty of the folly. A panic brought on by the speculative folly of part of the business community would hurt the whole business community. But such stoppage of welfare, though it might be severe, would not be lasting. In the long run the one vital factor in the permanent prosperity of the country is the high individual character of the average American worker, the average American citizen, no matter whether his work be mental or manual, whether he be farmer or wage-worker, business man or professional man.

In our industrial and social system the interests of all men are so closely intertwined that in the immense majority of cases a straight-dealing man who by his efficiency, by his ingenuity and industry, benefits himself must also benefit others. Normally the man of great productive capacity who becomes rich by guiding the labor of many other men does so by enabling them to produce more than they could produce without his guidance; and both he and they share in the benefit, which comes also to the public at large. The superficial fact that the sharing may be unequal must never blind us to the underlying fact that there is this sharing, and that the benefit comes in some degree to each man concerned.

Normally the wage-worker, the man of small means, and the average consumer, as well as the average producer, are all alike helped by making conditions such that the man of exceptional business ability receives an exceptional reward for his ability. Something can be done by legislation to help the general prosperity; but no such help of a permanently beneficial character can be given to the less able and less fortunate, save as the results of a policy which shall inure to the advantage of all industrious and efficient people who act decently; and this is only another way of saying that any benefit which comes to the less able and less fortunate must of necessity come even more to the more able and more fortunate.

If, therefore, the less fortunate man is moved by envy of his more fortunate brother to strike at the conditions under which they have both, though unequally, prospered, the result will assuredly be that, while damage may come to the one struck at, it will visit with an even heavier load the one who strikes the blow. Taken as a whole we must all go up or down together.

Yet, while not merely admitting but insisting upon this, it is also true that where there is no governmental restraint or supervision some of the exceptional men use their energies not in ways that are for the common good but in ways which tell against this common good. The fortunes amassed through corporate organization are now so large and vest such power in those that wield them as to make it a matter of necessity to give to the sovereign—that is, to the government, which represents the people as a whole—some effective power of supervision over their corporate use. In order to insure a healthy social and industrial life every big corporation should be held responsible by, and be accountable to, some sovereign strong enough to control its conduct.

I am in no sense hostile to corporations. This is an age of combination, and any effort to prevent all combination will be not only useless but in the end vicious, because of the contempt for law which the failure to enforce law inevitably produces. We should, moreover, recognize in cordial and ample fashion the immense good effected by corporate agencies in a country such as ours, and the wealth of intellect, energy and fidelity devoted to their service, and therefore normally to the service of the public, by their officers and directors. The corporation has come to stay, just as the trade union has come to stay. Each can do and has done great good. Each should be favored so long as it does good. But each should be sharply checked where it acts against law and justice.

INDUSTRIAL REGULATION.

So long as the finances of the nation are kept upon an honest basis no other question of internal economy with which the congress has the power to deal begins to approach in importance the matter of endeavoring to secure proper industrial conditions under which the individuals—and especially the great corporations—doing an interstate business are to act. The makers of our national constitution provided especially that the regulation of interstate commerce should come within the sphere of the general government. The arguments in favor of their taking this stand were even then overwhelming. But they are far stronger to-day, in view of the enormous development of great business agencies, usually corporate in form. Experience has shown conclusively that it is useless to try to get any adequate regulation and supervision of these great corporations by state action. Such regulation and supervision can only be effectively exercised by a sovereign whose jurisdiction is coextensive with the field of work of the corporations—that is, by the national government.

I believe that this regulation and supervision can be obtained by the enactment of laws by the congress. If this proves impossible it will certainly be necessary ultimately to confer in fullest form such power upon the national government by a proper amendment of the constitution.

It would obviously be unwise to endeavor to secure such an amendment until it is certain that the result cannot be obtained under the constitution as it now is. The laws of the congress and of the several states hitherto, as passed upon by the courts, have resulted more often in showing that the states have no power in the matter than that the national government has power; so that there at present exists a very unfortunate condition of things, under which these great corporations doing an interstate business occupy the position of subjects without a sovereign, neither any state government nor the national government having effective control over them. Our steady aim should be by legislation, cautiously and carefully undertaken, but resolutely persevered in, to assert the sovereignty of the national government by affirmative action.

This is only in form an innovation. In substance it is merely a restoration; for from the earliest time such regulation of industrial activities has been recognized in the action of the lawmaking bodies; and all that I propose is to meet the changed conditions in such manner as will prevent the commonwealth abdicating the power it has always possessed, not only in this country but also in England before and since this country became a separate nation.

It has been a misfortune that the national laws on this subject have hitherto been of a negative or prohibitive rather than an affirmative kind, and still more that they have in part sought to prohibit what could not be effectively prohibited, and have in part in their prohibitions confounded what should be allowed and what should not be allowed. It is generally useless to try to prohibit all restraint on competition, whether this restraint be reasonable or unreasonable, and where it is not useless it is generally hurtful.

Events have shown that it is not possible adequately to secure the enforcement of any law of this kind by incessant appeal to the courts. The department of justice has for the last four years devoted more attention to the enforcement of the antitrust legislation than to anything else. Much has been accomplished, particularly marked has been the moral effect of the prosecutions, but it is increasingly evident that there will be a very insufficient beneficial result in the way of economic change. The successful prosecution of one device to evade the law immediately develops another device to accomplish the same purpose. What is needed is not sweeping prohibition of every arrangement, good or bad, which may tend to restrict competition, but such adequate supervision and regulation as will prevent any restriction of competition from being to the detriment of the public—as well as such supervision and regulation as will prevent any other abuses in no way connected with restriction of competition.

Of these abuses perhaps the chief, although by no means the only one, is overcapitalization—generally itself the result of dishonest promotion—because of the myriad evils it brings in its train; for such overcapitalization often means an inflation that invites business panic; it always conceals the true relation of the profit earned to the capital actually invested, and it creates a burden of interest payments which is a fertile cause of improper reduction in or limitation of wages; it damages the small investor, discourages thrift and encourages gambling and speculation; while perhaps worst of all is the trickiness and dishonesty which it implies—for harm to morals is worse than any possible harm to material interests, and the debauchery of politics and business by great dishonest corporations is far worse than any actual material evil they do to the public.

Until the national government obtains, in some manner which the wisdom of the congress may suggest, proper control over the big corporations engaged in interstate commerce—that is, over the great majority of the big corporations—it will be impossible to deal adequately with these evils.

DIFFICULTIES OF LEGISLATION.

I am well aware of the difficulties of the legislation that I am suggesting and of the need of temperate and cautious action in securing it. I should emphatically protest against improperly radical or hasty action. The first thing to do is to deal with the great corporations engaged in the business of interstate transportation. As I said in my message of Dec. 6 last, the immediate and most pressing need, so far as legislation is concerned, is the enactment into law of some scheme to secure to the agents of the government such supervision and regulation of the rates charged by the railroads of the country engaged in interstate traffic as shall summarily and effectively prevent the imposition of unjust or unreasonable rates. It must include putting a complete stop to rebates in every shape and form. This power to regulate rates, like all similar powers over the business world, should be exercised with moderation, caution and self-restraint; but it should exist, so that it can be effectively exercised when the need arises.

The first consideration to be kept in mind is that the power should be affirmative and should be given to some administrative body created by the congress. If given to the present interstate-commerce commission or to a reorganized interstate-commerce commission, such a commission should be made unequivocally administrative. I do not believe in the government interfering with private business more than is necessary. I do not believe in the government undertaking any work which can with propriety be left in private hands. But neither do I believe in the government flinching from overseeing any work when it becomes evident that abuses are sure to obtain therein unless there is governmental supervision. It is not my province to indicate the exact terms of the law which should be enacted, but I call the attention of the congress to certain existing conditions with which it is desirable to deal.

In my judgment the most important provision which such law should contain is that conferring upon some competent administrative body the power to decide, upon the case being brought before it, whether a given rate prescribed by a railroad is reasonable and just, and if it is found to be unreasonable and unjust, then, after full investigation of the complaint, to prescribe the limit of rate beyond which it shall not be lawful to go—the maximum reasonable rate, as it is commonly called—this decision to go into effect within a reasonable time and to obtain from thence onward, subject to review by the courts.

It sometimes happens at present not that a rate is too high but that a favored shipper is given too low a rate. In such case the commission would have the right to fix this already established minimum rate as the maximum; and it would need only one or two such decisions by the commission to cure railroad companies of the practice of giving improper minimum rates. I call your attention to the fact that my proposal is not to give the commission power to initiate or originate rates generally, but to regulate a rate already fixed or originated by the roads, upon complaint and after investigation. A heavy penalty should be exacted from any corporation which fails to respect an order of the commission. I regard this power to establish a maximum rate as being essential to any scheme of real reform in the matter of railway regulation. The first necessity is to secure it; and unless it is granted to the commission there is little use in touching the subject at all.

Illegal transactions often occur under the forms of law. It has often occurred that a shipper has been told by a traffic officer to buy a large quantity of some commodity and then, after it has been bought, an open reduction is made in the rate to take effect immediately, the arrangement resulting to the profit of the one shipper and the one railroad and to the damage of all their competitors; for it must not be forgotten that the big shippers are at least as much to blame as any railroad in the matter of rebates.

The law should make it clear so that nobody can fail to understand that any kind of commission paid on freight shipments, whether in this form or in the form of fictitious damages, or of a concession, a free pass, reduced passenger rate, or payment of brokerage, is illegal. It is worth while considering whether it would not be wise to confer on the government the right of civil action against the beneficiary of a rebate for at least twice the value of the rebate; this would help stop what is really blackmail. Elevator allowances should be stopped, for they have now grown to such an extent that they are demoralizing and are used as rebates.

The best possible regulation of rates would, of course, be that regulation secured by an honest agreement among the railroads themselves to carry out the law. Such a general agreement would, for instance, at once put a stop to the efforts of any one big shipper or big railroad to discriminate against or secure advantages over some rival, and such agreement would make the railroads themselves agents for enforcing the law. The power vested in the government to put a stop to agreements to the detriment of the public should, in my judgment, be accompanied by power to permit, under specified conditions and careful supervision, agreements clearly in the interest of the public. But, in my judgment, the necessity for giving this further power is by no means as great as the necessity for giving the commission or administrative body the other powers I have enumerated above and it may well be inadvisable to attempt to vest this particular power in the commission or other administrative body until it already possesses and is exercising what I regard is by far the most important of all the powers I recommend—as indeed the vitally important power—that to fix a given maximum rate, which rate, after the lapse of a reasonable time, goes into full effect, subject to review by the courts.

PRIVATE-CAR LINES.

All private-car lines, industrial roads, refrigerator charges and the like should be expressly put under the supervision of the interstate-commerce commission or some similar body so far as rates and agreements practically affecting rates are concerned. The private-car owners and the owners of industrial railroads are entitled to a fair and reasonable compensation on their investment, but neither private cars nor industrial railroads nor spur tracks should be utilized as devices for securing preferential rates.

A rebate in icing charges or in mileage or in a division of the rate for refrigerating charges is just as pernicious as a rebate in any other way. No lower rate should apply on goods imported than actually obtains on domestic goods from the American seaboard to destination except in cases where water competition is the controlling influence. There should be publicity of the accounts of common carriers; no common carrier engaged in interstate business should keep any books or memoranda other than those reported pursuant to law or regulation, and these books or memoranda should be open to the inspection of the government.

Only in this way can violations or evasions of the law be surely detected. A system of examination of railroad accounts should be provided similar to that now conducted into the national banks by the bank examiners; a few first-class railroad accountants, if they had proper direction and proper authority to inspect books and papers, could accomplish much in preventing willful violations of the law. It would not be necessary for them to examine into the accounts of any railroad unless for good reasons they were directed to do so by the interstate-commerce commission.

It is greatly to be desired that some way might be found by which an agreement as to transportation within a state intended to operate as a fraud upon the federal interstate-commerce laws could be brought under the jurisdiction of the federal authorities. At present it occurs that large shipments of interstate traffic are controlled by concessions on purely state business, which of course amounts to an evasion of the law. The commission should have power to enforce fair treatment by the great trunk lines of lateral and branch lines.

I urge upon the congress the need of providing for expeditious action by the interstate-commerce commission in all these matters, whether in regulating rates for transportation or for storing or for handling property or commodities in transit. The history of the cases litigated under the present commerce act shows that its efficacy has been to a great degree destroyed by the weapon of delay, almost the most formidable weapon in the hands of those whose purpose it is to violate the law.

Let me most earnestly say that these recommendations are not made in any spirit of hostility to the railroads. On ethical grounds, on grounds of right, such hostility would be intolerable; and on grounds of mere national self-interest we must remember that such hostility would tell against the welfare not merely of some few rich men but of a multitude of small investors, a multitude of railway employees, wage workers, and most severely against the interest of the public as a whole.

I believe that on the whole our railroads have done well and not ill, but the railroad men who wish to do well should not be exposed to competition with those who have no such desire, and the only way to secure this end is to give to some government tribunal the power to see that justice is done by the unwilling exactly as it is gladly done by the willing. Moreover, if some government body is given increased power the effect will be to furnish authoritative answer on behalf of the railroad whenever irrational clamor against it is raised or whenever charges made against it are disproved.

I ask this legislation not only in the interest of the public but in the interest of the honest railroad man and the honest shipper alike, for it is they who are chiefly jeopardized by the practices of their dishonest competitors. This legislation should be enacted in a spirit as remote as possible from hysteria and rancor. If we of the American body politic are true to the traditions we have inherited we shall always scorn any effort to make us hate any man because he is rich, just as much as we should scorn any effort to make us look down upon or treat contemptuously any man because he is poor.

We judge a man by his conduct—that is, by his character—and not by his wealth or intellect. If he makes his fortune honestly there is no just cause of quarrel with him. Indeed, we have nothing but the kindest feelings of admiration for the successful business man who behaves decently, whether he has made his success by building or managing a railroad or by shipping goods over that railroad. The big railroad men and big shippers are simply Americans of the ordinary type who have developed to an extraordinary degree certain great business qualities. They are neither better nor worse than their fellow citizens of smaller means. They are merely more able in certain lines and therefore exposed to certain peculiarly strong temptations. These temptations have not sprung newly into being; the exceptionally successful among mankind have always been exposed to them; but they have grown amazingly in power as a result of the extraordinary development of industrialism along new lines, and under these new conditions, which the lawmakers of old could not foresee and therefore could not provide against, they have become so serious and menacing as to demand entirely new remedies.

It is in the interest of the best type of railroad man and the best type of shipper no less than of the public that there should be governmental supervision and regulation of these great business operations, for the same reason that it is in the interest of the corporation which wishes to treat its employees aright that there should be an effective employers' liability act, or an effective system of factory laws to prevent the abuse of women and children. All such legislation frees the corporation that wishes to do well from being driven into doing ill in order to compete with its rival which prefers to do ill. We desire to set up a moral standard. There can be no delusion more fatal to the nation than the delusion that the standard of profits, of business prosperity, is sufficient in judging any business or political question—from rate legislation to municipal government.

Business success, whether for the individual or for the nation, is a good thing only so far as it is accompanied by and develops a high standard of conduct—honor, integrity, civic courage. The kind of business prosperity that blunts the standard of honor, that puts an inordinate value on mere wealth, that makes a man ruthless and conscienceless in trade and weak and cowardly in citizenship, is not a good thing at all, but a very bad thing for the nation. This government stands for manhood first, and for business only as an adjunct of manhood.

The question of transportation lies at the root of all industrial success, and the revolution in transportation which has taken place during the last half century has been the most important factor in the growth of the new industrial conditions. Most emphatically we do not wish to see the man of great talents refused the reward for his talents. Still less do we wish to see him penalized, but we do desire to see the system of railroad transportation so handled that the strong man shall be given no advantage over the weak man. We wish to insure as fair treatment for the small town as for the big city; for the small shipper as for the big shipper. In the old days the highway of commerce, whether by water or by a road on land, was open to all; it belonged to the public and the traffic along it was free.

FEDERAL OWNERSHIP OF RAILWAYS.

At present the railway is this highway and we must do our best to see that it is kept open to all on equal terms. Unlike the old highway, it is a very difficult and complex thing to manage, and it is far better that it should be managed by private individuals than by the government. But it can only be so managed on condition that justice is done the public. It is because, in my judgment, public ownership of railroads is highly undesirable and would probably in this country entail far-reaching disaster, that I wish to see such supervision and regulation of them in the interest of the public as will make it evident that there is no need for public ownership.

The opponents of government regulation dwell upon the difficulties to be encountered and the intricate and involved nature of the problem. Their contention is true. It is a complicated and delicate problem, and all kinds of difficulties are sure to arise in connection with any plan of solution, while no plan will bring all the benefits hoped for by its more optimistic adherents. Moreover, under any healthy plan, the benefits will develop gradually and not rapidly.

Finally, we must clearly understand that the public servants who are to do this peculiarly responsible and delicate work must themselves be of the highest type both as regards integrity and efficiency. They must be well paid, for otherwise able men cannot in the long run be secured, and they must possess a lofty probity which will revolt as quickly at the thought of pandering to any gust of popular prejudice against rich men as at the thought of anything even remotely resembling subservience to rich men.

But while I fully admit the difficulties in the way, I do not for a moment admit that these difficulties warrant us in stopping in our effort to secure a wise and just system. They should have no other effect than to spur us on to the exercise of the resolution, the even-handed justice and the fertility of resource which we like to think of as typically American and which will in the end achieve good results in this as in other fields of activity. The task is a great one and underlies the task of dealing with the whole industrial problem. But the fact that it is a great problem does not warrant us in shrinking from the attempt to solve it.

At present we face such utter lack of supervision, such freedom from the restraints of law, that excellent men have often been literally forced into doing what they deplored because otherwise they were left at the mercy of unscrupulous competitors. To rail at and assail the men who have done as they best could under such conditions accomplishes little. What we need to do is to develop an orderly system, and such a system can only come through the gradually increased exercise of the right of efficient government control.

In my annual message to the 58th congress, at its third session, I called attention to the necessity of legislation requiring the use of the block signals upon railroads engaged in interstate commerce. The number of serious collisions upon unblocked roads that have occurred within the past year adds force to the recommendation then made. The congress should provide, by appropriate legislation, for the introduction of block signals upon all railroads engaged in interstate commerce at the earliest practicable date, as a measure of increased safety to the traveling public.

Through decisions of the Supreme court of the United States and the lower federal courts in cases brought before them for adjudication the safety-appliance law has been materially strengthened, and the government has been enabled to secure its effective enforcement in almost all cases, with the result that the condition of railroad equipment throughout the country is much improved and railroad employes perform their duties under safer conditions than heretofore. The government's most effective aid in arriving at this result has been its inspection service, and that these improved conditions are not more general is due to the insufficient number of inspectors employed. The inspection service has fully demonstrated its usefulness and in appropriating for its maintenance the congress should make provision for an increase in the number of inspectors.

The excessive hours of labor to which railroad employes in train service are in many cases subjected is also a matter which may well engage the serious attention of the congress. The strain, both mental and physical, upon those who are engaged in the movement and operation of railroad trains under modern conditions is perhaps greater than that which exists in any other industry, and if there are any reasons for limiting by law the hours of labor in any employment they certainly apply with peculiar force to the employment of those upon whose vigilance and alertness in the performance of their duties the safety of all who travel by rail depends.

In my annual message to the 57th congress, at its second session, I recommended the passage of an employers' liability law for the District of Columbia and in our navy yards. I renewed that recommendation in my message to the 58th congress, at its second session, and further suggested the appointment of a commission to make a comprehensive study of employers' liability, with a view to the enactment of a wise and constitutional law covering the subject, applicable to all industries within the scope of the federal power. I hope that such a law will be prepared and enacted as speedily as possible.

LABOR PROBLEMS AND GOVERNMENT.

The national government has as a rule little occasion to deal with the formidable group of problems connected more or less directly with what is known as the labor question, for in the great majority of cases these problems must be dealt with by the state and municipal authorities and not by the national government. The national government has control of the District of Columbia, however, and it should see to it that the city of Washington is made a model city in all respects, both as regards parks, public playgrounds, proper regulation of the system of housing so as to do away with the evils of alley tenements, a proper system of education, a proper system of dealing with truancy and juvenile offenders, a proper handling of the charitable work of the district. Moreover, there should be proper factory laws to prevent all abuses in the employment of women and children in the district. These will be useful chiefly as object lessons, but even this limited amount of usefulness would be of real national value.

There has been demand for depriving courts of the power to issue injunctions in labor disputes. Such special limitations of the equity powers of our courts would be most unwise. It is true that some judges have misused this power, but this does not justify a denial of the power any more than an improper exercise of the power to call a strike by a labor leader would justify the denial of the right to strike. The remedy is to regulate the procedure by requiring the judge to give due notice to the adverse parties before granting the writ, the hearing to be ex parte if the adverse party does not appear at the time and place ordered. What is due notice must depend upon the facts of the case; it should not be used as a pretext to permit violation of law or the jeopardizing of life or property. Of course this would not authorize the issuing of a restraining order or injunction in any case in which it is not already authorized by existing law.

I renew the recommendation I made in my last annual message for an investigation by the department of commerce and labor of general labor conditions, especial attention to be paid to the conditions of child labor and child-labor legislation in the several states. Such an investigation should take into account the various problems with which the question of child labor is connected. It is true that these problems can be actually met in most cases only by the states themselves, but it would be well for the nation to endeavor to secure and publish comprehensive information as to the conditions of the labor of children in the different states, so as to spur up those that are behindhand and to secure approximately uniform legislation of a high character among the several states.

In such a republic as ours the one thing that we cannot afford to neglect is the problem of turning out decent citizens. The future of the nation depends upon the citizenship of the generations to come; the children of to-day are those who to-morrow will shape the destiny of our land, and we cannot afford to neglect them. The legislature of Colorado has recommended that the national government provide some general measure for the protection from abuse of children and dumb animals throughout the United States. I lay the matter before you for what I trust will be your favorable consideration.

The department of commerce and labor should also make a thorough investigation of the conditions of women in industry. Over 5,000,000 American women are now engaged in gainful occupations; yet there is an almost complete dearth of data upon which to base any trustworthy conclusion as regards a subject as important as it is vast and complicated. There is need of full knowledge on which to base action looking toward state and municipal legislation for the protection of workingwomen. The introduction of women into industry is working change and disturbance in the domestic and social life of the nation.

The decrease in marriage, and especially in the birth rate, has been coincident with it. We must face accomplished facts, and the adjustment to factory conditions must be made, but surely it can be made with less friction and less harmful effects on family life than is now the case. This whole matter in reality forms one of the greatest sociological phenomena of our time; it is a social question of the first importance, of far greater importance than any merely political or economic question can be, and to solve it we need ample data, gathered in a sane and scientific spirit in the course of an exhaustive investigation.

In any great labor disturbance not only are employer and employee interested but also a third party—the general public. Every considerable labor difficulty in which interstate commerce is involved should be investigated by the government and the facts officially reported to the public.

The question of securing a healthy, self-respecting and mutually sympathetic attitude as between employer and employee, capitalist and wage-worker, is a difficult one. All phases of the labor problem prove difficult when approached. But the underlying principles, the root principles, in accordance with which the problem must be solved, are entirely simple. We can get justice and right dealing only if we put as of paramount importance the principle of treating a man on his worth as a man rather than with reference to his social position, his occupation or the class to which he belongs.

There are selfish and brutal men in all ranks of life. If they are capitalists their selfishness and brutality may take the form of hard indifference to suffering, greedy disregard of every moral restraint which interferes with the accumulation of wealth and cold-blooded exploitation of the weak; or, if they are laborers, the form of laziness, of sullen envy of the more fortunate and of willingness to perform deeds of murderous violence. Such conduct is just as reprehensible in one case as in the other, and all honest and far-seeing men should join in warring against it wherever it becomes manifest. Individual capitalist and individual wage-worker, corporation and union, are alike entitled to the protection of law and must alike obey the law.

CAPITAL AND LABOR PARTNERS.

Moreover, in addition to mere obedience to the law, each man, if he be really a good citizen, must show broad sympathy for his neighbor and genuine desire to look at any question arising between them from the standpoint of that neighbor no less than from his own, and to this end it is essential that capitalist and wage-worker should consult freely one with the other, should each strive to bring closer the day when both shall realize that they are properly partners and not enemies. To approach the questions which inevitably rise between them solely from the standpoint which treats each side in the mass as the enemy of the other side in the mass is both wicked and foolish.

In the past the most direful among the influences which have brought about the downfall of republics has ever been the growth of the class spirit, the growth of the spirit which tends to make a man subordinate the welfare of the public as a whole to the welfare of the particular class to which he belongs, the substitution of loyalty to a class for loyalty to the nation. This inevitably brings about a tendency to treat each man not on his merits as an individual but on his position as belonging to a certain class in the community.

If such a spirit grows up in this republic it will ultimately prove fatal to us, as in the past it has proved fatal to every community in which it has become dominant. Unless we continue to keep a quick and lively sense of the great fundamental truth that our concern is with the individual worth of the individual man, this government cannot permanently hold the place which it has achieved among the nations. The vital lines of cleavage among our people do not correspond, and, indeed, run at right angles to the lines of cleavage which divide occupation from occupation, which divide wage-workers from capitalists, farmers from bankers, men of small means from men of large means, men who live in the towns from men who live in the country, for the vital line of cleavage is the line which divides the honest man who tries to do well by his neighbor from the dishonest man who does ill by his neighbor.

In other words, the standard we should establish is the standard of conduct, not the standard of occupation, of means, or of social position. It is the man's moral quality, his attitude toward the great questions which concern all humanity, his cleanliness of life, his power to do his duty toward himself and toward others, which really count, and if we substitute for the standard of personal judgment which treats each man according to his merits another standard in accordance with which all men of one class are favored and all men of another class discriminated against, we shall do irreparable damage to the body politic. I believe that our people are too sane, too self-respecting, too fit for self-government, ever to adopt such an attitude.

This government is not and never shall be government by a plutocracy. This government is not and never shall be government by a mob. It shall continue to be in the future what it has been in the past, a government based on the theory that each man, rich or poor, is to be treated simply and solely on his worth as a man, that all his personal and property rights are to be safeguarded, and that he is neither to wrong others nor to suffer wrong from others.

The noblest of all forms of government is self-government, but it is also the most difficult. We who possess this priceless boon and who desire to hand it on to our children and our children's children should ever bear in mind the thought so finely expressed by Burke: "Men are qualified for civil liberty in exact proportion to their disposition to put moral chains upon their own appetites; in proportion as they are disposed to listen to the counsels of the wise and good in preference to the flattery of knaves. Society can not exist unless a controlling power upon will and appetite be placed somewhere, and the less of it there be within the more there must be without. It is ordained in the eternal constitution of things that men of intemperate minds can not be free. Their passions forge their fetters."

FOR SAFEGUARDING INSURANCE.

The great insurance companies afford striking examples of corporations whose business has extended so far beyond the jurisdiction of the states which created them as to preclude strict enforcement of supervision and regulation by the parent states. In my last annual message I recommended that "the congress carefully consider whether the power of the bureau of corporations cannot constitutionally be extended to cover interstate transactions in insurance." Recent events have emphasized the importance of an early and exhaustive consideration of this question, to see whether it is not possible to furnish better safeguards than the several states have been able to furnish against corruption of the flagrant kind which has been exposed. It has been only too clearly shown that certain of the men at the head of these large corporations take but small note of the ethical distinction between honesty and dishonesty; they draw the line only this side of what may be called law-honesty, the kind of honesty necessary in order to avoid falling into the clutches of the law.

Of course the only complete remedy for this condition must be found in an aroused public conscience, a higher sense of ethical conduct in the community at large, and especially among business men and in the great profession of law, and in the growth of a spirit which condemns all dishonesty, whether in rich man or in poor man, whether it takes the shape of bribery or of blackmail. But much can be done by legislation which is not only drastic but practical. There is need of a far stricter and more uniform regulation of the vast insurance interests of this country.

The United States should in this respect follow the policy of other nations by providing adequate national supervision of commercial interests which are clearly national in character. My predecessors have repeatedly recognized that the foreign business of these companies is an important part of our foreign commercial relations. During the administrations of Presidents Cleveland, Harrison and McKinley the state department exercised its influence, through diplomatic channels, to prevent unjust discrimination by foreign countries against American insurance companies. These negotiations illustrated the propriety of the congress recognizing the national character of insurance, for in the absence of federal legislation the state department could only give expression to the wishes of the authorities of the several states, whose policy was ineffective through want of uniformity.

I repeat my previous recommendation that the congress should also consider whether the federal government has any power or owes any duty with respect to domestic transactions in insurance of an interstate character. That state supervision has proved inadequate is generally conceded. The burden upon insurance companies, and therefore upon their policyholders, of conflicting regulations of many states is unquestioned, while but little effective check is imposed upon any able and unscrupulous man who desires to exploit the company in his own interest at the expense of the policyholders and of the public. The inability of a state to regulate effectively insurance corporations created under the laws of other states and transacting the larger part of their business elsewhere is also clear. As a remedy for this evil of conflicting, ineffective and yet burdensome regulations there has been for many years a widespread demand for federal supervision.

The congress has already recognized that interstate insurance may be a proper subject for federal legislation, for in creating the bureau of corporations it authorized it to publish and supply useful information concerning interstate corporations, "including corporations engaged in insurance." It is obvious that if the compilation of statistics be the limit of the federal power, it is wholly ineffective to regulate this form of commercial intercourse between the states, and as the insurance business has outgrown in magnitude the possibility of adequate state supervision, the congress should carefully consider whether further legislation can be had. What is said above applies with equal force to fraternal and benevolent organizations which contract for life insurance.

DEFICIT IN REVENUES.

There is more need of stability than of the attempt to attain an ideal perfection in the methods or raising revenue, and the shock and strain to the business world certain to attend any serious change in these methods render such change inadvisable unless for grave reason. It is not possible to lay down any general rule by which to determine the moment when the reasons for will outweigh the reasons against such a change. Much must depend, not merely on the needs, but on the desires, of the people as a whole; for needs and desires are not necessarily identical. Of course no change can be made on lines beneficial to or desired by one section or one state only. There must be something like a general agreement among the citizens of the several states, as represented in the congress, that the change is needed and desired in the interest of the people as a whole, and there should then be a sincere, intelligent and disinterested effort to make it in such shape as will combine, so far as possible, the maximum of good to the people at large with the minimum of necessary disregard for the special interests of localities or classes.

But in time of peace the revenue must on the average, taking a series of years together, equal the expenditures, or else the revenues must be increased.

Last year there was a deficit. Unless our expenditures can be kept within the revenues then our revenue laws must be readjusted. It is as yet too early to attempt to outline what shape such a readjustment should take, for it is as yet too early to say whether there will be need for it. It should be considered whether it is not desirable that the tariff laws should provide for applying as against or in favor of any other nation maximum and minimum tariff rates established by the congress, so as to secure a certain reciprocity of treatment between other nations and ourselves. Having in view even larger considerations of policy than those of a purely economic nature, it would, in my judgment, be well to endeavor to bring about closer commercial connections with the other peoples of this continent. I am happy to be able to announce to you that Russia now treats us on the most-favored-nation basis.

I earnestly recommend to the congress the need of economy and to this end of a rigid scrutiny of appropriations. As examples merely, I call your attention to one or two specific matters. All unnecessary offices should be abolished. The commissioner of the general land office recommends the abolishment of the office of receiver of public moneys for United States land offices. This will effect a saving of about $250,000 a year. As the business of the nation grows it is inevitable that there should be from time to time a legitimate increase in the number of officials, and this fact renders it all the more important that when offices become unnecessary they should be abolished. In the public printing also a large saving of public money can be made. There is a constantly growing tendency to publish masses of unimportant information. It is probably not unfair to say that many tens of thousands of volumes are published at which no human being ever looks and for which there is no demand whatever.

Yet, in speaking of economy, I must in no wise be understood as advocating the false economy which is in the end the worst extravagance. To cut down on the navy, for instance, would be a crime against the nation. To fail to push forward all work on the Panama canal would be as great a folly.

In my message of Dec. 2, 1902, to the congress I said:

"Interest rates are a potent factor in business activity, and in order that these rates may be equalized to meet the varying needs of the seasons and of widely separated communities, and to prevent the recurrence of financial stringencies which injuriously affect legitimate business, it is necessary that there should be an element of elasticity in our monetary system. Banks are the natural servants of commerce, and upon them should be placed, as far as practicable, the burden of furnishing and maintaining a circulation adequate to supply the needs of our diversified industries and of our domestic and foreign commerce; and the issue of this should be so regulated that sufficient supply should be always available for the business interests of the country."

Every consideration of prudence demands the addition of the element of elasticity to our currency system. The evil does not consist in an inadequate volume of money, but in the rigidity of this volume, which does not respond as it should to the varying needs of communities and of seasons. Inflation must be avoided; but some provision should be made that will insure a larger volume of money during the fall and winter months than in the less active seasons of the year; so that the currency will contract against speculation and will expand for the needs of legitimate business. At present the treasury department is at irregularly recurring intervals obliged, in the interest of the business world—that is, in the interests of the American public—to try to avert financial crises by providing a remedy which should be provided by congressional action.

At various times I have instituted investigations into the organization and conduct of the business of the executive departments. While none of these inquiries has yet progressed far enough to warrant final conclusions, they have already confirmed and emphasized the general impression that the organization of the departments is often faulty in principle and wasteful in results, while many of their business methods are antiquated and inefficient. There is every reason why our executive government machinery should be at least as well planned, economical and efficient as the best machinery of the great business organizations, which at present is not the case. To make it so is a task of complex detail and essentially executive in its nature; probably no legislative body, no matter how wise and able, could undertake it with reasonable prospect of success.

I recommend that the congress consider this subject with a view to provide by legislation for the transfer, distribution, consolidation and assignment of duties and executive organizations or parts of organizations, and for the changes in business methods, within or between the several departments, that will best promote the economy, efficiency and high character of the government work.

In my last annual message I said:

"The power of the government to protect the integrity of the elections of its own officials is inherent and has been recognized and affirmed by repeated declarations of the Supreme court. There is no enemy of free government more dangerous and none so insidious as the corruption of the electorate. No one defends or excuses corruption and it would seem to follow that none would oppose vigorous measures to eradicate it. I recommend the enactment of a law directed against bribery and corruption in federal courts. The details of such a law may be safely left to the wise discretion of the congress, but it should go as far under the constitution as it is possible to go and should include severe penalties against him who gives or receives a bribe intended to influence his act or opinion as an elector, and provisions for the publication not only of the expenditures for nominations and elections of all candidates, but also of all contributions received and expenditures made by political committees."

I desire to repeat this recommendation. In political campaigns in a country as large and populous as ours it is inevitable that there should be much expense of an entirely legitimate kind. This, of course, means that many contributions, and some of them of large size, must be made and, as a matter of fact, in any big political contest such contributions are always made to both sides. It is entirely proper both to give and receive them, unless there is an improper motive connected with either gift or reception. If they are extorted by any kind of pressure or promise, express or implied, direct or indirect, in the way of favor or immunity, then the giving or receiving becomes not only improper but criminal. It will undoubtedly be difficult as a matter of practical detail to shape an act which shall guard with reasonable certainty against such misconduct, but if it is possible to secure by law the full and verified publication in detail of all the sums contributed to and expended by the candidates or committees of any political parties the result cannot but be wholesome.

All contributions by corporations to any political committee or for any political purpose should be forbidden by law; directors should not be permitted to use stockholders' money for such purposes, and, moreover, a prohibition of this kind would be, as far as it went, an effective method of stopping the evils aimed at in corrupt practices acts. Not only should both the national and the several state legislatures forbid any officer of a corporation from using the money of the corporation in or about any election, but they should also forbid such use of money in connection with any legislation save by the employment of counsel in public manner for distinctly legal services.

THE HAGUE CONFERENCE.

The first conference of nations, held at The Hague in 1899, being unable to dispose of all the business before it, recommended the consideration and settlement of a number of important questions by another conference to be called subsequently and at an early date. These questions were the following: (1) The rights and duties of neutrals; (2) the limitation of the armed forces on land and sea, and of military budgets; (3) the use of new types and calibers of military and naval guns; (4) the inviolability of private property at sea in times of war; (5) the bombardment of ports, cities and villages by naval forces. In October, 1904, at the instance of the Interparliamentary union, which, at a conference held in the United States and attended by the lawmakers of fifteen different nations, had reiterated the demand for a second conference of nations, I issued invitations to all the powers signatory to The Hague convention to send delegates to such a conference and suggested that it be again held at The Hague. In its note of Dec. 16, 1904, the United States government communicated to the representatives of foreign governments its belief that the conference could be best arranged under the provisions of the present Hague treaty.

From all the powers acceptance was received, coupled in some cases with the condition that we should wait until the end of the war then waging between Russia and Japan. The emperor of Russia, immediately after the treaty of peace which so happily terminated this war, in a note presented to the president on Sept. 13, through Ambassador Rosen, took the initiative in recommending that the conference be now called. The United States government in response expressed its cordial acquiescence and stated that it would, as a matter of course, take part in the new conference and endeavor to further its aims. We assume that all civilized governments will support the movement, and that the conference is now an assured fact. This government will do everything in its power to secure the success of the conference to the end that substantial progress may be made in the cause of international peace, justice and good will.

This renders it proper at this time to say something as to the general attitude of this government toward peace. More and more war is coming to be looked upon as in itself a lamentable and evil thing. A wanton or useless war, or a war of mere aggression—in short, any war begun or carried on in a conscienceless spirit—is to be condemned as a peculiarly atrocious crime against all humanity. We can, however, do nothing of permanent value for peace unless we keep ever clearly in mind the ethical element which lies at the root of the problem. Our aim is righteousness. Peace is normally the handmaiden of righteousness; but when peace and righteousness conflict then a great and upright people can never for a moment hesitate to follow the path which leads toward righteousness, even though that path also leads to war. There are persons who advocate peace at any price; there are others who, following a false analogy, think that because it is no longer necessary in civilized countries for individuals to protect their rights with a strong hand, it is therefore unnecessary for nations to be ready to defend their rights. These persons would do irreparable harm to any nation that adopted their principles, and even as it is they seriously hamper the cause which they advocate by tending to render it absurd in the eyes of sensible and patriotic men.

There can be no worse foe of mankind in general, and of his own country in particular, than the demagogue of war, the man who in mere folly or to serve his own selfish ends continually rails at and abuses other nations, who seeks to excite his countrymen against foreigners on insufficient pretexts, who excites and inflames a perverse and aggressive national vanity and who may on occasions wantonly bring on conflict between his nation and some other nation. But there are demagogues of peace just as there are demagogues of war, and in any such movement as this for The Hague conference it is essential not to be misled by one set of extremists any more than by the other. Whenever it is possible for a nation or an individual to work for real peace, assuredly it is a failure of duty not so to strive; but if war is necessary and righteous then either the man or the nation shrinking from it forfeits all title to self-respect.

We have scant sympathy with the sentimentalist who dreads oppression less than physical suffering, who would prefer a shameful peace to the pain and toil sometimes lamentably necessary in order to secure a righteous peace. As yet there is only a partial and imperfect analogy between international law and internal or municipal law, because there is no sanction of force for executing the former, while there is in the case of the latter. The private citizen is protected in his rights by the law, because the law rests in the last resort upon force exercised through the forms of law. A man does not have to defend his rights with his own hand, because he can call upon the police, upon the sheriff's posse, upon the militia, or in certain extreme cases upon the army, to defend him. But there is no such sanction of force for international law.

At present there could be no greater calamity than for the free peoples, the enlightened, independent and peace-loving peoples, to disarm while yet leaving it open to any barbarism or despotism to remain armed. So long as the world is as unorganized as now the armies and navies of those peoples who on the whole stand for justice offer not only the best but the only possible security for a just peace. For instance, if the United States alone, or in company only with the other nations that on the whole tend to act justly, disarmed, we might sometimes avoid bloodshed, but we would cease to be of weight in securing the peace of justice—the real peace for which the most law-abiding and high-minded men must at times be willing to fight. As the world is now, only that nation is equipped for peace that knows how to fight and that will not shrink from fighting if ever the conditions become such that war is demanded in the name of the highest morality.

So much it is emphatically necessary to say in order both that the position of the United States may not be misunderstood, and that a genuine effort to bring nearer the day of the peace of justice among the nations may not be hampered by a folly which, in striving to achieve the impossible, would render it hopeless to attempt the achievement of the practical. But while recognizing most clearly all above set forth, it remains our clear duty to strive in every practicable way to bring nearer the time when the sword shall not be the arbiter among nations. At present the practical thing to do is to try to minimize the number of cases in which it must be the arbiter, and to offer, at least to all civilized powers, some substitute for war which will be available in at least a considerable number of instances. Very much can be done through another Hague conference in this direction, and I most earnestly urge that this nation do all in its power to try to further the movement and to make the result of the decisions of The Hague conference effective.

I earnestly hope that the conference may be able to devise some way to make arbitration between nations the customary way of settling international disputes in all save a few classes of cases, which should themselves be as sharply defined and rigidly limited as the present governmental and social development of the world will permit. If possible, there should be a general arbitration treaty negotiated among all the nations represented at the conference. Neutral rights and property should be protected at sea as they are protected on land. There should be an international agreement to this purpose and a similar agreement defining contraband of war.

During the last century there has been a distinct diminution in the number of wars between the most civilized nations. International relations have become closer, and the development of The Hague tribunal is not only a symptom of this growing closeness of relationship but is a means by which the growth can be furthered. Our aim should be from time to time to take such steps as may be possible toward creating something like an organization of the civilized nations, because as the world becomes more highly organized the need of navies and armies will diminish. It is not possible to secure anything like an immediate disarmament, because it would first be necessary to settle what peoples are on the whole a menace to the rest of mankind, and to provide against the disarmament of the rest being turned into a movement which would really chiefly benefit these obnoxious peoples, but it may be possible to exercise some check upon the tendency to swell indefinitely the budgets for military expenditures.

Of course such an effort could succeed only if it did not attempt to do too much, and if it were undertaken in a spirit of sanity as far removed as possible from a merely hysterical pseudo-philanthropy. It is worth while pointing out that since the end of the insurrection in the Philippines this nation has shown its practical faith in the policy of disarmament by reducing its little army one-third. But disarmament can never be of prime importance; there is more need to get rid of the causes of war than the implements of war.

I have dwelt much on the dangers to be avoided by steering clear of any mere foolish sentimentality because my wish for peace is so genuine and earnest; because I have a real and great desire that this second Hague conference may mark a long stride forward in the direction of securing the peace of justice throughout the world. No object is better worthy the attention of enlightened statesmanship than the establishment of a surer method than now exists of securing justice as between nations, both for the protection of the little nations and for the prevention of war between the big nations. To this aim we should endeavor not only to avert bloodshed but, above all, effectively to strengthen the forces of right. The golden rule should be, and as the world grows in morality it will be, the guiding rule of conduct among nations as among individuals; though the golden rule must not be construed in fantastic manner, as forbidding the exercise of the police power. This mighty and free republic should ever deal with all other states, great or small, on a basis of high honor, respecting their rights as jealously as its safeguards its own.

THE MONROE DOCTRINE.

One of the most effective instruments for peace is the Monroe doctrine as it has been and is being gradually developed by this nation and accepted by other nations. No other policy could have been as efficient in promoting peace in the western hemisphere and in giving to each nation thereon the chance to develop along its own lines. If we had refused to apply the doctrine to changing conditions it would now be completely outworn, would not meet any of the needs of the present day and indeed would probably by this time have sunk into complete oblivion. It is useful at home and is meeting with recognition abroad because we have adapted our application of it to meet the growing and changing needs of the hemisphere. When we announce a policy such as the Monroe doctrine we thereby commit ourselves to the consequences of the policy, and those consequences from time to time alter. It is out of the question to claim a right and yet shirk the responsibility for its exercise. Not only we but all American republics who are benefited by the existence of the doctrine must recognize the obligations each nation is under as regards foreign peoples no less than its duty to insist upon its own rights.

That our rights and interests are deeply concerned in the maintenance of the doctrine is so clear as hardly to need argument. This is especially true in view of the construction of the Panama canal. As a mere matter of self-defense we must exercise a close watch over the approaches to this canal, and this means that we must be thoroughly alive to our interests in the Caribbean sea.

There are certain essential points which must never be forgotten as regards the Monroe doctrine. In the first place we must as a nation make it evident that we do not intend to treat it in any shape or way as an excuse for aggrandizement on our part at the expense of the republics to the south. We must recognize the fact that in some South American countries there has been much suspicion lest we should interpret the Monroe doctrine as in some way inimical to their interests, and we must try to convince all the other nations of this continent once and for all that no just and orderly government has anything to fear from us. There are certain republics to the south of us which have already reached such a point of stability, order and prosperity that they themselves, though as yet hardly consciously, are among the guarantors of this doctrine. These republics we now meet not only on a basis of entire equality but in a spirit of frank and respectful friendship which we hope is mutual. If all of the republics to the south of us will only grow as those to which I allude have already grown, all need for us to be the especial champions of the doctrine will disappear, for no stable and growing American republic wishes to see some great non-American military power acquire territory in its neighborhood.

All that this country desires is that the other republics on this continent shall be happy and prosperous; and they cannot be happy and prosperous unless they maintain order within their boundaries and behave with a just regard for their obligations toward outsiders. It must be understood that under no circumstances will the United States use the Monroe doctrine as a cloak for territorial aggression. We desire peace with all the world, but perhaps most of all with the other peoples of the American continent. There are, of course, limits to the wrongs which any self-respecting nation can endure. It is always possible that wrong actions toward this nation, or toward citizens of this nation, in some state unable to keep order among its own people, unable to secure justice from outsiders and unwilling to do justice to those outsiders who treat it well, may result in our having to take action to protect our rights; but such action will not be taken with a view to territorial aggression, and it will be taken at all only with extreme reluctance and when it has become evident that every other resource has been exhausted.

Moreover, we must make it evident that we do not intend to permit the Monroe doctrine to be used by any nation on this continent as a shield to protect it from the consequences of its own misdeeds against foreign nations. If a republic to the south of us commits a tort against a foreign nation, such as an outrage against a citizen of that nation, then the Monroe doctrine does not force us to interfere to prevent punishment of the tort, save to see that the punishment does not assume the form of territorial occupation in any shape. The case is more difficult when it refers to a contractual obligation. Our own government has always refused to enforce such contractual obligations on behalf of its citizens by an appeal to arms. It is much to be wished that all foreign governments would take the same view. But they do not; and in consequence we are liable at any time to be brought face to face with disagreeable alternatives.

On the other hand, this country would certainly decline to go to war to prevent a foreign government from collecting a just debt; on the other hand, it is very inadvisable to permit any foreign power to take possession, even temporarily, of the custom houses of an American republic in order to enforce the payment of its obligations; for such temporary occupation might turn into a permanent occupation. The only escape from these alternatives may at any time be that we must ourselves undertake to bring about some arrangement by which so much as possible of a just obligation shall be paid. It is far better that this country should put through such an arrangement rather than to allow any foreign country to undertake it. To do so insures the defaulting republic from having to pay debts of an improper character under duress, while it also insures honest creditors of the republic from being passed by in the interest of dishonest or grasping creditors. Moreover, for the United States to take such a position offers the only possible way of insuring us against a clash with some foreign power. The position is, therefore, in the interest of peace as well as in the interest of justice. It is of benefit to our people; it is of benefit to foreign peoples and most of all it is really of benefit to the people of the country concerned.

This brings me to what should be one of the fundamental objects of the Monroe doctrine. We must ourselves in good faith try to help upward toward peace and order those of our sister republics which need such help. Just as there has been a gradual growth of the ethical element in the relations of one individual to another, so we are, even though slowly, more and more coming to recognize the duty of bearing one another's burdens, not only as among individuals but also as among nations.

APPEAL OF SANTO DOMINGO.

Santo Domingo in her turn has now made an appeal to us to help her, and not only every principle of wisdom but every generous instinct within us bids us respond to the appeal. It is not of the slightest consequence whether we grant the aid needed by Santo Domingo as an incident to the wise development of the Monroe doctrine or because we regard the case of Santo Domingo as standing wholly by itself and to be treated as such and not on general principles or with any reference to the Monroe doctrine. The important point is to give the needed aid, and the case is certainly sufficiently peculiar to deserve to be judged purely on its own merits. The conditions in Santo Domingo have for a number of years grown from bad to worse until a year ago all society was on the verge of dissolution. Fortunately, just at this time a ruler sprang up in Santo Domingo, who, with his colleagues, saw the dangers threatening their country and appealed to the friendship of the only great and powerful neighbor who possessed the power, and as they hoped also the will, to help them. There was imminent danger of foreign intervention. The previous rulers of Santo Domingo had recklessly incurred debts, and owing to her internal disorders she had ceased to be able to provide means of paying the debts.

The patience of her foreign creditors had become exhausted, and at least two foreign nations were on the verge of intervention, and were only prevented from intervening by the unofficial assurance of this government that it would itself strive to help Santo Domingo in her hour of need. In the case of one of these nations only the actual opening of negotiations to this end by our government prevented the seizure of territory in Santo Domingo by a European power. Of the debts incurred some were just, while some were not of a character which really renders it obligatory on or proper for Santo Domingo to pay them in full. But she could not pay any of them unless some stability was assured her government and people.

Accordingly the executive department of our government negotiated a treaty under which we are to try to help the Dominican people to straighten out their finances. This treaty is pending before the senate. In the meantime a temporary arrangement has been made which will last until the senate has had time to take action upon the treaty. Under this arrangement the Dominican government has appointed Americans to all the important positions in the customs service, and they are seeing to the honest collection of the revenues, turning over 45 per cent to the government for running expenses and putting the other 55 per cent into a safe depository for equitable division, in case the treaty shall be ratified, among the various creditors, whether European or American.

The custom houses offer well-nigh the only sources of revenue in Santo Domingo, and the different revolutions usually have as their real aim the obtaining possession of these custom houses. The mere fact that the collectors of customs are Americans, that they are performing their duties with efficiency and honesty, and that the treaty is pending in the senate, gives a certain moral power to the government of Santo Domingo which it has not had before. This has completely discouraged all revolutionary movement, while it has already produced such an increase in the revenues that the government is actually getting more from the 45 per cent than the American collectors turn over to it than it got formerly when it took the entire revenue. It is enabling the poor harassed people of Santo Domingo once more to turn their attention to industry and to be free from the curse of interminable revolutionary disturbance. It offers to all bona fide creditors, American and European, the only really good chance to obtain that to which they are justly entitled, while it in return gives to Santo Domingo the only opportunity of defense against claims which it ought not to pay, for now if it meets the views of the senate we shall ourselves thoroughly examine all these claims, whether American or foreign, and see that none that are improper are paid. There is, of course, opposition to the treaty from dishonest creditors, foreign and American, and from the professional revolutionists of the island itself. We have already reason to believe that some of the creditors who do not dare expose their claims to honest scrutiny are endeavoring to stir up sedition in the island and opposition to the treaty. In the meantime I have exercised the authority vested in me by the joint resolution of the congress to prevent the introduction of arms into the island for revolutionary purposes.

Under the course taken, stability and order and all the benefits of peace are at last coming to Santo Domingo, danger of foreign intervention has been suspended, and there is at last a prospect that all creditors will get justice, no more and no less. If the arrangement is terminated by the failure of the treaty chaos will follow, and if chaos follows, sooner or later this government may be involved in serious difficulties with foreign governments over the island, or else may be forced itself to intervene in the island in some unpleasant fashion. Under the proposed treaty the independence of the island is scrupulously respected, the danger of violation of the Monroe doctrine by the intervention of foreign powers vanishes and the interference of our government is minimized, so that we shall only act in conjunction with the Santo Domingo authorities to secure the proper administration of the customs, and therefore to secure the payment of just debts and to secure the Dominican government against demands for unjust debts.

The proposed method will give the people of Santo Domingo the same chance to move onward and upward which we have already given to the people of Cuba. It will be doubly to our discredit as a nation if we fail to take advantage of this chance; for it will be of damage to ourselves, and it will be of incalculable damage to Santo Domingo. Every consideration of wise policy, and, above all, every consideration of large generosity, bids us meet the request of Santo Domingo as we are now trying to meet it.

THE ARMY AND THE NAVY.

We cannot consider the question of our foreign policy without at the same time treating of the army and navy. We now have a very small army—indeed, one well-nigh infinitesimal when compared with the army of any other large nation. Of course, the army we do have should be as nearly perfect of its kind and for its size as is possible. I do not believe that any army in the world has a better average of enlisted man or a better type of junior officer; but the army should be trained to act effectively in a mass. Provision should be made by sufficient appropriations for maneuvers of a practical kind, so that the troops may learn how to take care of themselves under actual service conditions; every march, for instance, being made with the soldier loaded exactly as he would be in an active campaign. The generals and colonels would thereby have opportunity of handling regiments, brigades and divisions, and the commissary and medical departments would be tested in the field.

Provision should be made for the exercise at least of a brigade and by preference of a division in marching and embarking at some point on our coast and disembarking at some other point and continuing its march. The number of posts in which the army is kept in time of peace should be materially diminished and the posts that are left made correspondingly larger.

No local interests should be allowed to stand in the way of assembling the greater part of the troops which would at need form our field armies in stations of such size as will permit the best training to be given to the personnel of all grades, including the high officers and staff officers. To accomplish this end we must have not company or regimental garrisons, but brigade and division garrisons. Promotion by mere seniority can never result in a thoroughly efficient corps of officers in the higher ranks unless there accompanies it a vigorous weeding-out process. Such a weeding-out process—that is, such a process of selection—is a chief feature of the four years' course of the young officer at West Point. There is no good reason why it should stop immediately upon his graduation. While at West Point he is dropped unless he comes up to a certain standard of excellence, and when he graduates he takes rank in the army according to his rank of graduation. The results are good at West Point, and there should be in the army itself something that will achieve the same end. After a certain age has been reached the average officer is unfit to do good work below a certain grade.

Provision should be made for the promotion of exceptionally meritorious men over the heads of their comrades and for the retirement of all men who have reached a given age without getting beyond a given rank; this age of retirement of course changing from rank to rank. In both the army and navy there should be some principle of selection, that is, of promotion for merit, and there should be a resolute effort to eliminate the aged officers of reputable character who possess no special efficiency.

There should be an increase in the coast artillery force, so that our coast fortifications can be in some degree adequately manned. There is special need for an increase and reorganization of the medical department of the army. In both the army and navy there must be the same thorough training for duty in the staff corps as in the fighting line. Only by such training in advance can we be sure that in actual war field operations and those at sea will be carried on successfully. The importance of this was shown conclusively in the Spanish-American and the Russo-Japanese wars. The work of the medical departments in the Japanese army and navy is especially worthy of study. I renew my recommendation of Jan. 9, 1905, as to the medical department of the army and call attention to the equal importance of the needs of the staff corps of the navy.

In the medical department of the navy the first in importance is the reorganization of the hospital corps on the lines of the Gallinger bill (S. 3984, Feb. 1, 1904) and the reapportionment of the different grades of the medical officers to meet service requirements. It seems advisable also that medical officers of the army and navy should have similar rank and pay in their respective grades so that their duties can be carried on without friction when they are brought together. The base hospitals of the navy should be put in condition to meet modern requirements and hospital ships be provided. Unless we now provide with ample forethought for the medical needs of the army and navy appalling suffering of a preventable kind is sure to occur if ever the country goes to war. It is not reasonable to expect successful administration in time of war of a department which lacks a third of the number of officers necessary to perform the medical service in time of peace. We need men who are not merely doctors; they must be trained in the administration of military medical service.

Our navy must, relatively to the navies of other nations, always be of greater size than our army. We have most wisely continued for a number of years to build up our navy, and it has now reached a fairly high standard of efficiency. This standard of efficiency must not only be maintained but increased. It does not seem to me necessary, however, that the navy should—at least in the immediate future—be increased beyond the present number of units. What is now clearly necessary is to substitute efficient for inefficient units as the latter become worn out or as it becomes apparent that they are useless.

Probably the result would be attained by adding a single battleship to our navy each year, the superseded or worn-out vessels being laid up or broken up as they are thus replaced. The four single-turret monitors built immediately after the close of the Spanish war, for instance, are vessels which would be of but little use in the event of war. The money spent upon them could have been more usefully spent in other ways. Thus it would have been far better never to have built a single one of these monitors and to have put the money into an ample supply of reserve guns. Most of the smaller cruisers and gunboats, though they serve a useful purpose so far as they are needed for international police work, would not add to the strength of our navy in a conflict with a serious foe. There is urgent need of providing a large increase in the number of officers and especially in the number of enlisted men.

TORPEDO BOATS INDISPENSABLE.

Recent naval history has emphasized certain lessons which ought not to, but which do, need emphasis. Sea-going torpedo boats or destroyers are indispensable, not only for making night attacks by surprise upon an enemy but even in battle for finishing already crippled ships. Under exceptional circumstances submarine boats would doubtless be of use. Fast scouts are needed. The main strength of the navy, however, lies and can only lie in the great battleships, the heavily armored, heavily gunned vessels which decide the mastery of the seas. Heavy-armed cruisers also play a most useful part, and unarmed cruisers, if swift enough, are very useful as scouts. Between antagonists of approximately equal prowess the comparative perfection of the instruments of war will ordinarily determine the fight. But it is, of course, true that the man behind the gun, the man in the engine room and the man in the conning tower, considered not only individually but especially with regard to the way in which they work together, are even more important than the weapons with which they work.

The most formidable battleship is, of course, helpless against even a light cruiser if the men aboard it are unable to hit anything with their guns, and thoroughly well-handled cruisers may count seriously in an engagement with much superior vessels if the men aboard the latter are ineffective, whether from lack of training or from any other cause. Modern warships are most formidable mechanisms when well handled, but they are utterly useless when not well handled, and they cannot be handled at all without long and careful training. This training can under no circumstances be given when once war has broken out.

No fighting ship of the first class should ever be laid up save for necessary repairs, and her crew should be kept constantly exercised on the high seas, so that she may stand at the highest point of perfection. To put a new and untrained crew upon the most powerful battleship and send it out to meet a formidable enemy is not only to invite but to insure disaster and disgrace. To improvise crews at the outbreak of a war, so far as the serious fighting craft are concerned, is absolutely hopeless. If the officers and men are not thoroughly skilled in and have not been thoroughly trained to their duties it would be far better to keep the ships in port during the hostilities than to send them against a formidable opponent, for the result could only be that they would be either sunk or captured. The marksmanship of our navy is now on the whole in a gratifying condition and there has been a great improvement in fleet practice.

We need additional seamen; we need a large store of reserve guns; we need sufficient money for ample target practice, ample practice of every kind at sea. We should substitute for comparatively inefficient types—the old third-class battleship Texas, the single-turreted monitors above mentioned, and indeed all the monitors and some of the old cruisers—efficient, modern, sea-going vessels. Sea-going torpedo-boat destroyers should be substituted for some of the smaller torpedo boats. During the present congress there need be no additions to the aggregate number of units of the navy. Our navy, though very small relatively to the navies of other nations, is for the present sufficient in point of numbers for our needs, and while we must constantly strive to make its efficiency higher, there need be no additions to the total number of ships now built and building, save in the way of substitution as above outlined. I recommend the report of the secretary of the navy to the careful consideration of the congress, especially with a view to the legislation therein advocated.

NATURALIZATION LAWS.

During the last year evidence has accumulated to confirm the expressions contained in my last two annual messages as to the importance of revising by appropriate legislation our system of naturalizing aliens. I appointed last March a commission to make a careful examination of our naturalization laws and to suggest appropriate measures to avoid the notorious abuses resulting from the improvident or unlawful granting of citizenship. This commission, composed of an officer of the department of state, of the department of justice and of the department of commerce and labor, has discharged the duty imposed upon it and has submitted a report, which will be transmitted to the congress for its consideration and, I hope, for its favorable action.

The distinguishing recommendations of the commission are:

1. A federal bureau of naturalization, to be established in the department of commerce and labor, to supervise the administration of the naturalization laws and to receive returns of naturalization pending and accomplished.

2. Uniformity of naturalization certificates, fees to be charged and procedure.

3. More exacting qualifications for citizenship.

4. The preliminary declaration of intention to be abolished and no alien to be naturalized until at least ninety days after the filing of his petition.

5. Jurisdiction to naturalize aliens to be confined to United States District courts and to such state courts as have jurisdiction in civil actions in which the amount in controversy is unlimited; in cities of over 100,000 inhabitants the United States District courts to have exclusive jurisdiction in the naturalization of the alien residents of such cities.

In my last message I asked the attention of the congress to the urgent need of action to make our criminal law more effective and I most earnestly request that you pay heed to the report of the attorney-general on this subject. Centuries ago it was especially needful to throw every safeguard round the accused. The danger then was lest he should be wronged by the state. The danger is now exactly the reverse. Our laws and customs tell immensely in favor of the criminal and against the interests of the public he has wronged. Some antiquated and outworn rules which once safeguarded the threatened rights of private citizens now merely work harm to the general body politic. The criminal law of the United States stands in urgent need of revision. The criminal process of any court of the United States should run throughout the entire territorial extent of our country. The delays of the criminal law, no less than of the civil, now amount to a very great evil.

There seems to be no statute of the United States which provides for the punishment of a United States attorney or other officer of the government who corruptly agrees to wrongfully do or wrongfully refrain from doing any act when the consideration for such corrupt agreement is other than one possessing money value. This ought to be remedied by appropriate legislation. Legislation should also be enacted to cover, explicitly, unequivocally and beyond question, breach of trust in the shape of prematurely divulging official secrets by an officer or employee of the United States and to provide a suitable penalty therefor. Such officer or employee owes the duty to the United States to guard carefully and not to divulge or in any manner use, prematurely, information which is accessible to the officer or employee by reason of his official position. Most breaches of public trust are already covered by the law, and this one should be. It is impossible, no matter how much care is used, to prevent the occasional appointment to the public service of a man who when tempted proves unfaithful, but every means should be provided to detect and every effort made to punish the wrongdoer.

So far as in my power lies each and every such wrongdoer shall be relentlessly hunted down; in no instance in the past has he been spared; in no instance in the future shall he be spared. His crime is a crime against every honest man in the nation, for it is a crime against the whole body politic. Yet in dwelling on such misdeeds it is unjust not to add that they are altogether exceptional and that on the whole the employees of the government render upright and faithful service to the people. There are exceptions, notably in one or two branches of the service, but at no time in the nation's history has the public service of the nation taken as a whole stood on a higher plane than now, alike as regards honesty and as regards efficiency.

PUBLIC-LAND LAWS.

Once again I call your attention to the condition of public-land laws. Recent developments have given new urgency to the need for such changes as will fit these laws to actual present conditions. The honest disposal and right use of the remaining public lands is of fundamental importance. The iniquitous methods by which the monopolizing of public lands is being brought about under the present laws are becoming more generally known, but the existing laws do not furnish effective remedies. The recommendations of the public-lands commission upon this subject are wise and should be given effect.

The creation of small irrigated farms under the reclamation act is a powerful offset to the tendency of certain other laws to foster or permit monopoly of the land. Under that act the construction of great irrigation works has been proceeding rapidly and successfully, the lands reclaimed are eagerly taken up and the prospect that the policy of national irrigation will accomplish all that was expected of it is bright. The act should be extended to include the state of Texas.

The reclamation act derives much of its value from the fact that it tends to secure the greatest possible number of homes on the land and to create communities of freeholders, in part by settlement on public land, in part by forcing the subdivision of large private holdings before they can get water from government irrigation works. The law requires that no right to the use of water for land in private ownership shall be sold for a tract exceeding 160 acres to any one land owner. This provision has excited active and powerful hostility, but the success of the law itself depends on the wise and firm enforcement of it. We cannot afford to substitute tenants for freeholders on the public domain.

The greater part of the remaining public lands cannot be irrigated. They are at present and will probably always be of greater value for grazing than for any other purpose. This fact has led to the grazing homestead of 640 acres in Nebraska and to the proposed extension of it to other states. It is argued that a family cannot be supported on 160 acres of arid grazing land. This is obviously true, but neither can a family be supported on 640 acres of much of the land to which it is proposed to apply the grazing homestead.

To establish universally any such arbitrary limit would be unwise at the present time. It would probably result on the one hand in enlarging the holdings of some of the great land owners and on the other in needless suffering and failure on the part of a very considerable proportion of the bonafide settlers who give faith to the implied assurance of the government that such an area is sufficient. The best use of the public grazing lands requires the careful examination and classification of these lands in order to give each settler land enough to support his family and no more. While this work is being done and until the lands are settled the government should take control of the open range, under reasonable regulations suited to local needs, following the general policy already in successful operation on the forest reserves. It is probable that the present grazing value of the open public range is scarcely more than half what it once was or what it might easily be again under careful regulation.

The forest policy of the administration appears to enjoy the unbroken support of the people. The great users of timber are themselves forwarding the movement for forest preservation. All organized opposition to the forest reserves in the west has disappeared. Since the consolidation of all government forest work in the national forest service there has been a rapid and notable gain in the usefulness of the forest reserves to the people and in public appreciation of their value. The national parks within or adjacent to forest reserves should be transferred to the charge of the forest service also.

The national government already does something in connection with the construction and maintenance of the great system of levees along the lower course of the Mississippi; in my judgment it should do much more.

MERCHANT MARINE.

To the spread of our trade in peace and the defense of our flag in war a great and prosperous merchant marine is indispensable. We should have ships of our own and seamen of our own to convey our goods to neutral markets and in case of need to reinforce our battle line. It cannot but be a source of regret and uneasiness to us that the lines of communication with our sister republics of South America should be chiefly under foreign control. It is not a good thing that American merchants and manufacturers should have to send their goods and letters to South America via Europe if they wish security and dispatch. Even on the Pacific, where our ships have held their own better than on the Atlantic, our merchant flag is now threatened through the liberal aid bestowed by other governments on their own steam lines. I ask your earnest consideration of the report with which the merchant marine commission has followed its long and careful inquiry.

JAMESTOWN TERCENTENNIAL.

I again heartily commend to your favorable consideration the tercentennial celebration of the settlement at Jamestown, Va. Appreciating the desirability of this commemoration, the congress passed an act March 3, 1905, authorizing in the year 1907, on and near the waters of Hampton roads, in the state of Virginia, an international naval, marine and military celebration in honor of this event. By the authority vested in me by this act I have made proclamation of said celebration and have issued, in conformity with its instructions, invitations to all the nations of the earth to participate by sending their naval vessels and such military organizations as may be practicable. This celebration would fall of its full purpose unless it were enduring in its results and commensurate with the importance of the event to be celebrated, the event from which our nation dates its birth.

I earnestly hope that this celebration, already indorsed by the congress of the United States and by the legislatures of sixteen states since the action of the congress, will receive such additional aid at your hands as will make it worthy of the great event it is intended to celebrate and thereby enable the government of the United States to make provision for the exhibition of its own resources and likewise enable our people who have undertaken the work of such a celebration to provide suitable and proper entertainment and instruction in the historic events of our country for all who may visit the exposition and to whom we have tendered our hospitality.

PENSION BUREAU.

It is a matter of ununited satisfaction once more to call attention to the excellent work of the pension bureau, for the veterans of the civil war have a greater claim upon us than any other class of our citizens. To them, first of all among our people, honor is due.

Seven years ago my lamented predecessor, President McKinley, stated that the time had come for the nation to care for the graves of the confederate dead. I recommend that the congress take action toward this end. The first need is to take charge of the graves of the confederate dead who died in northern prisons.

QUESTION OF IMMIGRATION.

The question of immigration is of vital interest to this country. In the year ending June 30, 1905, there came to the United States 1,026,000 alien immigrants. In other words, in the single year that has just elapsed there came to this country a greater number of people than came here during the 169 years of our colonial life which intervened between the first landing at Jamestown and the declaration of independence.

It is clearly shown in the report of the commissioner-general of immigration that, while much of this enormous immigration is undoubtedly healthy and natural, a considerable proportion is undesirable from one reason or another; moreover, a considerable proportion of it, probably a very large proportion, including most of the undesirable class, does not come here of its own initiative, but because of the activity of the agents of the great transportation companies. These agents are distributed throughout Europe and by the offer of all kinds of inducements they wheedle and cajole many immigrants, often against their best interest, to come here. The most serious obstacle we have to encounter in the effort to secure a proper regulation of the immigration to these shores arises from the determined opposition of the foreign steamship lines who have no interest whatever in the matter save to increase the returns on their capital by carrying masses of immigrants hither in the steerage quarters of their ships.

As I said in my last message to the congress, we cannot have too much immigration of the right sort, and we should have none whatever of the wrong sort. Of course it is desirable that even the right kind of immigration should be properly distributed in this country. We need more of such immigration for the south, and special effort should be made to secure it. Perhaps it would be possible to limit the number of immigrants allowed to come in any one year to New York and other northern cities, while leaving unlimited the number allowed to come to the south; always provided, however, that a stricter effort is made to see that only immigrants of the right kind come to our country anywhere. In actual practice it has proved so difficult to enforce the immigration laws where long stretches of frontier marked by an imaginary line alone intervene between us and our neighbors that I recommend that no immigrants be allowed to come in from Canada and Mexico, save natives of the two countries themselves. As much as possible should be done to distribute the immigrants upon the land and keep them away from the congested tenement-house districts of the great cities. But distribution is a palliative, not a cure.

The prime need is to keep out all immigrants who will not make good American citizens. The laws now existing for the exclusion of undesirable immigrants should be strengthened. Adequate means should be adopted, enforced by sufficient penalties, to compel steamship companies engaged in the passenger business to observe in good faith the law which forbids them to encourage or solicit immigration to the United States. Moreover, there should be a sharp limitation imposed upon all vessels coming to our ports as to the number of immigrants in ratio to the tonnage which each vessel can carry. This ratio should be high enough to insure the coming hither of as good a class of aliens as possible. Provision should be made for the sure punishment of those who induce aliens to come to this country under promise or assurance of employment. It should be made possible to inflict a sufficiently heavy penalty on any employer violating this law to deter him from taking the risk. It seems to me wise that there should be an international conference held to deal with this question of immigration, which has more than a merely national significance; such a conference could among other things enter at length into the methods for securing a thorough inspection of would-be immigrants at the ports from which they desire to embark before permitting them to embark.

In dealing with this question it is unwise to depart from the old American tradition and to discriminate for or against any man who desires to come here and become a citizen, save on the ground of that man's fitness for citizenship. It is our right and duty to consider his moral and social quality. His standard of living should be such that he will not, by pressure of competition, lower the standard of living of our own wage-workers; for it must ever be a prime object of our legislation to keep high their standard of living. If the man who seeks to come here is from the moral and social standpoint of such a character as to bid fair to add value to the community he should be heartily welcomed. We cannot afford to pay heed to whether he is of one creed or another, of one nation or another. We cannot afford to consider whether he is catholic or protestant, Jew or gentile; whether he is Englishman or Irishman, Frenchman or German, Japanese, Italian, Scandinavian, Slav or Magyar. What we should desire to find out is the individual quality of the individual man. In my judgment, with this end in view, we shall have to prepare through our own agents a far more rigid inspection in the countries from which the immigrants come.

It will be a great deal better to have fewer immigrants, but all of the right kind, than a great number of immigrants, many of whom are necessarily of the wrong kind. As far as possible we wish to limit the immigration to this country to persons who propose to become citizens of this country and we can well afford to insist upon adequate scrutiny of the character of those who are thus proposed for future citizenship. There should be an increase in the stringency of the laws to keep out insane, idiotic, epileptic and pauper immigrants. But this is by no means enough. Not merely the anarchist, but every man of anarchistic tendencies, all violent and disorderly people, all people of bad character, the incompetent, the lazy, the vicious, the physically unfit, defective or degenerate should be kept out. The stocks out of which American citizenship is to be built should be strong and healthy, sound in body, mind and character. If it be objected that the government agents would not always select well the answer is that they would certainly select better than do the agents and brokers of foreign steamship companies, the people who now do whatever selection is done.

CHINESE EXCLUSION.

The questions arising in connection with Chinese immigration stand by themselves. The conditions in China are such that the entire Chinese coolie class, that is, the class of Chinese laborers, skilled and unskilled, legitimately come under the head of undesirable immigrants to this country because of their numbers, the low wages for which they work and their low standard of living. Not only is it to the interest of this country to keep them out, but the Chinese authorities do not desire that they should be admitted. At present their entrance is prohibited by laws amply adequate to accomplish this purpose. These laws have been, are being and will be thoroughly enforced. The violations of them are so few in number as to be infinitesimal and can be entirely disregarded. There is no serious proposal to alter the immigration law as regards the Chinese laborer, skilled or unskilled, and there is no excuse for any man feeling or affecting to feel the slightest alarm on the subject.

But in the effort to carry out the policy of excluding Chinese laborers, Chinese coolies, grave injustice and wrong have been done by this nation to the people of China, and therefore ultimately to this nation itself. Chinese students, business and professional men of all kinds—not only merchants but bankers, doctors, manufacturers, professors, travelers and the like—should be encouraged to come here and treated on precisely the same footing that we treat students, business men, travelers and the like of other nations. Our laws and treaties should be framed, not so as to put these people in the excepted classes, but to state that we will admit all Chinese, except Chinese of the coolie class, Chinese skilled or unskilled laborers. There would not be the least danger that any such provision would result in any relaxation of the law about laborers. These will, under all conditions, be kept out absolutely. But it will be more easy to see that both justice and courtesy are shown, as they ought to be shown, to other Chinese, if the law or treaty is framed as above suggested. Examinations should be completed at the port of departure from China. For this purpose there should be provided a more adequate consular service in China than we now have. The appropriations, both for the offices of the consuls and for the office forces in the consulates, should be increased.

As a people we have talked much of the open door in China, and we expect, and quite rightly intend to insist upon, justice being shown us by the Chinese. But we cannot expect to receive equity unless we do equity. We cannot ask the Chinese to do to us what we are unwilling to do to them. They would have a perfect right to exclude our laboring men if our laboring men threatened to come into their country in such numbers as to jeopardize the well-being of the Chinese population, and as, mutatis mutandis, these were the conditions with which Chinese immigration actually brought this people face to face, we had and have a perfect right, which the Chinese government in no way contests, to act as we have acted in the matter of restricting coolie immigration. That this right exists for each country was explicitly acknowledged in the last treaty between the two countries.

But we must treat the Chinese student, traveler and business man in a spirit of the broadest justice and courtesy if we expect similar treatment to be accorded to our own people of similar rank who go to China. Much trouble has come during the last summer from the organized boycott against American goods which has been started in China. The main factor in producing this boycott has been the resentment felt by the students and business people of China, by all the Chinese leaders, against the harshness of our law toward educated Chinamen of the professional and business classes.

This government has the friendliest feeling for China and desires China's well-being. We cordially sympathize with the announced purpose of Japan to stand for the integrity of China. Such an attitude tends to the peace of the world.

THE CIVIL SERVICE.

The civil-service law has been on the statute books for twenty-two years. Every president and a vast majority of heads of departments who have been in office during that period have favored a gradual extension of the merit system. The more thoroughly its principles have been understood the greater has been the favor with which the law has been regarded by administrative officers. Any attempt to carry on the great executive departments of the government without this law would inevitably result in chaos. The civil-service commissioners are doing excellent work and their compensation is inadequate considering the service they perform.

The statement that the examinations are not practical in character is based on a misapprehension of the practice of the commission. The departments are invariably consulted as to the requirements desired and as to the character of questions that shall be asked. General invitations are frequently sent out to all heads of departments asking whether any changes in the scope or character of examinations are required. In other words, the departments prescribe the requirements and the qualifications desired and the civil-service commission co-operates with them in securing persons with these qualifications and insuring open and impartial competition.

In a large number of examinations (as, for example, those for trades positions) there are no educational requirements whatever, and a person who can neither read nor write may pass with a high average. Vacancies in the service are filled with reasonable expedition and the machinery of the commission, which reaches every part of the country, is the best agency that has yet been devised for finding people with the most suitable qualifications for the various offices to be filled. Written competitive examinations do not make an ideal method for filling positions, but they do represent an immeasurable advance upon the "spoils" method, under which outside politicians really make the appointments nominally made by the executive officers, the appointees being chosen by the politicians in question, in the great majority of cases, for reasons totally unconnected with the needs of the service or of the public.

Statistics gathered by the census bureau show that the tenure of office in the government service does not differ materially from that enjoyed by employes of large business corporations. Heads of executive departments and members of the commission have called my attention to the fact that the rule requiring a filing of charges and three days' notice before an employe could be separated from the service for inefficiency has served no good purpose whatever, because that is not a matter upon which a hearing of the employe found to be inefficient can be of any value, and in practice the rule providing for such notice and hearing has merely resulted in keeping in a certain number of incompetents, because of the reluctance of heads of departments and bureau chiefs to go through the required procedure.

Experience has shown that this rule is wholly ineffective to save any man, if a superior for improper reasons wishes to remove him, and is mischievous because it sometimes serves to keep in the service incompetent men not guilty of specific wrongdoing. Having these facts in view, the rule has been amended by providing that where the inefficiency or incapacity comes within the personal knowledge of the head of a department the removal may be made without notice, the reasons therefor being filed and made a record of the department. The absolute right of removal rests where it always has rested, with the head of a department; any limitation of this absolute right results in grave injury to the public service. The change is merely one of procedure; it was much needed, and it is producing good results.

The civil-service law is being energetically and impartially enforced, and in the large majority of cases complaints of violations of either the law or rules are discovered to be unfounded. In this respect this law compares very favorably with any other federal statute. The question of politics in the appointment and retention of the men engaged in merely ministerial work has been practically eliminated in almost the entire field of government employment covered by the civil-service law. The action of the congress in providing the commission with its own force instead of requiring it to rely on detailed clerks has been justified by the increased work done at a smaller cost to the government. I urge upon the congress a careful consideration of the recommendations contained in the annual report of the commission.

REVISION OF COPYRIGHT LAWS.

Our copyright laws urgently need revision. They are imperfect in definition, confused and inconsistent in expression; they omit provision for many articles which, under modern reproductive processes, are entitled to protection; they impose hardships upon the copyright proprietor which are not essential to the fair protection of the public; they are difficult for the courts to interpret and impossible for the copyright office to administer with satisfaction to the public. Attempts to improve them by amendment have been frequent, no less than twelve acts for the purpose having been passed since the revised statutes. To perfect them by further amendment seems impracticable. A complete revision of them is essential. Such a revision, to meet modern conditions, has been found necessary in Germany, Austria, Sweden and other foreign countries, and bills embodying it are pending in England and the Australian colonies.

It has been urged here and proposals for a commission to undertake it have, from time to time, been pressed upon the congress. The inconveniences of the present conditions being so great, an attempt to frame appropriate legislation has been made by the copyright office, which has called conferences of the various interests especially and practically concerned with the operation of the copyright laws. It has secured from them suggestions as to the changes necessary; it has added from its own experience and investigation, and it has drafted a bill which embodies such of these changes and additions as, after full discussion and expert criticism, appeared to be sound and safe. In form this bill would replace the existing insufficient and inconsistent laws by one general copyright statute. It will be presented to the congress at the coming session. It deserves prompt consideration.

ADULTERATION OF FOODS.

I recommend that a law be enacted to regulate interstate commerce in misbranded and adulterated foods, drinks and drugs. Such a law would protect legitimate manufacture and commerce and would tend to secure the health and welfare of the consuming public. Traffic in foodstuffs which have been debased or adulterated so as to injure health or to deceive purchasers should be forbidden.

The law forbidding the emission of dense black or gray smoke in the city of Washington has been sustained by the courts. Something has been accomplished under it, but much remains to be done if we would preserve the capital city from defacement by the smoke nuisance. Repeated prosecutions under the law have not had the desired effect. I recommend that it be made more stringent by increasing both the minimum and maximum fine, by providing for imprisonment in cases of repeated violation, and by affording the remedy of injunction against the continuation of the operation of plants which are persistent offenders. I recommend, also, an increase in the number of inspectors, whose duty it shall be to detect violations of the act.

NIAGARA FALLS.

I call your attention to the generous act of the state of California in conferring upon the United States government the ownership of the Yosemite valley and the Mariposa big-tree grove. There should be no delay in accepting the gift and appropriations should be made for the including thereof in the Yosemite National park and for the care and policing of the park. California has acted most wisely as well as with great magnanimity in the matter. There are certain mighty natural features of our land which should be preserved in perpetuity for our children and our children's children. In my judgment the Grand Canyon of the Colorado should be made into a national park. It is greatly to be wished that the state of New York should copy as regards Niagara what the state of California has done as regards the Yosemite.

Nothing should be allowed to interfere with the preservation of Niagara falls in all their beauty and majesty. If the state cannot see to this then it is earnestly to be wished that she should be willing to turn it over to the national government, which should in such case (if possible, in conjunction with the Canadian government) assume the burden and responsibility of preserving unharmed Niagara falls; just as it should gladly assume a similar burden and responsibility for the Yosemite National park, and as it has already assumed them for the Yellowstone National park. Adequate provision should be made by the congress for the proper care and supervision of all these national parks. The boundaries of the Yellowstone National park should be extended to the south and east, to take in such portions of the abutting forest reservation as will enable the government to protect the elk on their winter range.

PROTECTION OF THE BUFFALO.

The most characteristic animal of the western plains was the great shaggy-maned wild ox, the bison, commonly known as buffalo. Small fragments of herds exist in a domesticated state here and there, a few of them in the Yellowstone park. Such a herd as that on the Flathead reservation should not be allowed to go out of existence. Either on some reservation or on some forest reserve like the Wichita reserve and game refuge provision should be made for the preservation of such a herd. I believe that the scheme would be of economic advantage, for the robe of the buffalo is of high market value and the same is true of the robe of the crossbred animals.

LIFE-SAVING SERVICE.

I call your especial attention to the desirability of giving to the members of the life-saving service pensions such as are given to firemen and policemen in all our great cities. The men in the life-saving service continually and in the most matter-of-fact way do deeds such as make Americans proud of their country. They have no political influence, and they live in such remote places that the really heroic services they continually render receive the scantiest recognition from the public. It is unjust for a great nation like this to permit these men to become totally disabled or to meet death in the performance of their hazardous duty and yet to give them no sort of reward. If one of them serves thirty years of his life in such a position he should surely be entitled to retire on half pay, as a fireman or policeman does, and if he becomes totally incapacitated through accident or sickness or loses his health in the discharge of his duty he or his family should receive a pension just as any soldier should. I call your attention with especial earnestness to the matter because it appeals not only to our judgment but to our sympathy, for the people on whose behalf I ask it are comparatively few in number, render incalculable service of a particularly dangerous kind and have no one to speak for them.

INDIANS AND CITIZENSHIP.

During the year just past the phase of the Indian question which has been most sharply brought to public attention is the larger legal significance of the Indian's induction into citizenship. This has made itself manifest not only in a great access of litigation in which the citizen Indian figures as a party defendant and in a more widespread disposition to levy local taxation upon his personality, but in a decision of the United States Supreme court which struck away the main prop on which has hitherto rested the government's benevolent effort to protect him against the evils of intemperance. The court holds in effect that when an Indian becomes by virtue of an allotment of land to him a citizen of the state in which his land is situated he passes from under federal control in such matters as this and the acts of the congress prohibiting the sale or gift to him of intoxicants become substantially inoperative.

It is gratifying to note that the states and municipalities of the west which have most at stake in the welfare of the Indians are taking up this subject and are trying to supply in a measure at least the abdication of its trusteeship forced upon the federal government. Nevertheless I would urgently press upon the attention of the congress the question whether some amendment of the internal revenue laws might not be of aid in prosecuting those malefactors known in the Indian country as "bootleggers," who are engaged at once in defrauding the United States treasury of taxes and, what is far more important, in debauching the Indians by carrying liquors illicitly into territory still completely under federal jurisdiction.

Among the crying present needs of the Indians are more day schools situated in the midst of their settlements, more effective instruction in the industries pursued on their own farms, and a more liberal extension of the field-matron service, which means the education of the Indian women in the arts of homemaking. Until the mothers are well started in the right direction we cannot reasonably expect much from the children who are soon to form an integral part of our American citizenship. Moreover, the excuse continually advanced by male adult Indians for refusing offers of remunerative employment at a distance from their homes is that they dare not leave their families too long out of their sight. One effectual remedy for this state of things is to employ the minds and strengthen the moral fiber of the Indian women—the end to which the work of the field-matron is especially directed. I trust that the congress will make its appropriations for Indian day schools and field matrons as generous as may consist with the other pressing demands upon its providence.

THE PHILIPPINE ISLANDS.

During the last year the Philippine islands have been slowly recovering from the series of disasters which, since American occupation, have greatly reduced the amount of agricultural products below what was produced in Spanish times. The war, the rinderpest, the locusts, the drought and the cholera have been united as causes to prevent a return of the prosperity much needed in the islands. The most serious is the destruction by the rinderpest of more than 75 per cent of the draft cattle, because it will take several years of breeding to restore the necessary number of these indispensable aids to agriculture. The commission attempted to supply by purchase from adjoining countries the needed cattle, but the experiments made were unsuccessful. Most of the cattle imported were unable to withstand the change of climate and the rigors of the voyage and died from other diseases than rinderpest.

The income of the Philippine government has necessarily been reduced by reason of the business and agricultural depression in the islands, and the government has been obliged to exercise great economy, to cut down its expenses, to reduce salaries and in every way to avoid a deficit. It has adopted an internal revenue law, imposing taxes on cigars, cigarettes and distilled liquors, and abolishing the old Spanish industrial taxes. The law has not operated as smoothly as was hoped and, although its principle is undoubtedly correct, it may need amendments for the purpose of reconciling the people to its provisions. The income derived from it has partly made up for the reduction in customs revenue.

There has been a marked increase in the number of Filipinos employed in the civil service and a corresponding decrease in the number of Americans. The government in every one of its departments has been rendered more efficient by elimination of undesirable material and the promotion of deserving public servants.

Improvements of harbors, roads and bridges continue, although the cutting down of the revenue forbids the expenditure of any great amount from current income for these purposes. Steps are being taken, by advertisement for competitive bids, to secure the construction and maintenance of 1,000 miles of railway by private corporations under the recent enabling legislation of the congress. The transfer of the friar lands, in accordance with the contract made some two years ago, has been completely effected and the purchase money paid.

Provision has just been made by statute for the speedy settlement in a special proceeding in the Supreme court of controversies over the possession and title of church buildings and rectories arising between the Roman catholic church and schismatics claiming under ancient municipalities. Negotiations and hearings for the settlement of the amount due to the Roman catholic church for rent and occupation of churches and rectories by the army of the United States are in progress, and it is hoped a satisfactory conclusion may be submitted to the congress before the end of the session.

Tranquillity has existed during the past year throughout the archipelago, except in the province of Cavite, the province of Batangas and the province of Samar and in the island of Jolo among the Moros. The Jolo disturbance was put an end to by several sharp and short engagements and now peace prevails in the Moro province. Cavite, the mother of ladrones in the Spanish times, is so permeated with the traditional sympathy of the people for ladronism as to make it difficult to stamp out the disease. Batangas was only disturbed by reason of the fugitive ladrones from Cavite. Samar was thrown into disturbance by the uneducated and partly savage peoples living in the mountains, who, having been given by the municipal code more power than they were able to exercise discreetly, elected municipal officers who abused their trusts, compelled the people raising hemp to sell it at a much less price than it was worth and by their abuses drove their people into resistance to the constituted authority. Cavite and Samar are instances of reposing too much confidence in the self-governing power of a people.

The disturbances have all now been suppressed and it is hoped that with these lessons local governments can be formed which will secure quiet and peace to the deserving inhabitants. The incident is another proof of the fact that if there has been any error as regards giving self-government in the Philippines it has been in the direction of giving it too quickly, not too slowly. A year from next April the first legislative assembly for the islands will be held. On the sanity and self-restraint of this body much will depend so far as the future self-government of the islands is concerned.

The most encouraging feature of the whole situation has been the very great interest taken by the common people in education and the great increase in the number of enrolled students in the public schools. The increase was from 300,000 to 500,000 pupils. The average attendance is about 70 per cent. The only limit upon the number of pupils seems to be the capacity of the government to furnish teachers and school-houses.

The agricultural conditions of the islands enforce more strongly than ever the argument in favor of reducing the tariff on the products of the Philippine islands entering the United States. I earnestly recommend that the tariff now imposed by the Dingley bill upon the products of the Philippine islands be entirely removed, except the tariff on sugar and tobacco, and that that tariff be reduced to 25 per cent of the present rates under the Dingley act; that after July 1, 1909, the tariff upon tobacco and sugar produced in the Philippine islands be entirely removed, and that free trade between the islands and the United States in the products of each country then be provided by law.

A statute in force, enacted April 15, 1904, suspends the operation of the coastwise laws of the United States upon the trade between the Philippine islands and the United States until July 1, 1906. I earnestly recommend that this suspension be postponed until July 1, 1909. I think it of doubtful utility to apply the coastwise laws to the trade between the United States and the Philippines under any circumstances, because I am convinced that it will do no good whatever to American bottoms, and will only interfere with and be an obstacle to the trade between the Philip-pires and the United States; but if the coastwise law must be thus applied, certainly it ought not to have effect until free trade is enjoyed between the people of the United States and the people of the Philippine islands in their respective products.

I do not anticipate that free trade between the islands and the United States will produce a revolution in the sugar and tobacco production of the Philippine islands. So primitive are the methods of agriculture in the Philippine islands, so slow is capital in going to the islands, so many difficulties surround a large agricultural enterprise in the islands that it will be many, many years before the products of those islands will have any effect whatever upon the markets of the United States. The problem of labor is also a formidable one with the sugar and tobacco producers in the islands. The best friends of the Filipino people and the people themselves are utterly opposed to the admission of Chinese coolie labor. Hence the only solution is the training of Filipino labor, and this will take a long time. The enactment of a law by the congress of the United States making provision for free trade between the islands and the United States, however, will be of great importance from a political and sentimental standpoint, and, while its actual benefit has doubtless been exaggerated by the people of the islands, they will accept this measure of justice as an indication that the people of the United States are anxious to aid the people of the Philippine islands in every way and especially in the agricultural development of their archipelago. It will aid the Filipinos without injuring interests in America.

HAWAIIAN AFFAIRS.

In my judgment immediate steps should be taken for the fortification of Hawaii. This is the most important point in the Pacific to fortify in order to conserve the interests of this country. It would be hard to overstate the importance of this need. Hawaii is too heavily taxed. Laws should be enacted setting aside for a period of, say, twenty years 75 per cent of the internal revenue and customs receipts from Hawaii as a special fund to be expended in the islands for educational and public buildings, and for harbor improvements and military and naval defenses. It cannot be too often repeated that our aim must be to develop the territory of Hawaii on traditional American lines. That territory has serious commercial and industrial problems to reckon with, but no measure of relief can be considered which looks to legislation admitting Chinese and restricting them by statute to field labor and domestic service. The status of servility can never again be tolerated on American soil. We cannot concede that the proper solution of its problems is special legislation admitting to Hawaii a class of laborers denied admission to the other states and territories. There are obstacles, and great obstacles, in the way of building up a representative American community in the Hawaiian islands, but it is not in the American character to give up in the face of difficulty. Many an American commonwealth has been built up against odds equal to those that now confront Hawaii.

No merely half-hearted effort to meet its problems as other American communities have met theirs can be accepted as final.

Hawaii shall never become a territory in which a governing class of rich planters exists by means of coolie labor. Even if the rate of growth of the territory is thereby rendered slower, the growth must only take place by the admission of immigrants fit in the end to assume the duties and burdens of full American citizenship. Our aim must be to develop the territory on the same basis of stable citizenship as exists on this continent.

I earnestly advocate the adoption of legislation which will explicitly confer American citizenship on all citizens of Porto Rico. There is, in my judgment, no excuse for failure to do this. The harbor of San Juan should be dredged and improved. The expenses of the federal court of Porto Rico should be met from the federal treasury and not from the Porto Rican treasury. The elections in Porto Rico should take place every four years and the legislature should meet in session every two years. The present form of government in Porto Rico, which provides for the appointment by the president of the members of the executive council or upper house of the legislature, has proved satisfactory and has inspired confidence in property owners and investors. I do not deem it advisable at the present time to change this form in any material feature. The problems and needs of the island are industrial and commercial rather than political.

I wish to call the attention of the congress to one question which affects our insular possessions generally; namely, the need of an increased liberality in the treatment of the whole franchise question in these islands. In the proper desire to prevent the islands being exploited by speculators and to have them develop in the interest of their own people an error has been made in refusing to grant sufficiently liberal terms to induce the investment of American capital in the Philippines and in Porto Rico. Elsewhere in this message I have spoken strongly against the jealousy of mere wealth, and especially of corporate wealth as such. But it is particularly regrettable to allow any such jealousy to be developed when we are dealing either with our insular or with foreign affairs. The big corporation has achieved its present position in the business world simply because it is the most effective instrument in business competition. In foreign affairs we cannot afford to put our people at a disadvantage with their competitors by in any way discriminating against the efficiency of our business organizations.

In the same way we cannot afford to allow our insular possessions to lag behind in industrial development from any twisted jealousy of business success. It is, of course, a mere truism to say that the business interest of the islands will only be developed if it becomes the financial interest of somebody to develop them. Yet this development is one of the things most earnestly to be wished for in the interest of the islands themselves. We have been paying all possible heed to the political and educational interests of the islands, but, important though these objects are, it is not less important that we should favor their industrial development. The government can in certain ways help this directly, as by building good roads; but the fundamental and vital help must be given through the development of the industries of the islands and a most efficient means to this end is to encourage big American corporations to start industries in them, and this means to make it advantageous for them to do so. To limit the ownership of mining claims as has been done in the Philippines is absurd. In both the Philippines and Porto Rico the limit of holdings of land should be largely raised.

ALASKA.

I earnestly ask that Alaska be given an elective delegate. Some person should be chosen who can speak with authority of the needs of the territory. The government should aid in the construction of a railroad from the Gulf of Alaska to the Yukon river, in American territory. In my last two messages I advocated certain additional action on behalf of Alaska. I shall not now repeat those recommendations, but I shall lay all my stress upon the one recommendation of giving Alaska some one authorized to speak for it. I should prefer that the delegate was made elective, but if this is not deemed wise, then make him appointive. At any rate, give Alaska some person whose business it shall be to speak with authority on her behalf to the congress. The natural resources of Alaska are great. Some of the chief needs of the peculiarly energetic, self-reliant and typically American white population of Alaska were set forth in my last message.

I also earnestly ask your attention to the needs of the Alaskan Indians. All Indians who are competent should receive the full rights of American citizenship. It is, for instance, a gross and indefensible wrong to deny to such hard-working, decent-living Indians as the Melakatlans the right to obtain licenses as captains, pilots and engineers, the right to enter mining claims and to profit by the homestead law. These particular Indians are civilized and are competent and entitled to be put on the same basis with the white men round about them.

I recommend that Indian Territory and Oklahoma be admitted as one state and that New Mexico and Arizona be admitted as one state. There is no obligation upon us to treat territorial subdivisions, which are matters of convenience only, as binding us on the question of admission to statehood. Nothing has taken up more time in the congress during the last few years than the question as to the statehood to be granted to the four territories above mentioned, and after careful consideration of all that has been developed in the discussion of the question I recommend that they be immediately admitted as two states. There is no justification for further delay, and the advisability of making the four territories into two states has been clearly established.

In some of the territories the legislative assemblies issue licenses for gambling. The congress should by law forbid this practice, the harmful results of which are obvious at a glance.

PANAMA CANAL.

The treaty between the United States and the Republic of Panama, under which the construction of the Panama canal was made possible, went into effect with its ratification by the United States senate on Feb. 23, 1904. The canal properties of the French Canal company were transferred to the United States on April 23, 1904, on payment of $40,000,000 to that company. On April 1, 1905, the commission was reorganized and it now consists of Theodore P. Shonts, chairman; Charles E. Magoon, Benjamin M. Harrod, Rear-Admiral Mordecai T. Endicott, Brig-Gen. Peter C. Hains and Col. Oswald H. Ernst. John F. Stevens was appointed chief engineer on July 1 last. Active work in canal construction, mainly preparatory, has been in progress for less than a year and a half. During that period two points about the canal have ceased to be open to debate. First, the question of route; the canal will be built on the Isthmus of Panama. Second, the question of feasibility; there are no physical obstacles on this route that American engineering skill will not be able to overcome without serious difficulty or that will prevent the completion of the canal within a reasonable time and at reasonable cost. This is virtually the unanimous testimony of the engineers who have investigated the matter for the government.

The point which remains unsettled is the question of type, whether the canal shall be one of several locks above sea level, or at sea level with a single tide lock. On this point I hope to lay before the congress at an early day the findings of the advisory board of American and European engineers, that at my invitation have been considering the subject, together with the report of the commission thereon, and such comments thereon or recommendations in reference thereto as may seem necessary.

The American people is pledged to the speediest possible construction of a canal adequate to meet the demands which the commerce of the world will make upon it, and I appeal most earnestly to the congress to aid in the fulfillment of the pledge. Gratifying progress has been made during the last year and especially during the last four months. The greater part of the necessary preliminary work has been done. Actual work of excavation could be begun only on a limited scale till the canal zone was made a healthful place to live in and to work in. The isthmus had to be sanitized first. This task has been so thoroughly accomplished that yellow fever has been virtually extirpated from the isthmus and general health conditions vastly improved.

The same methods which converted the island of Cuba from a pest hole which menaced the health of the world into a healthful place of abode have been applied on the isthmus with satisfactory results. There is no reason to doubt that when the plans of water supply, paving and sewerage of Panama and Colon and the large labor camps have been fully carried out the isthmus will be, for the tropics, an unusually healthy place of abode. The work is so far advanced now that the health of all those employed in canal work is as well guarded as it is on similar work in this country and elsewhere.

In addition to sanitating the isthmus, satisfactory quarters are being provided for employes and an adequate system of supplying them with wholesome food at reasonable prices has been created. Hospitals have been established and equipped that are without superiors of their kind anywhere. The country has thus been made fit to work in and provision has been made for the welfare and comfort of those who are to do the work. During the last year a large portion of the plant with which the work is to be done has been ordered. It is confidently believed that by the middle of the approaching year a sufficient proportion of this plant will have been installed to enable us to resume the work of excavation on a large scale.

What is needed now and without delay is an appropriation by the congress to meet the current and accruing expenses of the commission. The first appropriation of $10,000,000, out of the $135,000,000 authorized by the Spooner act, was made three years ago. It is nearly exhausted. There is barely enough of it remaining to carry the commission to the end of the year. Unless the congress shall appropriate before that time all work must cease. To arrest progress for any length of time now, when matters are advancing so satisfactorily, would be deplorable. There will be no money with which to meet pay-roll obligations and none with which to meet bills coming due for materials and supplies; and there will be demoralization of the forces, here and on the isthmus, now working so harmoniously and effectively, if there is delay in granting an emergency appropriation. Estimates of the amount necessary will be found in the accompanying reports of the secretary of war and the commission.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE.

I recommend more adequate provision than has been made heretofore for the work of the department of state. Within a few years there has been a very great increase in the amount and importance of the work to be done by that department, both in Washington and abroad. This has been caused by the great increase of our foreign trade, the increase of wealth among our people, which enables them to travel more generally than heretofore, the increase of American capital which is seeking investment in foreign countries and the growth of our power and weight in the councils of the civilized world. There has been no corresponding increase of facilities for doing the work afforded to the department having charge of our foreign relations.

Neither at home nor abroad is there a sufficient working force to do the business properly. In many respects the system which was adequate to do the work of twenty-five or even ten years ago is inadequate now and should be changed. Our consular force should be classified and appointments should be made to the several classes with authority to the executive to assign the members of each class to duty at such posts as the interests of the service require, instead of the appointments being made as at present to specified posts. There should be an adequate inspection service, so that the department may be able to inform itself how the business of each consulate is being done, instead of depending upon casual private information or rumor. The fee system should be entirely abolished and a due equivalent made in salary to the officers who now eke out their subsistence by means of fees. Sufficient provision should be made for a clerical force in every consulate, composed entirely of Americans, instead of the insufficient provision now made, which compels the employment of great numbers of citizens of foreign countries whose services can be obtained for less money.

At a large part of our consulates the office quarters and the clerical force are inadequate to the performance of the onerous duties imposed by the recent provisions of our immigration laws as well as by our increasing trade. In many parts of the world the lack of suitable quarters for our embassies, legations and consulates detracts from the respect in which our officers ought to be held and seriously impairs their weight and influence.

Suitable provision should be made for the expense of keeping our diplomatic officers more fully informed of what is being done from day to day in the progress of our diplomatic affairs with other countries. The lack of such information, caused by insufficient appropriations available for cable tolls and for clerical and messenger service, frequently puts our officers at a great disadvantage and detracts from their usefulness. The salary list should be readjusted. It does not now correspond either to the importance of the service to be rendered and the degrees of ability and experience required in the different positions or to the differences in the cost of living. In many cases the salaries are quite inadequate.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

The White House, Dec. 5, 1905.

SANTO DOMINGO AND THE UNITED STATES.

By a protocol signed Jan. 20, 1905, by Commander Albert C. Dillingham, U. S. N., on behalf of the American government, the United States assumed charge of the custom houses of the republic of Santo Domingo and agreed to undertake the adjustment of all obligations, foreign and domestic, to determine the validity of pending claims and insure the payment of all lawful indebtedness arising therefrom. This government agreed to safeguard the territorial integrity of Santo Domingo, but not to assume a general protectorate or to interfere with its internal affairs. The arrangement was asked by the island republic and approved by the foreign powers interested because of the financial chaos that had long existed.

The Santo Domingo protocol or treaty was considered at the extra session of the United States senate, but it went over without action being taken.

THE FRANK G. BIGELOW DEFALCATION.

April 24, 1905, it was discovered that Frank G. Bigelow, president of the First National bank of Milwaukee, Wis., was a defaulter for sums aggregating more than $1,500,000. A run was made on the bank, but funds were supplied by the directors and stockholders and it remained solvent. June 10 Mr. Bigelow pleaded guilty to embezzlement and was sentenced to serve ten years in the government prison at Leavenworth, Kas.

STANDARD AND LOCAL MEAN TIME.

In 1883 the United States and Canada agreed to adopt, chiefly for the convenience of the railroads, a standard of time. For this purpose the country was divided into four sections or zones, each fifteen degrees of longitude in width, equivalent to one hour. These sections were designated as the eastern, central, mountain and Pacific. The eastern is based on the 75th, the central on the 90th, the mountain on the 105th and the Pacific on the 120th meridian. All places within seven and one-half degrees of longitude on each side of these meridians have the same standard time, but only those on the meridians themselves have the same standard and local mean or solar time. The local mean time of other places varies according to the distance east or west of the meridians. East it is earlier, west later. Chicago, for instance, is in west longitude 87 degrees 38 minutes, or 2 degrees and 22 minutes east of the 90th meridian. Each degree of latitude being equal to 4 minutes of time, the city's local mean time is consequently about 9 minutes earlier than standard time. In other words, when it is 12 o'clock noon in Chicago by standard time it is 11:51 a. m. by local mean or solar time. The difference between the standard and local time of the principal cities of the United States is shown in the following table:

NEW YORK LIFE INSURANCE SCANDALS.

Early in February, 1905, two factions in the Equitable Life Assurance society of New York city, represented by James W. Alexander, the president, and James H. Hyde, vice-president, began a bitter fight for control. A demand was made that the company should be mutualized so that its policyholders might be represented on the board of directors. This demand was resisted and charges and counter-charges of corruption were made. In April Francis Hendricks, state superintendent of insurance, began an investigation of the affairs of the company. It was revealed that the officers had been paid extravagant salaries and that the funds had been used in what was claimed to be very questionable transactions. In connection with some of these matters the names of many men prominent in the eastern financial and political world were mentioned.

In June Paul Morton, then secretary of the navy, was elected chairman of the company and Alexander and Hyde, together with a number of the directors, were compelled to resign. Hyde sold out the majority of his stock to Thomas F. Ryan, a capitalist of New York city. At the same time ex-President Grover Cleveland, Judge Morgan T. O'Brien and George Westinghouse were appointed trustees of a majority of the capital stock. In July Gov. Higgins appointed a committee from the state legislature to investigate all the life insurance companies. The state insurance department had already begun an investigation of the New York Life Insurance company at its own request. Morton was elected president of the Equitable July 26.

The legislative investigation into life insurance methods began Sept. 6 with Charles E. Hughes as chief counsel for the committee. The affairs of the New York Life company were looked into and it was found, among other things, that secret disbursements of money were made on a large scale, that a paid lobby was maintained at Albany, that $150,000 had been contributed to the republican campaign funds at various times and that for some purpose of book-keeping $800,000 in bonds were sold one day before a holiday and were bought back the day after. More or less sensational disclosures of a similar character affecting the Mutual Life, the Equitable and other companies were made in the course of the inquiry. Among the many witnesses who were placed on the stand were George W. Perkins, Jacob H. Schiff, John A. McCall, Robert H. and Richard A. McCurdy, Chauncey M. Depew, James H. Hyde and ex-Gov. Odell.

SECOND PEACE CONFERENCE AT THE HAGUE.

In the fall of 1904 President Roosevelt, responding to a request made by the delegates of the Interparliamentary union, sent a note to the powers taking part in the first peace conference at The Hague suggesting that the time was opportune for another meeting. The note met with favorable responses, but pending the conclusion of the Japanese-Russian war no time was fixed. When the war ended in 1905 Emperor Nicholas expressed a wish to summon the peace conference himself and with the concurrence of President Roosevelt invited the nations to send delegates to The Hague. The invitations were accepted and the date of the conference was tentatively fixed for May, 1906.

CRISIS IN AUSTRIA-HUNGARY.

Since the union between Austria and Hungary was brought about in 1867 there have been many disputes between the two kingdoms, owing chiefly to the aspirations of the Hungarians for an independent national life. In 1905 the feeling of bitterness increased because of the opposition of Emperor Francis Joseph to certain reforms demanded by the coalition party in the Hungarian diet. These included the dissolution of the commercial partnership between the countries and the substitution for it of a purely political connection and a regulation permitting the Magyar tongue to be used as the language of command in the Hungarian army. Much stress was laid upon the latter demand, but it was curtly and emphatically rejected by the emperor.

The tension was materially increased when a new cabinet was appointed June 12 with Gen. Baron Fejervary as premier. It was felt that this cabinet was not in sympathy with the coalitionists, who had triumphed in the spring elections. Legislation in the Hungarian parliament became impossible and it was adjourned from time to time. Sept. 14 the emperor accepted the resignation of the Fejervary cabinet, but the ministers were requested to continue in the performance of their duties until further orders. Sept. 27 a serious riot occurred in Budapest between the socialists and the coalitionists because the latter refused to include universal suffrage in their programme.

No progress toward an agreement between the two countries had been made up to Dec. 1, 1905.

The ministers for the common affairs of the dual monarchy in November, 1905, were:

EARTHQUAKE IN INDIA.

Nearly the whole of upper India was shaken by an earthquake early on the morning of April 4, 1905. Dharmasala, Kangra, Palampur, Dhawan and many other towns and villages were almost completely destroyed. At the first-mentioned place the military barracks occupied by a detachment of Gurkhas were laid in ruins and most of the occupants killed. It was estimated that nearly 15,000 persons lost their lives in the whole district affected by the earthquake.

ATTEMPT TO KILL THE SULTAN OF TURKEY.

Just as the sultan of Turkey, Abdul Hamid II., was leaving a mosque after the Selamlık ceremony in Constantinople July 21 a large bomb was exploded near his carriage. He escaped injury, but between thirty and forty persons in the vicinity were killed or injured and many vehicles blown to pieces. The perpetrators of the outrage were not captured.

EPIDEMICS IN 1905.

Cerebro-Spinal Meningitis—In February, March and April, 1905, there were nearly 850 deaths from cerebro-spinal meningitis in New York city. The hospitals were crowded with patients suffering from this disease, the nature of which is not well understood, and for which there is no successful remedy. Most of the victims were children. A similar epidemic visited New York in 1872.

Yellow Fever in New Orleans—About the middle of July, 1905, sporadic cases of yellow fever appeared in the Italian quarter of New Orleans. The disease spread rapidly, chiefly because the victims were concealed from the health authorities, and it was several weeks before the physicians had the situation under control. The surrounding towns and states established a strict quarantine against New Orleans, but the fever appeared in various localities in Louisiana, Alabama and Florida. The United States health authorities were called upon for assistance and a number of doctors were detailed for duty in New Orleans. The total number of cases in that city up to Nov. 1, when the disease had practically disappeared, was 3,397, of which 448 were fatal. The most distinguished victim was Archbishop Chapelle, who died Aug. 9.

LEWIS AND CLARK EXPOSITION.

The Lewis and Clark centennial exposition was held at Portland, Ore., beginning June 1 and ending Oct. 14, 1905. The total attendance was 2,545,509. The fair was a success especially in the line of showing the resources of the northwestern and western part of the United States.

PROCEEDINGS AGAINST THE BEEF TRUST.

The temporary injunction issued by Judge Peter S. Grosscup May 20, 1902, against the beef trust was made permanent by the United States Supreme court in a decision announced Jan. 30, 1905. The decision established these points:

Traffic in live stock transported from state to state is interstate commerce and persons engaged in buying and selling such live stock are engaged in interstate commerce.

The combination between dealers to suppress all competition in the purchase of live stock is an unlawful restraint of trade.

The combination between dealers to fix and maintain a uniform price in the sale of meat throughout the country is an unlawful restraint of trade.

The combination of dealers to obtain preferential railroad rates is an unlawful restraint of trade.

All combinations suppressing competition between independent dealers fall under the prohibition of the Sherman antitrust act.

Feb. 21, 1905, a special grand jury was called by the federal authorities to meet in Chicago March 20 to investigate the beef trust for alleged violations of the Sherman antitrust law. On the date named the inquiry was begun and July 1 twenty-one packing company officials and five of the corporations with which they were connected were indicted by the jury in the United States District court. Seventeen of the number were indicted for a conspiracy to restrain commerce and trade by monopolizing the meat product and four were indicted for conspiring to secure rebates from various railways in connection with the shipment of meat. The following individuals were indicted for conspiracy:

Of Armour & Co.—J. Ogden Armour, president, Chicago; Charles W. Armour, Kansas City, president of the Armour Packing company; Thomas J. Connors, superintendent, Chicago; Samuel A. McRoberts, assistant treasurer, Chicago; Arthur Meeker, general manager, Chicago; Patrick A. Valentine, treasurer, Chicago.

Of Swift & Co.—Lawrence A. Carton, treasurer, Chicago; Arthur F. Evans, special counsel, Chicago; D. E. Hartwell, secretary, Chicago; B. C. McManus, special counsel, Chicago; Louis F., Edward F. and Charles H. Swift, president, vice-president and director respectively, Chicago; A. H. Veeder, general counsel, Chicago.

Of the Fairbanks Canning Company—Edward Morris, vice-president, Chicago; Ira A. Morris, secretary, Chicago.

Of the Cudahy Company—Edward A. Cudahy, vice-president and general manager, Omaha.

Corporations indicted:—Armour & Co. of Illinois; Armour Packing company, organized under the laws of New Jersey, Charles W. Armour of Kansas City, president; Swift & Co., Fairbanks Canning company and the Cudahy Packing company.

Indicted for rebating—B. S. Cusey, traffic manager for Schwarzschild & Sulzberger; V. D. Skipworth and C. M. Todd, assistant traffic managers for same firm, and Samuel Well of New York, vice-president of Schwarzschild & Sulzberger in 1903.

Sept. 21 the four officials last named appeared before Judge J. Otis Humphrey in the United States District court in Chicago and pleaded guilty to the indictments charging them with conspiracy to accept railroad rebates. A fine of $10,000 was imposed upon Samuel Well and $5,000 upon each of the others.

The proceedings against the other defendants had not been terminated when this edition of the Almanac and Year-Book went to press.

SWAYNE IMPEACHMENT CASE.

In March, 1904, the house committee on judiciary charged Justice Charles Swayne of the northern district court of Florida with being harsh, tyrannical, oppressive and unjust in the discharge of his duties and with living in Delaware five-sixths of the eight years when his court duties lay in Florida. Jan. 10, 1905, articles of impeachment were reported to the house. These included the charges mentioned and others, the most serious being that accusing him of drawing $10 a day for traveling expenses, even on occasions when they were much less. The senate organized as a court of impeachment Jan. 23 and the hearing of the case began Jan. 24. Testimony on each of twelve charges brought by the house was heard, the hearing continuing until Feb. 27, when the judge was acquitted. The highest vote against him was 35 to 47 on the charge that he had punished W. C. O'Neal for contempt in assaulting a trustee in bankruptcy appointed by him.

Including the Swayne case there have been eight impeachments of this kind in the United States. In only two were there convictions. Judge Pickens of New Hampshire was found guilty in 1804 of drunkenness and profanity and Judge Humphreys of Tennessee was convicted of disloyalty in 1862.

FRANCE AND GERMANY AND MOROCCAN REFORMS.

In June, 1905, the relations of France and Germany became strained because of the attitude of the latter country on the subject of reforms in Morocco. For a time it was feared that war might be the outcome, but an agreement was reached Sept. 28 to submit the matters in dispute to an international conference. By a treaty with Great Britain, signed April 8, 1904, France was given a free hand in Morocco and the interference of Germany was looked upon by the French as unwarranted. The subjects to be considered at the conference comprised the organization of the Moroccan police, the repression of contraband arms, the creation of a state bank to facilitate financial reforms, the best means of collecting duties, the creation of new means of revenue and the best methods of safeguarding the economic liberty of the country.

STRIKE OF TEAMSTERS IN CHICAGO.

One of the greatest and most stubbornly contested strikes in the history of Chicago began April 7, 1905, when seventy-one teamsters employed by Montgomery Ward & Co. quit work because the firm refused to submit its differences with seventeen garment workers to arbitration. The garment workers employed by the association of wholesale tailors had been on strike since Nov. 18, 1904, for the closed-shop principle. Street riots began almost immediately and many arrests were made by the police. April 13 the Employers' association held a meeting at which the Employers' Teaming association was formed.

The strike gradually spread to the teamsters employed by certain coal firms and by the express companies when they were asked to make deliveries to the firm which had been picketed and placed under a boycott. Feeling that the struggle was hopeless, the garment workers gave up and April 24 Cornelius P. Shea, president of the International Teamsters' union, called off the strike. On the refusal of the Employers' association and Montgomery Ward & Co. to reinstate the teamsters in their old positions, the strike was declared on again and April 27 more than 2,800 drivers quit work, including those employed by the State street department stores and a number of wholesale grocers and other firms. Disorder increased in the downtown streets and assaults upon nonunion teamsters were frequent. Bitterness was added to the contest by the importation of colored strike breakers from the south and almost the entire police force of the city was employed in guarding the wagons and other property of the firms against which strikes had been declared. Some 2,300 deputy sheriffs were also sworn in to assist the express companies and department stores in making deliveries.

April 28 the Employers' Teaming company secured from Judge Kohlsaat of the United States Circuit court an injunction restraining the union drivers and their officials from interfering with its business. On the 29th of April the grand jury returned indictments for conspiracy to ruin the business of Montgomery Ward & Co. against Cornelius P. Shea, president of the Teamsters' International association, and the following local labor leaders: Charles Dold, Hugh McGee, Jerry McCarthy, M. F. Kelly, Charles Wilbrandt, George F. Golden, James B. Barry, John Smyth, Harry Lapp, Steve Sumner and J. W. Young. In May Samuel F. Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, arrived in Chicago and through his efforts preliminary terms of settlement were agreed upon. These the Teamsters' Joint council refused to ratify because the express companies would not reinstate any of their drivers who had gone out. The strike extended to the lumber business and attempts were made to tie up all the building trades, but without success.

May 25 Bernard Mulligan and John H. Donahue were brought before Judge Kohlsaat for contempt of court in refusing to answer certain questions touching the strike put by Master in Chancery Sherman and both were sentenced. Mr. Shea was charged with the same offense, but escaped punishment. June 3 the grand jury returned twenty indictments against Shea, Dold and other labor leaders. Many charges of bribery, corruption and other forms of crime in connection with labor troubles were investigated by the same body and July 1 fifty-four indictments were returned. Those named in the bills included capitalists as well as labor leaders and the offenses charged ranged from conspiracy to murderous assault.

Numerous efforts to end the strike were made, but all failed and the contest became one of endurance. The teamsters finally came to the conclusion that it was useless to continue the struggle, and July 20 the end came. The lumber, department store and express drivers voted to declare the strike off and their action was ratified by the joint council. No concessions and no promises of any kind were made by the employers. Few of those who went out secured their old places and those who did were not allowed to display union buttons.

The strike lasted 105 days, involved 4,260 teamsters and cost the city and county for police protection about $500,000. Twenty-one persons were killed and 415 were injured in riots or individual attacks. The strikers lost in wages about $700,000 and the cost to unions for strike benefits was $350,000. The employers suffered an estimated loss of at least $2,000,000. What the city lost in shrinkage of business is a matter of mere conjecture, but it doubtless amounted to several million dollars.

CHINESE BOYCOTT ON AMERICAN GOODS.

Early in the spring of 1905 Chinese merchants began a systematic boycott of American goods imported into their country. No satisfactory explanation was given, but it subsequently developed that the principal cause was the too rigid enforcement of the Chinese exclusion act in this country by the port officials. It was claimed that students, merchants and others entitled to travel in the United States were subjected to indignities and insults, to say nothing of unnecessary delays. The exclusion of Chinese coolies from the island possessions of the United States also contributed to the ill-feeling in China. In June President Roosevelt ordered the immigration officials to exercise more discretion in the enforcement of the laws and not to subject Chinamen entitled to enter the country to needless hardships. July 1 the Chinese government ordered the viceroys and provincial governors to put an end to the anti-American agitation, but the order had little effect and the boycott continued, particularly in Shanghai, Canton, Tientsin, Hankow and Newchwang. Instead of discouraging it some of the officials assisted in the boycott by fining merchants who sold American goods. The dowager empress was opposed to the concerted action to hurt trade with the United States, but her advice and orders were not heeded. Promises to discontinue the boycott were made to Secretary Taft at the time of his visit to China in September, but apparently it was the plan to continue the policy until a more liberal treaty with the United States could be secured.

CHURCH AND STATE SEPARATED IN FRANCE.

By a bill which passed the chamber of deputies July 3 and the senate Dec. 6, 1905, the concordat signed by Pius VII. and Napoleon in 1801 was abolished and the separation of church and state effected. Under the old law the churches were government property, the clergy were paid by the state and the religious affairs of the country were under the direction of a member of the president's cabinet. Under the new law the republic provides the funds for college, hospital and asylum chaplains, but otherwise the public worship budget is abolished and public establishments connected with religion are suppressed.

UNITED STATES NAVY TARGET PRACTICE.

The Asiatic fleet was first in record-target practice in 1905, the Pacific fleet second and the North Atlantic fleet third. The Oregon again won the battleship trophy, with the Monadnock second and the Wisconsin third. The cruiser trophy was won by the Raleigh, with the Cleveland second and the Newark third. The gunboat trophy went to the Frolic.

CARNEGIE INSTITUTION OF WASHINGTON.

[Prepared by William Barnum, chief clerk.]

The Carnegie Institution of Washington was incorporated Jan. 4, 1902, and endowed by Andrew Carnegie with $10,000,000. The purpose of the institution is thus declared by its founder:

"It is proposed to found in the city of Washington an institution which, with the co-operation of institutions now or hereafter established, there or elsewhere, shall in the broadest and most liberal manner encourage investigation, research and discovery—show the application of knowledge to the improvement of mankind, provide such buildings, laboratories, books and apparatus as may be needed, and afford instruction of an advanced character to students properly qualified to profit thereby."

Under the original organization the endowment and the conduct of the institution were intrusted to a board of twenty-seven trustees, but under act of congress approved April 28, 1904, certain ex-officio trustees were dispensed with. The board now consists of the following persons:

Trustees—Alexander Agassiz, John S. Billings, John L. Cadwalader, Cleveland H. Dodge, W. N. Frew, Lyman J. Gage, Daniel C. Gilman, Henry L. Higginson, E. A. Hitchcock, William Wirt Howe, Charles L. Hutchinson, S. P. Langley, William Lindsay, Seth Low, Wayne Mac-

Veagh, D. O. Mills, S. Weir Mitchell, William W. Morrow, Elihu Root, John C. Spooner, Charles D. Walcott, Andrew D. White, Carroll D. Wright.

The officers are as follows:

President of the Institution—Robert S. Woodward.

Officers of Board of Trustees—John S. Billings, chairman; Elihu Root, vice-chairman; Charles D. Walcott, secretary.

Executive Committee—Carroll D. Wright, chairman; Charles D. Walcott, secretary; John S. Billings, Daniel C. Gilman, S. Weir Mitchell, Elihu Root, Robert S. Woodward.

There is a vacancy in the board of trustees and also in the executive committee, caused by the death of the Hon. John Hay.

The offices of the institution are in the Bond building, Washington, D. C.

THE CARNEGIE FOUNDATION.

On the 27th of April, 1905, it was announced by Frank A. Vanderlip, vice-president of the National City bank of New York city, that Andrew Carnegie had transferred to a board of trustees $10,000,000 first mortgage 5 per cent United States Steel corporation bonds, the purpose of the trust fund thus created being to provide annuities for college professors in the United States, Canada and Newfoundland, who from old age or other physical disability are no longer in a position to render the most efficient service. A letter from Mr. Carnegie to the board of trustees explaining the motive for and the limitations placed upon the gift was also made public at the same time. This letter was as follows:

"I have reached the conclusion that the least rewarded of all the professions is that of the teacher in our higher educational institutions. New York city generously and wisely provides retiring pensions for teachers in her public schools and also for her policemen. Few, indeed, of our colleges are able to do so. The consequences are grievous. Able men hesitate to adopt teaching as a career and many old professors whose places should be occupied by younger men cannot be retired.

"I have, therefore, transferred to you and your successors as trustees $10,000,000 5 per cent first mortgage bonds of the United States Steel corporation, the revenue from which is to provide retiring pensions for the teachers of universities, colleges and technical schools in our own country, Canada and Newfoundland, under such conditions as you may adopt from time to time. Expert calculations show that the revenue will be ample for the purpose.

"The fund applies to the three classes of institutions named, without regard to race, sex, creed or color. We have, however, to recognize that state and colonial governments which have established, or mainly support, universities, colleges or schools, may prefer that their relations shall remain exclusively with the state. I cannot, therefore, presume to include them.

"There is another class which states do not aid, their constitutions in some cases even forbidding it, viz., sectarian institutions. Many of these established long ago were truly sectarian, but to-day are free to all men of all creeds or of none. Such are not to be considered sectarian now. Only such as are under control of a sect or require trustees (or a majority thereof), officers, faculty or students to belong to any specified sect, or which impose any theological test, are to be excluded.

"Trustees shall hold office for five years and be eligible for re-election. The first trustees shall draw lots for one, two, three, four or five year terms, so that one-fifth shall retire each year. Each institution participating in the fund shall cast one vote for trustees.

"The trustees are hereby given full powers to manage the trust in every respect; to fill vacancies of non-ex-officio members; appoint executive committees, employ agents, change securities, and, generally speaking, to do all things necessary in their judgment to insure the most beneficial administration of the funds.

"By a two-thirds vote they may from time to time apply the revenues in a different manner and for a different though similar purpose to that specified, should coming days bring such changes as render this necessary in their judgment to produce the best results possible for the teachers and for education.

"No trustee shall incur any legal liability flowing from his trusteeship. All traveling and hotel expenses incurred by trustees in the performance of their duties shall be paid from the fund, the expenses of wife or daughter accompanying the trustees to the annual meeting included.

"I hope this fund may do much for the cause of higher education and to remove a source of deep and constant anxiety to the poorest paid and yet one of the highest of all professions. Gratefully yours,

"ANDREW CARNEGIE."

The trustees are as follows:

A. T. Hadley, Yale university.

Charles William Eliot, Harvard university.

William R. Harper, University of Chicago. Nicholas Murray Butler, Columbia university.

Jacob G. Schurman, Cornell university.

Woodrow Wilson, Princeton university.

L. Clark Seelye, Smith college.

W. H. Crawford, Allegheny college.

Henry S. Pritchett, Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The corporation having charge of the fund is styled "The Carnegie Foundation." No annuity to exceed $2,400 is paid.

THE CARNEGIE HERO FUND.

In April, 1904, Andrew Carnegie placed in the hands of a commission the sum of $5,000,000 to be known as "the hero fund." Its purpose is to reward with medals and money the men and women who perform heroic deeds, or, in case they lose their lives, to care for those dependent upon them. Only such as follow peaceful vocations on sea or land in the United States and Canada are eligible to become beneficiaries of the fund. THE B. F. FERGUSON MONUMENT FUND.

By the will of Benjamin Franklin Ferguson, a pioneer lumberman who died April 10, 1905, the perpetual income from a trust fund of $1,000,000 was set aside for defraying the cost of statuary to be erected in the parks and boulevards of Chicago. The fund is to be known as the "B. F. Ferguson monument fund" and is to be used "entirely and exclusively under the direction of the board of trustees of the Art Institute of Chicago in the erection and maintenance of enduring statuary and monuments of stone, granite or bronze, in the parks, along the boulevards and in other public places, commemorating worthy men and women of America or important events of American history." It is estimated that the annual income from the fund will be between $40,000 and $50,000. The Northern Trust company is designated as trustee.

TAXATION IN CHICAGO.

List of the eleven boards making annual levies within the city limits:

1. STATE TAX—For state purposes. The governor, auditor and treasurer constitute the board which ascertains the rate per cent required to produce the amount of taxes levied by the general assembly. "The state school tax" is levied in the same manner. The rate for all state purposes varies from 50 to 60 cents on the $100 assessed valuation.
2. COUNTY TAX—The county board levies the taxes for all county purposes, the aggregate of which is limited to 75 cents on the $100.
3. CITY TAX—The city council, acting with the mayor, levies the taxes for all city purposes, which is limited to $2 on the $100.
4. SCHOOL TAX—The city council and the mayor make a separate levy for this purpose, which is limited to $2.50 on the $100.
5. LIBRARY TAX—The city council and the mayor make a separate levy for this purpose. The levy is 10 cents on the $100.
6. SANITARY DISTRICT—The tax is levied by the board of trustees.

7. SOUTH PARK SYSTEM—The south park commissioners levy for park purposes in the towns of South Chicago, Hyde Park and Lake.
8. WEST PARK SYSTEM—The West Chicago park commissioners levy for park purposes in the town of West Chicago.
9. LINCOLN PARK—The Lincoln park commissioners are not "corporate authorities," the Lincoln park act not having been adopted by popular vote. The levy for Lincoln park is made by the county treasurer, acting as ex-officio supervisor.
10. RIDGE PARK—A small park district in Rogers Park, organized under the law providing for local park districts by popular vote. The board of five commissioners levies for the district.
11. THE NORTH SHORE PARK DISTRICT—Organized the same as Ridge Park.

By an act of the legislature approved May 11, 1901, and by the vote of the people at the spring election in 1902 the townships lying within the limits of Chicago were consolidated and the powers of the town boards transferred to the city council. This reduced the taxing boards in Chicago from eighteen to eleven as above.

At such meetings they shall investigate complaints and formulate rules for the proper administration of justice.

ELECTION OF JUDGES.

Section 9 provides that the chief justice and associate judges of the municipal court shall be elected on the first Tuesday after the first Monday of November, 1906; that the chief justice shall hold his office for the term of six years; that of the associate judges nine shall be elected for two years, nine for four years and nine for six years; that in November, 1908 and 1910, and every sixth year thereafter, there shall be elected nine associate judges; that in November, 1912, and every sixth year thereafter, there shall be elected a chief justice and nine associate judges, each of whom shall hold his office for six years. The judges shall begin their duties on the first Monday of December following their election. Vacancies shall be filled by election at the next regular municipal, judicial or general election after such vacancies respectively occur. Where unexpired terms are not in excess of one year the vacancies may be filled by appointment by the governor. A vacancy in the office of chief justice may be filled temporarily by the selection of one of their own number by the associate judges.

No person shall be eligible to the office of chief justice or of associate judge unless he shall be at least 30 years of age and a citizen of the United States (section 10), nor unless he shall have lived in Cook county and practiced law or acted as a judge five years next preceding his election, and is at the time of his election a resident of Chicago.

Section 11 prescribes the form of oath to be taken by the judges.

Section 12 provides that whenever two-thirds of the judges of the municipal court shall transmit to the city council a certificate signed by them that in their opinion an increase in the number of associate judges is needed, the council may by ordinance provide for an increase of not more than nine in the number of judges, who shall be elected, one-third for two years, one-third for four years and one-third for six years, at the next general election and every two years thereafter their successors shall be elected for the full term of six years. After the number of associate judges has been increased to thirty-six no subsequent increase shall be made by the council.

Section 13 provides that the judges of the municipal court may interchange with the judges of other city and county courts when they find it necessary or convenient.

CLERK AND BAILIFF.

Sections 14-18 provide for the election of a clerk of the municipal court beginning in November, 1906, for a term of six years; for the appointment of deputies; for the election of a bailiff for a term of six years and for the appointment of deputy bailiffs. The salary of the clerk is to be $5,000 a year and that of the deputy clerks $1,800 each, except that the chief deputy clerk is to get $2,500. The bailiff is to get $5,000 a year, his chief deputy $2,500 and the other deputy bailiffs $1,500 each. Such number of the deputy clerks as may be deemed necessary by the judges shall be shorthand reporters who are allowed to furnish transcripts of their reports to those requiring them at a rate not to exceed 15 cents per 100 words. The bailiff is to keep an office in each district and each office is to be open from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. of each working day. The number of deputy clerks and bailiffs is to be determined by a majority of the judges. Neither the clerk nor the bailiff nor any deputy clerk or deputy bailiff shall receive, aside from his salary and the costs required to be paid to him in his official capacity, any money, property or other valuable thing for the performance of any work of any kind imposed upon him by virtue of his office.

Sections 19 and 20 relate to the rules of practice, which, except in cases of the fourth and fifth class, shall be the same as those of the Circuit courts. The judges shall have the power to adopt such rules of practice as they may deem necessary, but these rules must not be inconsistent with the provisions of the act nor are they to take effect until thirty days after they have been approved by the Supreme court. Section 21 declares that there shall be no stated terms of the municipal court, but it shall always be open for the transaction of business. Judgments, orders and decrees are subject to be set aside or modified within thirty days after they have been entered, the same as in the Circuit courts. Appeals (section 22) to the Supreme court are allowed in cases of the first three classes where crimes above the grade of misdemeanors are involved or where franchises, the validity of statutes or construction of the constitution, or revenues in which the state is interested are concerned. Appeals in all other cases go to the Appellate court. Section 23 provides that the final orders and judgments in cases of the fourth and fifth classes shall be reviewed by writ of error only to be sued out within thirty days. The manner of prosecuting such writ of error is specified in detail.

TRANSFER OF CASES.

Section 24 provides that in any case transferred to the municipal court by the Circuit or Superior court of Cook county for trial, the municipal court shall exercise the same powers as the court from which the case has been transferred. Cases may be so transferred upon application for a change of venue made by either party interested and must be transferred where both parties request it. The Criminal court of Cook county may also transfer to the municipal court any pending case. All judgments of conviction in criminal cases where the punishment inflicted is death or imprisonment shall be carried into execution in the same manner as is provided by law in similar cases in the Criminal court. The prosecution in all criminal cases shall be conducted by or under the supervision of the state's attorney of Cook county.

Petit jurors shall be supplied to the municipal courts in the same manner and from the same lists as the jurors for the Circuit, Superior and Criminal courts (section 25) and the chief justice may interrogate and dismiss such jurors as do not possess the qualifications required by law (section 26).

CRIMINAL CASES.

Criminal cases in which the punishment is by fine or imprisonment otherwise than in the penitentiary may be prosecuted by information (section 27) and criminal cases where the punishment is by fine only not exceeding $500 may be prosecuted by complaint as before justices of the peace. Any person committed for a criminal offense and not admitted to bail and not tried within four months from the date of arrest shall be set at liberty by the court unless the delay shall happen on the application of the prisoner or unless the court is satisfied that due exertion has been made to procure the evidence on the part of the people and that there is reasonable ground to believe that such evidence may be procured within the next sixty days, in which case the court may continue the case; but if the person is not tried within the sixty days he shall be set at liberty.

Section 28 prescribes the manner of serving summonses and writs which, with exceptions, is the same as in the Circuit court. No suit is to be begun unless the defendant lives in Chicago or, if a corporation, its principal office is in the city, or one or more of its representatives may be served with process within the city. No judgment shall in any case be rendered against any defendant served with process outside the city unless judgment be also rendered against a defendant served within the city.

In cases of the fourth and fifth class it is provided in section 29 that suit shall be brought in the district in which the defendant resides, or, if the defendant be a corporation, in the district in which its principal office is located; if it has no principal office in Chicago suit may be brought in any district in which service may be had upon any officer, agent or employee of the corporation. No suit shall be brought against the city of Chicago or any other municipality except in the first district.

Section 30 provides that every suit at law other than cases of the second and third class shall be tried by the court without a jury unless the plaintiff shall make a demand in writing for a trial by jury. In all cases tried by a jury (section 31) each party shall be entitled to a challenge of the same number of jurors without showing cause as are allowed in similar cases in the Circuit and Criminal courts. Section 32 relates to the filing of interrogatories in civil suits and section 33 provides for the examination of any person or officer or agent of any corporation party to or interested in the prosecution of any suit in the municipal court at the instance of the adverse party. Section 34 permits the court to require evidence in support of or in opposition to any interlocutory or other motion or application to be presented by the oral examination of witnesses in open court.

Any judge of the court may (section 35) sign any order in any pending suit at any place in the city upon application by either party and upon reasonable notice to the opposite party. Cases are to be tried in such order as may be arranged by the chief justice or by the rules of the court (section 36). In jury trials the court shall charge the jury as to the law only (section 37). Section 38 relates to the review of erroneous rulings and the disposition of bills of exceptions.

CHANGES OF VENUE.

Section 39 provides that not more than one judge can be named in an application for a change of venue for prejudice in cases of the fourth and fifth class or in criminal cases where the punishment is by fine or imprisonment otherwise than in the penitentiary. Changes of venue are not to be allowed to delay suits.

The manner of beginning suits in cases of the fourth and fifth class, the filing of precepts, the issuing and serving of summonses, the appearance of the defendants and postponements of trials are prescribed in sections 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46 and 47. Section 48 gives the rules for the practice and proceedings in cases of attachment, replevin, distress for rent and forcible entry and detainer, and section 49 prescribes the practice in quasi-criminal cases.

Section 50 provides that judges of the municipal, Superior or Circuit courts shall have power to admit to bail persons arrested for any criminal offense within the jurisdiction of the municipal court and in case of the arrest of any person for a quasi-criminal offense, or for any offense when the punishment is by fine or imprisonment otherwise than in the penitentiary, bail may be taken by the chief of police or any captain, lieutenant or sergeant of police. The manner of accepting bail is subject to such other rules as a majority of the judges may adopt.

Section 51 allows branch courts to make such rules as may be necessary in cases where the method of procedure prescribed in the act is insufficient, and section 52 provides that both in direct and collateral proceedings the same presumptions shall be indulged with respect to jurisdiction as are indulged with respect to the jurisdiction of Circuit courts in like cases. In section 53 it is provided that money judgments may be paid to the clerk of the court, and in section 54 that the municipal court shall take judicial notice of all matters of which courts of general jurisdiction of this state are required to take judicial notice; also of all municipal ordinances of Chicago and of every municipal corporation situated in whole or in part within the limits of Chicago, and of all laws of a public nature enacted by any state or territory. Masters of chancery of the Circuit and Superior courts of

Cook county are (section 55) ex officio masters of chancery of the municipal court.

COSTS IN CRIMINAL CASES.

Section 57 provides that the costs in criminal and quasi-criminal cases and proceedings in the municipal court instituted in the name of the people or of any state or county officers shall be:

fees allowed by law to justices of the peace for similar services and that the fees so collected and all costs collected in each week shall be paid over to the city of Chicago on the Monday of the following week.

OLD OFFICES ABOLISHED.

Section 60 declares that the offices of justices of the peace, police magistrates and constables in Chicago are abolished and that the jurisdiction of justices of the peace outside the limits of the city is limited to the territory of the county outside the city. This section of the act is not to become operative until the first Monday of December, 1906. Section 61 prescribes the method of transferring the dockets, papers, etc., of the justices to the municipal court.

In section 62 it is made the duty of the chief justice to prescribe abbreviated forms of entries of orders in the records of the court and in section 63 it is provided that the orders, judgments and decrees of the municipal court in cases of the first and second class shall be liens upon real estate. Section 64 provides that all other judgments of the municipal court shall have the same force, be of the same effect and be executed and enforced in the same manner as the judgments of the Circuit court.

It is provided in section 65 that in case it be hereafter determined that so much of sections 9 and 12 as fixes the terms of office of the judges is invalid, the act shall not on that account be judged wholly invalid, but the terms of office shall be four years and that all the judges shall be elected every fourth year.

Section 66 provides that the invalidity of any portion of the act shall not affect the validity of any other portion thereof, which can be given any effect, and the 67th and last section provides for submitting the act to the voters of Chicago for their approval in November, 1905.

At least fifteen days before each primary election the county clerk or the clerk of any city, village or town, as the case may be, shall prepare a notice of such election for each primary district, which notice shall give the time and place for holding the primary election, the hours when the polls will be open, the offices for which candidates are to be chosen, the political parties entitled to participate therein, and the number of delegates to which the primary district is entitled in the county convention of each party. Such notice is to be published in at least one newspaper and posted in conspicuous places.

The judges shall permit each different ticket of delegates to be represented by a challenger, who is to be permitted to remain within the polling place and be protected in the discharge of his duties by the judges of election and peace officers.

All necessary supplies, including registry poll-books and tally sheets, are to be supplied by the county, city, village or town clerk. The registry poll-book shall show in separate vertical columns the number of votes, name of voter, residence and party affiliation and shall be signed by the judges of the primary election. The names of all candidates upon the primary ballot shall be printed in type of a uniform size and style and the names shall be printed in a vertical column. Immediately in front of and opposite the name of each candidate shall be printed a square, and all squares shall be of uniform size. The primary ballot containing the names of candidates to be voted for shall contain the names of all delegates to the primary convention from such primary district and the names of candidates for primary committeemen.

No person shall vote at any primary election unless he is a legal voter and declares his party affiliation. Any person desiring to vote shall state his name, residence and party affiliations to the primary judges, one of whom shall announce the same in a distinct tone of voice sufficiently loud to be heard by those in the polling place.

The county committee and its officers of any county constituting a senatorial district shall be the official committee of such district.

Within twenty-four hours after the canvass has been completed the primary judges shall issue credentials to each one of the requisite number of candidates of each party for delegates to the county convention receiving the highest number of votes of their respective party. That is to say, where a political party in a primary district is entitled to one delegate credentials shall be issued to the candidate receiving the highest number of said party's votes. Where a political party is entitled to three delegates or to six delegates to the county convention credentials shall be issued to the three candidates or to six candidates, as the case may be, receiving the highest number of said party's votes.

When a county convention has been organized by the election of a chairman and other officers in the usual manner it shall be the duty of the secretary to ascertain from the tabulated statement of the returns if any candidate for a county office has received a majority of all the votes cast by his party in his county at the primary election. If it shall appear that any candidate has received such a majority he shall thereupon be declared duly nominated by the convention without the formality of a ballot. If the county central committee shall have authorized the nominations to be made by a plurality vote, then the candidate receiving the highest number of votes shall be declared the nominee. But in case no candidate shall have received a majority, then any candidate who shall have received the highest number of votes in the primary shall receive the votes of the delegates in the county convention and the votes of each of them unless the county committee in its call shall have provided for plurality nominations.

After the votes of a political party at a primary election shall have been counted by the judges, the tally sheets footed and the entry blank made in the registry poll-books, the ballots shall be strung upon a strong thread or wire in the order in which they have been read and then sealed up in a properly indorsed envelope. After the certificates of election and credentials have been made out the judges shall place all the sealed envelopes containing the ballots in a canvas bag, carefully sealed and secured. The envelope containing the returns and the canvas bag containing the ballots shall be delivered by one of the judges to the county, city, village or town clerk by 11 a. m. of the Monday following a primary election and the ballots and tickets shall be preserved for one year.

As soon as the returns are all in the county, city, village or town clerk, with the assistance of two justices of the peace, of opposite political parties if possible, shall without delay open all the returns and certify tabulated statements thereof separately for each political party, such statements to be delivered to the secretary of the county, city, village or town committee not later than 12 o'clock noon of the Wednesday following the primary. It is made the duty of such secretary to deliver the same to the next ensuing city, village, town, county, senatorial or congressional convention of his party. The county clerk of each county shall cause to be delivered to the secretary of state within eight days next after such convention the total vote cast for each candidate of the respective party for governor and United States senator in the respective county. The secretary of state shall deliver to the secretary of the state convention of the respective parties next following the primary the total vote by counties for each candidate for governor. It shall be the duty of the secretaries respectively of the county, senatorial, congressional and state conventions to read to the convention before any candidate is put in nomination the total vote, by counties, received by each candidate.

County judges are given jurisdiction of primary election contests, which may be begun by petition, the petitioner giving bonds for the payment of costs.

Any candidate other than a candidate for a county office who shall receive the highest number of votes cast in the primary shall be entitled to all the votes of the delegates from that county in the nominating convention. If it shall be ascertained in any convention that no candidate has a majority of the delegates and that a nomination is thereby made impossible, then the convention may by a majority vote of all the delegates release the delegates from instructions and each individual shall thereafter vote as he may determine.

No liquor shall be sold and no saloons shall be open during the holding of any primary. Whoever unlawfully votes more than once at any primary shall be fined in a sum not exceeding $1,000 or imprisoned in the county jail not exceeding one year, or both. Whoever abets one not legally qualified to vote in voting, deceives an elector with a wrong ballot, changes the ballot, prevents or attempts to prevent any voter from attending an election, or bribes or tries to bribe any judge or clerk of election shall be punished in like manner.

Any person who shall ask or receive money or anything of value to influence his vote or to be used to secure the vote of any other person or to be used at any poll for or against any candidate for office or for or against any measure to be voted on, shall be deemed guilty of bribery in elections and upon conviction shall be sentenced to disfranchisement for a term of not less than five nor more than fifteen years and to the county jail for not less than three months nor more than one year and to pay the cost of prosecution. The state board of equalization shall assess the capital stock of each company or association respectively now or hereafter incorporated under the laws of this state and which by this act are expressly required to be assessed by the state board of equalization in the manner hereinbefore in this act provided. But the state board of equalization shall not assess the capital stock of companies and associations organized for purely manufacturing and mercantile purposes or for either of such purposes, or for the mining and sale of coal, or for printing, or for the publishing of newspapers, or for the improving and breeding of stock. The respective assessments so made (other than the capital stock of railroad and telegraph companies) shall be certified by the auditor, under direction of said board, to the county clerk of the respective counties in which such companies or associations are located, and said clerk shall extend the taxes for all purposes on the respective amounts so certified the same as may be levied on the other property in such towns, districts, villages or cities in which any such companies or associations are located.

EMPLOYEES' PENSION FUNDS.

Approved May 16, 1905.

It is provided that the board of aldermen in cities having a population exceeding 100,000 shall have the power, and it shall be its duty, to create a municipal employees' pension fund, which shall consist of amounts retained from the salaries or wages of employees. The term employee under this act shall include all employees in the waterworks and water departments of such city receiving $65 a month or over. Nothing shall be deducted from the wages of those receiving less than $65 a month nor shall such persons participate in the benefits of the fund. The city treasurer shall be custodian of the pension fund, subject to the control of a board of trustees consisting of the mayor and comptroller and four employees contributing to the fund. This board is to determine the amount which shall be deducted from the wages or salaries, make payments, audit accounts, determine the amount to be paid as benefits or annuities, receive gifts or bequests, keep all records of the fund, make rules for the transaction of their business and hear and determine all applications for benefits. The amount of deduction from wages or salaries is not to be less than 1 per cent nor more than 2 per cent of the entire amount received per year by each employee and no benefit is to exceed 50 per cent of the salary or wages received by the beneficiary at the time of his or her retirement.

Any contributor to the fund who shall have attained the age of 50 years and shall have been in the service of the waterworks or water departments for twenty years and shall have contributed to the fund for ten years shall have the right to retire and become a beneficiary under the act, and in case of death the widow or minor children shall receive one-half the amount allowed the husband or father during his lifetime. Any person who has contributed to the fund for five years or more may retire from the service of the city on account of serious disability and become an annuitant for a period of two years, which may be extended upon proof of continued disability. Upon the death of any contributor who has not been a beneficiary under the act for more than three years, the trustee shall pay a sum not to exceed $300 to the widow or expend it for the benefit of minor children. If there be no widow or minor children and no one to look after the body the trustees may expend $300 for burial purposes. Any employee who has been contributing to the fund for five years or more and who shall be dismissed or resign may, upon application made within three months from the date of the dismissal or resignation, receive one-half of the total amount paid in by him. If he has been in the service twelve years he may continue the payment of his premiums until eligible to a benefit under the act.

Public Library Employees' Pension Fund (approved May 12, 1905)—This act is similar to that of which a synopsis has been given above, with these exceptions: It applies only to such employees as voluntarily accept its provisions; the trustees are five in number instead of six, the members being the president and secretary of the library board and three employees; the amount of the deduction from salaries for the fund shall not be less than $6 nor more than $48 a year for each employee; no benefit or annuity is to exceed $600 a year; any person who has been an employee of the library for twenty years or more and is a contributor to the fund may retire from service upon giving sixty days' notice and become an annuitant, provided such person has been a contributor for not less than five years or shall at the time of becoming a contributor pay the equivalent of five years' contribution thereto.

Firemen's Pension Fund (approved May 12, 1905)—The first section of the act enabling cities, towns and villages organized under any general or special law to levy and collect a tax or license fee from foreign insurance companies for the benefit of organized fire departments is amended so as to make the amount set aside for the pensioning of disabled and superannuated members of the fire department, and of the widows and orphans of deceased members of the fire department, 50 per cent of the sum collected instead of 25 per cent as heretofore.

FOREST PRESERVE DISTRICTS.

Approved May 18, 1905.

The act provides that any 1,000 voters residing within the limits of a proposed forest-preserve district may petition the county judge of the county, or in case the district lies in more than one county, then the county judges of all the counties concerned, to cause the question to be submitted to the legal voters of the district whether they will organize a forest preserve under the act. Upon the filing of the petition the judge or judges shall order an election on the date named in the petition. Where the district embraces two or more counties or parts thereof the petition must particularly describe the territory lying within each county.

Unless a majority of the votes cast in territory lying in each of said counties shall be in favor of the incorporation of said forest-preserve district the same shall not be incorporated. If a majority of the votes cast in each part of said district when the same lies partly within two or more counties or a majority of the votes cast in said district where the same lies wholly within one county shall be in favor of the proposed forest-preserve district, such proposed district shall thenceforth be deemed an organized forest-preserve district under this act.

The affairs of the forest-preserve district are to be managed by a president and six commissioners, not more than four of whom shall belong to the same political party, who, together with their successors, shall be appointed by the governor. The term of service is to be six years. The commissioners are to receive no pay, but the president is to have a salary not to exceed $2,500 a year.

The board of commissioners shall have power to designate by ordinance the whole or any part of such streets, roads, avenues, boulevards and highways in the district as public driveways to be used for pleasure driving only and to improve and maintain the same; also to lay out, establish, open, alter, widen, extend, grade, pave or otherwise improve and maintain such pleasure drives. Every district organized under the act shall have power to acquire by gift, grant, devise or purchase or by condemnation under any act of eminent domain any and all grounds and lands necessary for building, laying out and maintaining any such pleasure driveways and forest preserves as the board of commissioners may deem proper.

Power is given the forest-preserve district to raise money by general taxation to build and maintain pleasure driveways and forest preserves; also to borrow money on the credit of the district and issue bonds therefor for the payment of land condemned or purchased for forest preserves and driveways; but the district shall not, unless authorized by a vote of the electors of the district, become indebted to any amount exceeding in the aggregate 1 per cent of the value of the taxable property of the district. If an increase of indebtedness is authorized, such indebtedness, including the existing debt, shall in no case exceed 3 per cent of the value of the taxable property in the district. The aggregate amount of taxes levied for any one year, exclusive of the amount levied for the payment of the interest on the bonded indebtedness, shall not exceed the rate of 1 mill on each dollar of the aggregate valuation of property subject to taxation in the district.

A proposition to create "The Forest-Preserve District of Chicago," embracing Cook county, except the towns of Bloom, Rich, Thornton, Bremen, Orland, Elk Grove, Schaumberg, Hanover, Barrington, Palatine and the west half of the town of Wheeling, was submitted at the election Nov. 7, 1905. It received a majority of the votes cast on the question itself, but not a majority of all the votes cast at the election. This left the fate of the measure in doubt until the Supreme court could pass upon it.

ASSIGNMENT OF WAGES.

Law approved May 13, 1905.

An act in relation to the assignment of wages, income or salary.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the people of the state of Illinois represented in the general assembly: No assignment of wages or salary of any person shall be valid, so as to vest in the assignee any beneficial interest, either at law or in equity, unless such assignment shall be in writing, signed by the assignor and acknowledged in person by the assignor before a justice of the peace in and for the township in which the assignor resides and entered by such justice upon his docket, and unless within three days from the date of the execution and acknowledgment of such assignment a true and complete copy of said assignment and of the certificate of its acknowledgment shall be served upon the person, firm or corporation from whom such wages or salary is due or is to become due, in the same manner that the summons in chancery is now required by law to be served: Provided, further, that no assignment of wages or salary by a married person shall be valid unless the same is also executed and acknowledged, as above, by the assignor's wife or husband, as the case may be.

Sec. 2. The term "assignment" as used in this act shall include every assignment, transfer, sale, pledge, mortgage or hypothecation, however made or attempted, of the wages or salary of any person, or of any interest therein.

Sec. 3. Whenever any assignment of the wages or salary of any person or persons shall be given as security for a loan tainted with usury, or shall be given to secure the payment or fulfillment of a usurious contract or the payment of the principal or the interest of a usurious debt, such assignment shall be absolutely void.

Sec. 4. Every assignment of wages to be earned in whole or in part more than six

(6) months from and after the making of such assignment shall be absolutely void.

Sec. 5. Whenever any person, firm or corporation shall bring or threaten to bring any action or suit to enforce any assignment of wages or salary which has not been duly executed, acknowledged and served upon the employer in conformity with the provisions of this act, or which is declared invalid by the provisions of this act, courts of equity shall have full power, upon the application either of the assignor of such wages or salary, or of the person, firm or corporation from whom such wages or salary is or is to become due, to perpetually enjoin the threatened or attempted enforcement of any such assignment, and the fact that the complainant has a complete and adequate remedy at law shall constitute no defense to the maintenance of a suit in equity for the purposes aforesaid.

Sec. 6. The invalidity of any portion of this act shall not affect the validity of any other portion thereof which can be given effect without such invalid part.

ELECTION OF SANITARY TRUSTEES.

Approved May 11, 1905.

Section 3 of the act creating sanitary districts is amended so as to read: In each sanitary district organized under this act there shall be elected at the November election of 1905 nine trustees, three of which trustees shall hold their office for a term of one year, three for a term of three years and three for a term of five years and until their successors shall be elected and qualified. At every regular county election occurring after the year 1905 there shall be elected three trustees, who shall hold their offices for six years and until their successors shall be elected and qualified, to succeed those whose terms of office shall expire that year. In all elections for trustees each elector may vote for as many candidates as there are trustees to be elected, but no elector may give to such candidates more than one vote, it being the intent and purpose of this act to prohibit cumulative voting in the selection of the board of trustees of the sanitary district. Each elector in such sanitary district may vote for and designate (upon his ballot cast for trustees for said sanitary district) one of the candidates for trustee to be president of said board and the person so designated who shall receive the highest number of such votes shall be declared elected president of such board. The person so elected president of such board at the November election of 1905 shall hold office for a term of five (5) years and until his successor shall be elected and qualified. Any president of such board elected subsequent to the election of November, 1905, shall hold office for six (6) years and until his successor shall be elected and qualified. Such sanitary district shall, from the time of the first election held by it under this act, be construed in law and equity a body corporate and politic and by the name and style of the sanitary district of — and by such name and style may sue and be sued, contract and be contracted with, acquire and hold real estate and personal property necessary for corporate purposes and adopt a common seal and alter the same at pleasure.

Section 4 of the same act is amended so as to require the president of the board to sign all ordinances, rules and resolutions passed if approved by him, and to veto them if not approved. A two-thirds vote is required to override a veto.

Section 1 of the act is amended so as to require the sanitary district trustees to make an itemized report of all past transactions on or before Sept. 1, 1905, to the governor and the two branches of the legislature, and Nov. 30, 1906, and biennially thereafter to make full, accurate and itemized reports of all receipts and expenditures, together with copies of all contracts for future expenditures. The governor and either branch of the legislature is given the right to examine the books of the trustees. (Amendment to section 1 approved May 13, 1905.)

NAVAL RESERVE ARMORY IN CHICAGO.

Approved May 12, 1905.

The act recites that the state of Illinois has been paying an annual rental of $3,500 for a portion of the building at 20 Michigan avenue, Chicago, for use as an armory for the Illinois naval reserve, which building is liable to be torn down, and the further fact that the boathouse in the harbor basin near the foot of Randolph street has become dangerously insecure. Therefore,

Section 1. Be it enacted, etc.: That the governor of Illinois, the adjutant-general of the state of Illinois and the commander of the Illinois naval reserve are hereby authorized and empowered when the money necessary for the purpose shall have been raised by private subscription, to plan, construct, occupy and control an enlargement and reconstruction of the present boathouse of the Illinois naval reserves on piles to be driven in the water to the east and south of the present structure within an area not to exceed two hundred (200) feet, by three hundred (300) feet, as shown by the plat filed in the office of the adjutant-general of the state of Illinois.

Sec. 2. Said three officers shall make and authorize to be made the necessary contracts for the labor, material, building, fitting, equipping and furnishing of said structure necessary to properly accomplish the purposes of this act.

Sec. 3. After the completion of said enlarged structure the said three officers shall permanently retain control thereof and use the same as a boathouse and armory for the Illinois naval reserve and other military purposes.

Approved May 13, 1905.

Section 1. No suit or action at law shall be brought or commenced in any court within this state for damages against any incorporated city, village or town by any person for an injury to his person unless such suit or action be commenced within one year from the time such injury was received or the cause of action accrued.

Sec. 2. Any person who is about to bring any action or suit at law in any court against any incorporated city, village or town for damages on account of any personal injury shall, within six months from the date of injury, or when the cause of action accrued, either by himself, agent or attorney, file in the office of the city attorney (if there is a city attorney, and also in the office of the city clerk), a statement in writing signed by such person, his agent or attorney, giving the name of the person to whom such cause of action has accrued, the name and residence of person injured, the date and about the hour of the accident, the place or location where such accident occurred, and the name and address of the attending physician (if any).

Sec. 3. If the notice provided by Sec. 2 of this act shall not be filed as provided in said section 2, then any such suit brought against any such city shall be dismissed and the person to whom any such cause of action accrued for any personal injury shall be forever barred from further suing.

GAS AND ELECTRICITY IN CHICAGO.

Approved May 13, 1905.

An act to confer upon the city of Chicago the power and authority to sell surplus electricity and to fix the rates and charges for the supply of gas and electricity for power, heating and lighting furnished by any individual, company or corporation to said city of Chicago and the inhabitants thereof.

Section 1. That upon the adoption of this act in the manner hereinafter provided, the city of Chicago shall have the power and authority to sell surplus electricity for heat, light and power within the corporate limits of said city and is hereby empowered to prescribe by ordinance maximum rates and charges for the supply of gas and electricity for power, heating and lighting furnished by any individual, company or corporation to such city and the inhabitants thereof. Such rates and charges to be just and reasonable and may be fixed for a period not exceeding five years, and in case the corporate authorities of any such city shall fix unjust and unreasonable rates and charges, the same may be reviewed and determined by the Circuit court of the county in which said city is situated: Provided, that nothing in this act contained shall be construed as enlarging the powers now conferred by law upon said city to own, construct or acquire electric-lighting plants, or as permitting said city to sell electricity so long as the same is needed for light, heat and power for municipal purposes.

Sections 2 and 3 provide for the submission of the act to the electors of the city of Chicago for approval by a majority of those voting on the question.

THE INHERITANCE TAX IN ILLINOIS.

[By Levi S. Lewis, secretary interstate tax bureau.]

In 1895 the legislature of the state of Illinois enacted a statute imposing a tax on the right to inherit property which passes by will or by the intestate laws of Illinois from any person who may die possessed of the same, which property or any part thereof shall be within this state or any interest therein or income therefrom, which shall be transferred by deed, grant, sale or gift made in contemplation of the death of the grantor or bargainer or intended to take effect, in possession or enjoyment after such death, to any person or persons, or to any body politic or corporate in trust or otherwise. This statute provides that when the beneficial interests to any property or income therefrom shall pass to any father, mother, husband, wife, child, brother, sister, wife or widow of the son or husband of the daughter, or to any adopted child or children, the rate of the said tax shall be $1 on each $100 of the clear market value of such property received by each person and at the same rate for any less amount, provided that any estate that may be valued for an amount less than $20,000 shall not be subject to any such tax and in all such cases the tax is to be levied only upon the excess of $20,000.

When the property passes to any uncle, aunt, niece or nephew or to any lineal descendant thereof, the rate shall be $2 on each $100 of the value of the estate in excess of $2,000.

All other estates except those valued at a less sum than $500 are subject to a tax on each and every $100 of the clear market value thereof and at the same rates for any less amount, as follows, to wit: On all estates of $10,000 or less, $3; on all estates valued at more than $10,000 and not exceeding $20,000, $4; all estates of more than $20,000 and not exceeding $50,000, $5; and on all estates valued in excess of $50,000, $6.

It will be noticed that a few counties of inconsiderable population have contributed nothing, while Cook county contributed 82.83% of the sum total. This tax is contributed by those who feel the burden of taxation the least, and how light it has been figured per capita is shown by the fact that during the entire ten years the tax law has been in force it is less than 70 cents per capita for Cook county. In one county the inhabitants paid only a decimal in excess of two mills for the entire period, and the sum total of revenue which this method of taxation has contributed to the state of Illinois is less than 6% cents per capita per year, calculated on the basis of the population of 1900. The inheritance tax laws of the state of New York during the same years (1896-1904) yielded the considerable sum of $29,635,169.62, or something more than ten times the amount paid into the treasury of the state of Illinois.

The largest tax ever collected in the United States at one time from any source whatever was collected during the year 1900 pursuant to the transfer (inheritance) tax laws of the state of New York from the estate of one George Smith, late a resident of England. The net amount of this tax was nearly $2,000,000 ($1,934,753.07) being five per cent on something over $40,000,000, less fees and costs of collection.

The 10th district also includes the towns of Evanston, Niles, New Trier and Northfield and Lake county.

The 7th district also includes towns of Hanover, Schaumburg, Elk Grove, Malic, Leyden, Barrington, Palatine, Wheeling and Norwood Park.

The 6th district also includes towns of Proviso, Riverside, Stickney and Lyons and villages of Oak Park and Berwyn.

Heavy black lines and figures indicate boundaries and numbers of congressional districts. Light black lines and figures indicate boundaries and numbers of wards.

The Art Institute was incorporated May

Field, Murry Nelson, Charles D. Hamill,

Ferd. W. Peck and George E. Adams, for the founding and maintenance of schools of art and design, the formation and exhibition of collections of objects of art and the cultivation and extension of the arts of design by any appropriate means. A building was erected at a cost of $785,000 and was first occupied Nov. 1, 1893. The ownership is vested in the city of Chicago, while the right of use and occupancy is vested in the Art Institute so long as it shall fulfill the purposes for which it was organized.

The art museum now ranks among the first three or four in the country. It contains the Henry Field collection of paintings, which is especially strong in works of modern French masters; the Demidoff collection of old masters, chiefly of the Dutch school, and in addition numerous American and other paintings secured by purchase or gift. There is also a large and comprehensive collection of reproductions of sculpture, the greater part of it having been donated by Mrs. A. M. H. Ellis. Reproductions of antique bronzes, of objects found at Pompeii and Herculaneum and of Egyptian antiquities are numerous, while many other fields of art are well represented.

The Institute has a library of 4,000 volumes devoted exclusively to art.

The school of instruction in art practice includes departments of painting, sculpture, decorative designing and architecture. There are day and evening classes for beginners and for advanced pupils. The instructors number about 70 and the pupils will average about 2,000 a year. The tuition fees are as follows: Day school, full time for one term of twelve weeks, $25; full time for one month, $10; four days a week, for one term, $23; three days a week, for one term, $20; two days a week, for one term, for one term, $6; Saturday class, one

RECREATION BUILDINGS IN PARKS.

Recreation buildings with assembly halls have been constructed in Mark White, Davis, Armour and Cornell squares, and Sherman, Ogden, Hamilton, Bessemer and Palmer parks. These buildings contain each a gymnasium for men and a gymnasium for women with suitable shower baths and plunge baths, clubrooms and a large assembly hall seating from 300 to 1,200 people. In Cornell square, Davis square and Hamilton park the Chicago public library has established branches from which books are distributed. In each of the buildings there is a reading room and lunch counter. In connection with the buildings on the outside are indoor gymnasiums for the use of men, women and children. Also in connection with the buildings in all of the parks there is a swimming pool for summer use.

CHICAGO STREET RAILWAY FRANCHISES.

In 1865 the Illinois legislature passed an act by the terms of which the charters of the North Chicago City Railway and the Chicago West Division Railway companies and the rights granted them in the streets of Chicago were extended for a period of ninety-nine years. The companies named became a part of the Union Traction company organized by Charles T. Yerkes in 1899 and which, in April, 1903, went into the hands of receivers. When it was sought to secure improved street-car service and to compel the companies to accept new franchises on terms more favorable to the city, the attorneys for the Union Traction company urged the United States Circuit court to enforce the claims under the ninety-nine year act. May 28, 1904, Judge Peter S. Grosscup announced as the decision of the court that as to all lines built under ordinances passed before May 3, 1875, when the city was incorporated under the new constitution, the ninety-nine-year-act claim was valid and that the company had the right to operate such lines until Feb. 14, 1958. As to lines built under ordinances passed after May 3, 1875, the court held that the rights of the company ended with the expiration of the twenty-year term of the "compromise" ordinance of 1883. As to certain other lines the company had the right to operate them until the city bought or found a purchaser for them. The decree of court so far as it related to the lines of the old Chicago West Division railway was entered in March, 1905. It defined the franchise rights as follows:

It is Superior Copper-Mixed Type
Cast on Barnhart's Lining System

Superior Copper-Mixed Type is, first and last, the hardest, toughest, most accurate, lightest, finest finished, most artistic, most durable type made. So say our customers; so said the award committee at the Chicago World's Fair.

The Barnhart Lining System—the system that's Point-Line, Point-Set, Point-Body—the system that cuts out kerned descenders the press will break—the system with perfectly graded sizes—the system allowing the largest use of two-point leads in justifying different sizes together. Ask us about this.

Superior Copper-Mixed Type gives you the greatest value for your money. It costs no more than other type; but it's worth lots more.

WHEN THESE THREE AUTOPLATES

were installed in the plant of The Chicago Daily News it represented the largest single order for Autoplates ever given.

They enable The News to plate up its magnificent battery of 14 sextuple presses in less time than ever before—to reduce running expenses, to hold want ad forms and news columns open longer and to lighten the labors of its stereotypers.

These are some of the results which can be obtained by any great paper which abandons the obsolete, labor-straining, time-losing hand-box method of casting plates and installs Autoplates instead.

No other piece of newspaper machinery yields so much profit in both direct and indirect returns as does the Autoplate. This is the universally held opinion of all who use them.
